WOMAN REFUSING MAN'S LOVE SHOT

Husband Witnesses Shooting of Mate by Infatuated Neighbor Near Salem.

ASSAILANT COWS CROWD

Arrest Follows-Victim Is Guest of Assailant's Mother and Is Fired On As She Greets Spouse on Return From Trip.

SALEM. Or., Sept. 21 .- (Special.)-Infatuation on the part of Homer Yates, 40, a farmer of Fruitland, near here, led him to shoot and probably fatally wound Mrs. Myrtle Hayes, a guest of wound Mrs. Myrtie Hayes, a guest of his mother, because she refused to leave her husband for Yates. The shooting took place just as the husband, W. B. Hayes, returned from a visit to Eastern Oregon, and was witnessed by him. Yates was arrested after holding the husband and several neighbors at bay at the point of a pistol.

The shooting took place at the ranch owned by Yates and his mother at Fruitland. Mrs. Hayes, a woman about 35 years old, had long been a friend of the Yates family, and, when her husband was called to Eastern Oregon on business, she went to stay at the Yates home. The husband returned from Eastern Oregon tonight and at once went to the Yates home.

Yates, on hearing that Mr. Hayes was returning, is said to have begged Mrs. Hayes not to rejoin her husband.

they entered the room Yates drew the plstol from his pocket and shot thrice at Mrs. Hayes.

The first shot missed but the second took effect in the woman's arm. As she was falling Yates fired again, the bullet striking Mrs. Hayes in the neck and ranging downward, piercing the lung. Physicians tonight said Mrs. Hayes probably would die from the effects of the wound.

When Mrs. Hayes fell to the floor her husband made a rush at her assailant. Yates, however, held him at bay with the pistol and, backing into a corner, stood off neighbors who rushed in. A telephone call to Salem brought Sheriff Esch to the scene, He arrested Yates, who did not resist, and took him to the Marion County jail where he was lodged under a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

PUGET SOUND METHODISTS AF-FILIATE WITH LABOR.

Conference Will Send Delegates to State and National Federations of Organized Workers.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 21 .- (Special.)-In marked contrast to stormy scenes of yesterday over labor matters, the Puget Sound Methodist Conference today took a new step by voting unanimously to affiliate with organized labor, electing one fraternal delegate to the next convention of the Washington Federation of Labor and one to the convention of the American Federation of Labor, to be held next year in Seattle.

year in Seattle.

Plans for financing and continuing the Methodist institution, the University of Puget Sound at Tacoma, were made. One by one, on rolicall, every minister rose and pledged himself to raise annually for four years $1 for each member of his church. This will amount to $20,000 annually. In addition the ministers pledged from their own salaries $15,000. It is hoped to raise an endowment fund of $250,000 by November 1, 1914, to take advantage of conditional donations of $50,000 and $25,000.

During the campaign of four years ago, when James H. Brady, now junior United States Senator from Idaho was a candidate for Republican gubernatorial nomination, O'Neil reached his height in Idaho politics and few faces were more conspicuously portrayed over the state. Prior to that time he was chairman of the state central committee and was strongly spoken of as a possible "dark horse" candidate to succeed the late Weldon B. Hey-Troubles Follow Defeat.

O'Neil's troubles began after his de-feat for the gubernatorial nomination. He was a director in the Carnegie Trust Company, of New York, and when it failed he is said to have lost heavily. Losses were also suffered by him in newspapers, lumber and timber en-terprises. The Emergency Value of Big Organization

WHEN a real catastrophe happens to a telephone system; when a fire destroys an exchange and the terminal apparatus, or a storm lays low the pole lines, the value of a big organization is quickly shown.

When a conflagration swept the city of Chelsea, Mass., it burned the Bell telephone exchange and destroyed the telephone equipment. The next day a temporary central station was established, amid the ruins, and the service restored.

With similar promptness telephone service was re-established in Baltimore, San Francisco and Bangor, and after the more recent disasters in the Middle West.

To meet great emergencies, complete switchboards and apparatus valued at over $100,000, are kept at Chicago and New York, crated and ready for shipment whenever the call for help comes from any part of the organization.

subterfuge or circumvention of the promises implied in Provisional President Huerta's declarations today would be increasingly difficult and that the United States and foreign nations generally with which, it has influence probably would be inclined to hold the Huerta government rigidly to its own announced programme.

The general feeling was that Huerta's promises, if carried out, meant the elimination, not only of himself, but of other government officials, including Frederico Gamboa, Mexican foreign minister, suggested as the probable choice of the Catholic party.

The effect of these promises, though not made known in diplomatic channels, is likely to be of considerable importance, as there is a growing tendered. importance, as there is a growing ten-dency in Europe to act hereafter in accord with the Unted States.
