almost a daily habit.

For days rumors have been current that General Huerta would resign, or that he would at least accede to enough of Washington's demands to lead to a continuation of the negotiations.

A cabinet minister said today that General Huerta was determined not to quit office and appears to believe that the pacification of the country could yet be accomplished by him. As a proof of the progress already made in this direction, the Department of War refers to the reports of Federal victories in various parts of the republic and charvarious parts of the republic and characterizes the stories of rebel successes

The minister of finance professes faith in the happy outcome of the negotiations with London or European bankers in an endeavor to obtain $20.800,000, but it is said generally that even should this loan fail there remains as a last resort the possibility of raising money in Mexico through increased taxes paid in advance. This plan has been seriously dicussed.

In any case, the Mexican government believes it can get money in some manner to carry its campaign to a conclusion and is inclined to regard President Wilson's policy in a light not altogether unfavorable, since it will result in the cutting off of supplies to the rebels—a thing upon which the Mexican government has always insisted the United States has been iax.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—Commencing September 1. San Francisco is to have a new evening paper. While to date there has been official anouncement, it is thought that in place of the Morning Call, which was bought by M. H. de Young, of the Chronicle, an evening paper will be established.

It has already been made known that the new paper will have the Hearst news service and some of the Hearst features. While there has been a general denial that William Randolph Hearst is the owner, that seems to be the accepted idea.

ment has always insisted the United States has been lax.

So far as the protection of foreigners is concerned, Mexico takes the stand that she will do all in her power to guarantee this. This refusal of the United States to permit arms and ammunition to reach the Mexican government through American sources will not be such a serious handicap to General Huerta, as he has aiready begun the purchase of supplies from Japan and has long been receiving consignments from Germany and Spain.

The Mexican government is silent on the message. The Minister of Foreign Affairs, Frederico Gamboa, was advised by private message of the delivery and contents of the message. Wisdom of Wilson's Policy.

LONDON, Aug. 28 .- The Londo morning papers, commenting on Presi-dent Wilson's message, are not alto-gether sanguine of the wisdom or suc-cess of President Wilson's policy, but are agreed that it is almost certain to lead to American intervention, there-lead to American intervention, therefore indicating that a grave crisis has been reached.

The Morning Post says:

"President Wilson will have his hands full if he sets himself up as the censor of morals for the Presidents of Latin America, and if the United States accepts the duty of supporting the duly elected President, Mexico would become in fact, if not in name, an American protectorate."

The Express says:

"President Wilson is not the man to bluff on such a question. From his stern and explicit message it is clear that Mexico must climb down or fight. If the former, she admits American that Mexico must climb down or fight. If the former, she admits American suscrainty, if the latter, she may lose her independence altogether. Great Britain has large interests and much to lose by war, but it is difficult to understand how British sympathy could be otherwise bestowed than on the United States."

"hands off" to awa? the time of Mexico's awakening.

He also voiced an argent appeal for all Americans to leave Mexico and for the United States to aid them in every possible way, but in emphatic language served notice on those who assume to exercise authority in the revolution-torn country that they would be held to a definite reckoning for losses and suffering of American citizens.

The message of the Fresident was received with enthusiastic applause by members of the House and Senate, members of the House and Senate, gathered in joint session in the House chamber, and tonight the machinery of the Government is in motion for making effective the policy of neutrality and "hands off," while warring factions continue their struggle.

To prevent the shipment of arms or munitions of war into any part of Mexico or to any faction, the United States troops on the border already have been warned to exercise increased vigilance. Whether more troops will be sent to the border is a question to be determined within the next few days. Major-General Wood, chitef of staff of the Army, who has been inspecting the troops in Texas, already is on his waysto Washington. The President's urgent request to Americans in Mexico to leave the country emphasized to Congress the necessity for action upon the recent request of Secretary Bryan for an appropriation of $100.000 with which to aid citizens of the United States in their exodus from the scene of conflict. Such an appropriation is included in a deficiency bill now in the hands of the House appropriations committee and it is expected that action on it will be hastened. The State Department estimates that there are now in Mexico no more than 15,000 Americans, whereas there were 60,000 several years ago. In Mexico City it is estimated that there are fewer than 2000 Americans.

several years ago. In Mexico City it is estimated that there are fewer than 2009 Americans.

The diplomatic relations between the two countries, it is understood, will romain as they are at present, each country maintaining as embassy without official recognition, presided over by a charge d'affaires. Though the President told Congress that everything this Nation did in the situation confronting it must be "rooted in patience and done with calm, disinterested deliberation," he had no word of rebuke for Mexico and reached the determination to maintain strict neutrality after having presented the whole situation to the members of the foreign relations committee in Congress. Not an essential detail did the President withhold in his presentation of the case for the public, publishing also to the world the reply of the Mexican government to Mr. Lind. Everything that Mexico has said to this Government in response to the proposals was made public, including the Huerta alternative that nothing could be welcomed except unrestricted recognition of his government.

After he had concluded his message and listened to the applause which greeted it, the President returned to the White House to await its effect. He believed that it would be beneficial.

WILL R. KING IN SALEM Examination of Irrigation Projects Being Made

SALEM Or., Aug. 27 .- (Special.) SALEM, Or., Aug. 27.—(Special.) — Will R. King, formerly a Justice of the Supreme Court of Oregon, recently appointed chief counsel for the United States Reclamation Service, who has been in the West about one month making an investigation of irrigation projects, was in the city today on his way to Portland. He visited projects in Nebraska, Colorado, Utah and Nevada and will make investigations of others on his way back to Washington.

Mr. King says the Reclamation Service is accomplishing excellent results and that the present Administration is giving close attention to the develop-ment of the West and Northwest.

The Daily Mail, in ironical vein, declares that what the Washington Government most needs is a policy and asks whether President Wilson supposes that if the American citizens in Mexico managing public utilities representing $50,00,000 can put the railways and tramways in their pockets when they leave or whether they are to leave them behind. It says that the message should be quite popular in Mexico.

The Times asks why the Washington Government fails to take the simple and effective course, following the European example of recognizing Pressules.
