VALIDITY OF BUILDING DEMAND SOON TO BE DECIDED.

Status of Suit Filed in Judge Kavanaugh's Court by Overlook

Deuster, president, made a statement as to the status of the suit started in Judge Kavanaugh's court to enforce the building restrictions in Overlook. Mr. Deuster, representing the association and purchasers of property in that addition, brought suit to test the validity of the building restrictions written into the original deeds given to property sold in that addition.

"This is a test case," said Mr. Deuster, "and on the outcome will depend whether under the law any building restrictions can be enforced. If the de-cision is in our favor it will settle the Powers, a former Multinoman Athletic Club boxer, got an unmerciful beating in the first three rounds, being floored once in the second and twice in the third. Lots were sold from $300 to $500 more with these restrictions than they would have brought without the restrictions, hence we are trying to enforce them. All other additions in which there are building restrictions are very deeply interested in the outcome. If the decision in the lower courts is adverse we shall carry it to the Supreme Court, for we feel that the matter is vital in importance and should be settled. If we find that the building restrictions are not valid then we shall undertake to get additional legislation in the premises. This is the status of the case.
