Bridge Carries Great Traffic.—All through last week the Burnside bridge all that were routed over the railroad bridge, are now passing over the Burnside bridge with the result that there is a continuous stream of streetcars using this bridge, resembling a train of cars extending from one side to the other. This traffic will be carried until the railroad bridge has been repaired and the Broadway bridge is opened to street railway traffic. Vehicle traffic on the Burnside bridge was resumed last week. The new draw with the rew track has worked without a hitch superintendent Marnane says that the Burnside bridge is in better condition than ever before.

As a result of the fresh-air move-ment, permanent homes have been found for a large number of the city's orphans. McMinnville took 50 children last Friday, then sent a hurry-up request for about 17 more, and the second party went on Saturday. There was a wild scramble to get them together and scramble to get them together and provide each youngster with clean clothes, shoes and other necessaries. The officers of the Associated Charitles and the members of the Junior League had their hands full; but the "kiddles" were so happy and behaved so beautifully that they minimized the trouble.

so beautifully that they minimized the trouble.

"It is wonderful how well the girls of the league have managed their part of the work," said one of the leaders in the movement. "They were all unused to such tasks and have done so well, and the finest part of it all is that they refuse to take any praise. They are just working for the least of these." One of the girls said she could never be the same again—her heart had been so touched by the great suffering she had seen in some of the poverty-stricken homes, in the hasements and attics, where cleanliness and happingss were unknown."

Donations for the cause are coming in still, and as there are yet large numbers of children wanting and needing a vacation, the work will continue until school begins.

Moving Pictures Bad For the Eyes

The time is not far off when the movies" will either be obliged to discover some method of giving color to their pictures or give up their ousiness. As it is now, the crude light vibrations are certainly productive of nervous headaches, partial paralysis of the optic nerve and disorders within the center of the lead of every individual having the habit of attending these shows. The whole secret of these nervous disorders lies in the fact that the rays of light producing the pictures are totally lacking in color and they are not caused, as is erroneously supposed, by the "flicker" of light on the screen.

The principle is the same as snow blindness, dizziness and other disagreeable features caused by traveling over a field of snow in the bright sunlight.

I have found that over 50 per cent of my patients who suffer from nervous headaches are frequenters of the moving-picture shows. To avoid serious eye trouble I would suggest that no more than two shows a week be
