Registration for Opening Day in Portland Slightly Below Number in 1912.

HIGH SCHOOLS SHOW GAIN

Superintendent's Assistants Expec Attendance to Increase Substantially With End of Hoppicking Season and First Rain.

That there will be considerable increase in the attendance of the public schools of Portland, which opened yesterday morning, although the figures reported from the various schools for the first day showed only 23,664 pupils enrolled as against 23,766 last year, on the opening day, is the belief of school officers. In the office of Superintendent Alderman, however, there was no such word as "worry." while his assistants looked over the enrollment and after an analysis announced that the regis-tration at the end of this week will show a materially greater total than that of the first week last year. It was simply a case of the sunshine militating against the opening-day registration, they declare.

Fine Weather Blamed. The rainy season began early in Sep tember last year and drove everybody back into the city from the hopyards, the seashore and the mountains. The registration was unusually heavy on the opening day. This year there are some hundreds of children still out in the country who will not come home until the hoppicking season is at an end.

picking season is at an end.

The high schools showed the most reassuring figures yesterday. Lincoln had 365 on the first day last year as against 1156 this year and Jefferson fumped from 901 to 1005. Washington High School was crowded to its capacity last year with 1190 students and this year had a registration of 1005, while many of the students who applied for admission had to be sent over to the other high schools, owing to the to the other high schools, owing to the lack of room at Washington,

Loss in Smaller Districts. In the larger schools within the cen-tral sections of the city the attendance shows an almost unvarying increase, the failing off being chiefly in the smaller districts. This is expected to be more than made up within the next two or three days. A striking example of growth is shown in the Vernon School, which has Innovation to Be Tried Out at more than held its own and opened with a registration of 648 as against last year's 635, in spite of the fact that the new Kennedy School, which opened this year, takes its entire registration practically out of a district which formerly supplied Vernon. The opening attendance in the Trades School has jumped from 277 to

By Friday registration for the entire city is expected to show an increase of from 800 to 1000 over the registration on the corresponding date of last year, and if a rainy day comes before that time, the expected increase in the enrollment may come sooner

Proposal to Make School Demonstration Center for Modern Programme, if Success, Will Be Tried in Other Districts.

At Irvington school yesterday morn-ing "three cheers and a tiger" greeted Principal Elmer Brown's announcement that there were to be open-air departments, half day sessions, excur-sions to factories and points of interest and numerous other innovations After repeated requests from the resi-dents of the district and many appeals from the Parent-Teacher Association of Irvington the School Board decided to make the school a demonstration cen-ter, and if the new plans succeed they will be adopted in other parts of the will be adopted in other parts of the city.

"The eyes of all Portland will be upon us," said Mr. Brown. "and we must do our best with the trust that has been placed in our hands." He then proceeded to explain to the children how the heavy studies would all come in the morning and that the afternoons would be devoted to rainting, singing, sewing and all the inceresting etcetera that make modern school life attractive. When the children were told that attendance at the afternoon sessions would be "optional" the little fellows in the baby class looked fellows in the baby class looked alarmed, for that sounded serious, but they soon discovered that the good principal meant them no harm.

Open Rooms Planned.

The Irvington school is light and airy and well located to try out the new schemes. The northwest and southwest rooms on the second floor are to be so remodeled that practically one whole side of the room will be opened out to admit the fresh air, Dur-ing the rainy weather the room will be closed and heated at night to pre-vent any dampness, and in very bad one whole side of the room will be vent any dampness, and in very bad weather the room can be adjusted so as to protect the occupants.

as to protect the occupants.

There were several mothers in attendance at the school yesterday and many members of the Parent-Teacher Association. O. M. Plummer gave a short address following the principal's talk and urged the children to invite their parents to attend the mass-meeting that is to be held in the assembly hall of the school tomorrow evening.

Announcements of this meeting were given to each child. The fathers as well as the mothers are asked to attend the mothers are asked to attend the protection frontier show when they got back to Portland yesterday:

Advice is Sought.

The approval, criticism and advice of the district will be heard of the residents of the district will be heard by the board, and if the large attendance at the Irvington school and the manifested interest is any criterion the half-day session, the open-air rooms and the extra attention given to the clay modeling and basketry for the tiny tots and the improvements in manual training and domestic science will make the school one of the leading institutions from a progressive viewpoint.

Frank J. McGettigan, of the Empress theater—"It was a great show. I have never seen anything like it in the amusement line. The feature of the Roundup is that there is nothing mechanical about it; every event is spontaneous and the spectator is kept in a high state of tension. It was the first time I ever knew that a cowboy bit his horse's ears to control the animal. The crowds were immense and for enthusiasm I never saw anything to beat it."

R. L. Stevens—"I saw the Roundup is the tension of the Roundup were was nothing uninteresting or obnoxious in the whole show."

Judge R. G. Morrow—I was charmed and delighted with the Roundup. It was particularly taken with the extraordinary and remarkable beauty of the Indian costumes and decorations. They were the finest I ever head of the finest I ever places—a front room upstairs, another just below it on the first floor and a third at the rear of the building.

Jury Convicts Vid Radisch of Part in Saloon Row.

Fall Salmon Catch Light.

A jury in Judge Cleeton's court last night returned a verdict of guilty against Vid Radisch, indicted for shooting John Coroka during a row at the whitehouse saloon, in Albina, on the night of June 23. The penalty is from six months to 10 years in the penitentiary.

The row which ended in the shooting started in a dispute over a patron of the saloon who was biting pieces out of peer glasses.
