

FIREMAN OVERCOME BY DOWNY SMOKE

Stubborn Blaze in Basement of Phoenix Building Does Damage Near $35,000.

FLAMES HARD TO REACH

Bishop Printing Establishment and L. C. Smith Typewriting Agency at Fifth and Oak Heaviest Losers—Block Has History.

A stubborn fire in the basement of the Phoenix building, at the southwest corner of Fifth and Oak streets and directly across from the Portland Commercial Club building, was subdued last night only after a two-hour fight in which the crews of 13 engine companies, four trucks and one chemical engine, took part. The fire was forced back by the hot and smothering vapor that poured into their faces.

One Fireman Overcome.

One fireman, a ladderman of truck 1, named Threese, swallowed too much of it and was overcome. He was dragged into the street and resuscitated.

Though the fire threatened for more than an hour to break out of the cellar and climb up through the five upper floors of the building, a brown brick structure owned by B. Hagerdorn, it was confined principally to the basement and first floor. The loss, it was estimated late last night, will be between $20,000 and $25,000, partially insured. The stock of the typewriter agency, valued at about $10,000, was wrecked when flames burned through the floor from the cellar and shot up into the room. Firemen drenched the place with three streams for five minutes before this fire was quenched.

Smoke Is Heavy.

For the first half hour no flame was visible. The firemen were up against the problem of feeling for the source of the smoke. Even the hardest "smoke eaters" in the department could not stand up long against the acrid fumes.

Thirteen engines pumped water by the ton into the cellar. In the meantime smoke coming out the windows of the upper stories led many to suppose that flames had shot up the elevator shaft and were gaining headway there. The fire at no time, however, established a foothold above the first floor, though at one crisis it looked as if it had got beyond control.

Parked Autos in Way.

It was after 9 o'clock before the fire was finally under control and nearly 200 cars were crowded out of the street.

After Detectives Vaughn and Hyde had turned in the alarm, three automobiles standing in front of the building in Oak street and two others in front of the Commercial Club building out of danger. After starting one of the cars Vaughn found he didn't know how to stop it. He drove it into a curb. The fire attracted a big crowd of people. The police established lines at Sixth and Oak and on the east side of Fifth street, across which no one was permitted to come. Many watched the blaze from the upper stories of the Commercial Club and from the first floor entrance.

Building Has Fire History.

The moment firemen learned that last night's alarm was for a fire in the basement of the Phoenix building they set themselves for a hard night's work. It was the fourth basement fire in this same building within six years, according to firemen, that the department has had to combat in Fifth.

It almost seems as if a fatality hangs over the basement. Previous fires have been hard ones to fight, at least one of them being worse than that last night. In addition to the Bishop printing plant and the Smith typewriter agency, the office of the Sunset Realty company, a small cigar store, and the Hol-Holton saloon were damaged in Oak street. Nominal damage from smoke and water was done to the offices of the Holman Fuel Company and the Enunciator Company, fronting in Fifth.

Insurance Just Lapsed.

J. D. Holton, proprietor of the saloon, had bought a month ago and let his insurance lapse only three days ago. His loss will not exceed $1000. Other losses were nominal. When the fire seemed most likely to take the whole building, with smoke so thick in Oak street that one could see only a few feet, a thirsty stranger wandered into Holton's saloon and tried to get a drink. With flames hardly 20 feet away from him at the moment the proprietor had his mind on other things and ignored the request.

This so incensed the man of the ragging throat that he set in to help himself. Holton called Patrolman Schirmer who ejected the stranger without his drink.

THE dainty manicure girl did not blush prettily and the male patron before her did not smile and attempt flirtation. There were no tempting-looking boxes of powder, no little chamomile brushes and rags, no glistening, sharp little silver-handled nail instruments. There wasn't even a clean, white-clothed table nor a small bowl of water. This was a manicuring job that was different.

