WALKING SCHEDULE GIVEN.—The weekly walk of the Hi-Yu-He-He, formerly Wolverines, today, starts promptly at 8 P. M., from Council Crest and will follow the County road to Capitol Hill, where they will take the 10:25 Oregon Electric car back to the city. For the monthly long-distance walk last Saturday they left Chapman and Jefferson streets at 12:20 A. M., arriving at Porest Grove at 6:50 Sunday morning, where they were entertained at the home of Miss Eunice Place, a member of the H.-Yu-He-He's. Friday, August 29, a basket supper will be substituted for the monthly bonfire. Meeting at Second and Morrison streets at 6:15 P. M., they will take the Mount Tabor car to Mount Tabor Park. Miss A. Isom is in charge.

First Starts as Policy Layses.—On the day when her insurance policy expired, Mrs. Fannic Caplan, living at Front and Gibbs street, dropped a match in a closet, before daylight yesterday and later found the adjoining room in flames. Only by quick work did she rescue her year-old daughter, and a boy, 7 years old, confined by a broken leg. The first was confined to a small space and did comparatively small damage.

Oneon Booklars Used in School.—In Nevada the school teachers are using the publications of the Portland Chamber of Commerce as text books in teaching geography of this part of the country. Officials of the Chamber have had frequent requests for copies of the Warren Construction Company for the poklats. The most recent one came from Miss Nia Sullivan, of Carson City, who declares she has found the Orgon booklets invaluable in her work.

"I got a fine room, too," he added. "No. 52700, North Pacific Terminal Yards. If you can anyway let me have $2.50 or even $2, send it right sway, for I am dying to sleep in a bed." McCain was picked up with a negro and girl who are held on white slavery charges. He convinced the court that he was harmless and was allowed an opportunity to go to work.

Miss Jule Power.

Once again local talent comes to Portland. This time it is Jule Power, who was born in a little cottage at Fourth and Yamhill streets, the present site of a large hard ware establishment. Miss Power was a schoolmate of Jules Eckert Goodman, the playwright, at the Ladd School, and later was graduated from St. Mary's Academy.

Judge Stevenson Imposes Jail Sentences on Offenders.

A. B. COX LATEST VICTIM

Citizens, Police and Municipal Court Co-operate to Put an End to Reckless Driving on Streets of Portland.

JAIL SENTENCES FOR SPEED-ERS IMPOSED BY JUDGE STEVENSON.

Wencel Webber, baker, ten days for speeding motorcycle and knocking down old man; serving W. R. Anderson, medical stu-dent, five days for speeding through traffic district while under influence of liquor; appealed. F. W. Houghton, auto dealer, five days for going at rate of 50 miles an hour on Williams avenue.

Under belief that reckless speeding of motor vehicles can be broken up by a consistent policy of severity in aggravated cases, Municipal Judge Stevenson imposed yesterday his fourth jail rentence within a week for al offense of this character. The defendoffense of this character. The defendant was A. B. Cox, a young painter, who was caught by Patroiman Gouldsione, going down Williams avenue at the rate of 50 miles an hour. He had covered more than 10 blocks at this rate when the officer checked him. Cox admitted that he was beyond the limits and that he knew it. He said his motorcycle was in such a condition that he could operate it only on tion that he could operate it only on the high gear.