Instead, Nero, the 12-year-old lion captive in Washington Park was crowded into a specially constructed box, and then he was pushed up to one side with a big board.

Nero waxed mighty wroth, during the crowding process, and he savagely bit the board in two. A hickory ax handle, used in the operation, was fiercely gnawed, too.

A clash occurred yesterday between the police and Peter McIntosh, chief probation officer of the Juvenile Court, over two youths arrested by the police Thursday night on a charge of burglarizing a small grocery store on Milwaukee avenue. It ended by Mr. McIntosh curtly informing the two patrolmen who made the arrest that they were to be taken to the court.

YOUTHS MUST STAND TRIAL

The moment firemen learned that last night's alarm was for a fire in the basement of the Phoenix building they set themselves for a hard night's work. It was the fourth basement fire in this same building within six years, according to firemen, that the department has had to combat in Fifth.

COGS SHOWN TO NEWSPAPERMEN

Sights Along Portland, Eugene & Eastern Hold Writers and Train Is Delayed.

AID PROMISED TO FARMERS

Move for Cannery at McMinville and Monument to Late Harvey W. Scott at Pacific University Started on Trip.

DALLAS, Or., Aug. 15.—(Special.)—It is a cosmopolitan crowd of newspaper men that is touring the Willamette and tributary valleys as guests of Robert E. Strahorn, president of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway and his associated officials. A poll of the party tonight reveals three Scandinavians, three Germans, two Americans, two Jews, an Italian and a few who were born in the United States. Rivalry between the various races is intense.

A contest has developed between the Scandinavians and the Irish for the story-telling honors. The Scandinavians would be easy winners, but they don't do the team work like the Irish. The trouble is that Bill Strandberg and H. J. Langoe continuously try to "job" J. L. Wallin, allowing John T. Dougan, George O'Connor and P. E. Sullivan to take the money.

The special train was about two hours behind schedule most of the way today, and it is largely the fault of the delay at Hillsboro this morning because so interested in the scenery that he remained to feast his eyes on it for more than an hour.

Sheeridan Rising From Ashes. Judge Sheeridan caused another delay at Sheridan this afternoon. While touring the orchard adjoining the town he met an old friend, H. B. Miller, ex-Consul-General to Japan, and he remained to gossip with him for a good half hour. Meanwhile the other travelers marveled at the remarkable reconstruction work the people of Sheridan are doing following their fire of less than a month ago.

At Forest Grove the newspaper men inaugurated a movement to erect a monument on the campus of Pacific University in honor of the late Harvey W. Scott, who was the first graduate of that institution.

A meeting will be held at McMinville early next month at which this plan will be given further impetus. Officials of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern are aiding the enterprise.

While the special train waited on a siding at Broadmead this afternoon the entire party invaded a meeting of the Forestry Society and insisted on being photographed with the women.

BRICKMAKING METHOD LEARNED.

Probably the most interesting event of the day was the visit to Williamsburg of the day was the visit to Williamsburg. The travelers learned how brick and tile are made. The plan of the brick factory was shown to the party. The factory is one of the largest brick factories in the Pacific Coast, and is thoroughly equipped. One hundred workmen were busy on an order of 300,000 faced brick for the new Northwestern National Bank building in Portland.

Dr. James Douglas, veterinary surgeon, and Charles Herriman, zoo tender, did the work. It is the second time the big fellow has been manacled and he didn't like it a little bit. On the previous occasion the lion's nails had grown so long that one of them caused a festering sore on his foot.

There will be a Scotchman in the gang. The boys are looking for the largest individual in the Agricultural College tomorrow with much interest. They will be in Eugene tomorrow night.

HILLSBORO EXTENDS HOSPITALITY.

MEMBERS of the Commercial Club met this morning, carrying Portland newspapermen, and took them for an auto drive through the Oregon Nursery holdings, three miles east of the city, and then to the celebrated North Tualatin Plains station, where wheat is threshing 45 bushels to the acre and where the famous Bagley hopyard, one of the largest individual hop yards in the county is located. They passed an hour and 15 minutes in and around Hillsboro, visiting each bank, and inspecting the handsome new quarters of the Commercial Club.

GLYNN REFUSES TO DEAL

I am advised and believe does specifically and completely cover the juncture now existing and is supplemented by statutes passed by the Legislature now in force.

"It is beyond my power to barter away any of the functions attaching to the office in which I am placed by my impeachment. Any attempt on my part to do so or to stipulate a method by which it might be done would properly place me in the position you now occupy—that of being impeached for malfeasance in office. I cannot and will not attempt to do it.

"Lower Courts" Spurned. The entire matter is now in the highest court of the state—the court of impeachment. No order that any lower court could make, no judgment that it could render, would have the slightest binding force upon this high court. No member of the Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court, can in any degree nor under any circumstances interfere with the jurisdiction or decision of such court of impeachment save, and save only, as the members of the Court of Appeals shall cast their individual votes as such members of the court.

CHIEF JUDGE OF THE COURT OF APPEALS

from exercising his functions as such Chief Judge.

All Stipulations Refused. "The Constitution has fixed this as the only way for the settlement of the matters now pending. I know of no other, and I must therefore decline to enter into any stipulation whatever with you on the subject. I hold myself in readiness to perform and shall perform every function of the office of Governor, except insofar as I am restrained by your illegal action or by physical force."

The doors of the executive suite at the capitol were securely locked to-night, while guards paced up and down with guns on the subject. I hold myself in readiness to perform and shall perform every function of the office of Governor, except insofar as I am restrained by your illegal action or by physical force."

Mr. Glynn wrote the Governor early today demanding the records of the office. His letter said:

"In the performance of the duty which has devolved on me by article 11, section 1, of the Constitution, I officially demand that you deliver and surrender to me, as acting Governor, during the period of your constitutional disability to act as Governor, the executive chamber and offices; and that you likewise deliver and surrender to me the executive privy seal of the State of New York, and also all books, papers, records and documents in said chamber or offices or elsewhere in your charge, possession or custody, relating to or in any wise connected with or pertaining to the executive department. The bearer hereof is authorized to receive your answer to this communication."

Sulzer Proposes Terms. Sulzer addressed Mr. Glynn as "Lieutenant-Governor" in replying, and said: "In response thereto, I decline to recognize you as Acting Governor of the state, and decline to deliver to you the executive chamber and offices, or in any way comply with the demands and requests in your letter."

"For the purpose of preventing any unnecessary struggle, I suggest that counsel for the Lieutenant-Governor and for myself agree on a method of submitting the question to the courts for decision; and for that purpose that extraordinary session of the court be forthwith called, in order that a speedy determination may be had."

Mrs. Sulzer Delirious. The serious condition of Mrs. Sulzer tonight necessitated the recall of Dr. Abraham from New York. No official bulletin was forthcoming tonight from the executive mansion concerning Mrs. Sulzer, but an afternoon bulletin dictated by Dr. Abraham, after he had learned of the patient's condition over the telephone, said that she was "still in a precarious condition," with a temperature of 102 and pulse 115.

It is delicious at times and an increasing temperature and fluctuating pulse tonight so alarmed those at her bedside that a local physician was hurriedly summoned from New York.

SUICIDE TAKES PRECAUTION

Unidentified Man Found Hanging at Salem With Noose Padded.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 15.—(Special.)—Padding the noose with cotton and velvet so it would not "hurt" his neck, an unidentified man committed suicide in a woodshed in the rear of John Madden's home, five miles east of this city. The body was found late today by Mr. Madden's children and was brought to Salem by Coroner Clough. Nothing found in the suicide's clothing gives a clue to his identity.

"The man was about six feet tall, slender and smoothly shaven," said the Coroner. "He wore a striped shirt and gray trousers. His hair was brown and his face dark."
