METHOD OF SAVING

Overhead Logging System Gets Much Attention at Congress in Spokane.

MANY WORK ON PROBLEM

Solution of Reaching Present Inaccessible Forests Forecast of Portland Man—Hundreds of Loggers Are Present.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The problem of saving timber that otherwise would be inaccessible and become fuel for forest fires is claiming much of the attention of the Fifth Annual Pacific Logging Congress in session at Natatorium Park.

At the first session of the congress today the members listened to addresses on new overhead-logging methods by men who have had experience with this sort of system which, lumbermen in attendance at the congress declare, is of great importance to the industry.

"Overhead-logging systems are, perhaps, getting the most attention of any subject before the congress," said Vice-President Clair, of Portland. "A great many men are working on the problem of how to get at timber in rough country, and, of course, someone eventually will find a way to get the thousands of acres of timber in the mountainous districts, thus saving it from forest fires."

"I believe the enrollment will be about the same as last year's congress," said A. Whisnant, of Portland, who is assisting Secretary Cornwall with the registration. "There probably will be in attendance more loggers, but not so many representatives of logging-machinery companies."

Two hundred and fifty loggers had enrolled when the headquarters were moved from the Spokane Hotel to Natatorium Park, and Mr. Whisnant estimated that 50 had been unable to sign for their credentials.

"The 500 men who will be present will represent one-third of the standing timber in the United States," said Mr. Whisnant.

"It looks as if this year's congress will be as large as any the organization ever has had," said Vice-President Clair.

BIG SUM IS INVOLVED

KING HILL IRRIGATION CASE GETS TO FEDERAL COURT.

Eastern Security Company and Supply Concerns Battle for Share in Payments.

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 25.—(Special.)—The King Hill irrigation controversy, which has aggravated the courts for years, is to be tried in the Federal Court before Judge Dietrich on October 26. Close to $1,000,000 is involved. Under a receivership the project has been maintained, water has been delivered to the settlers and the crops have been able to grow. This is the project that is said to have ruined financially one of the original promoters, J. H. Hammett, and involved several large bonding houses.

The American Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago is trustee for the bondholders. The Continental & Commercial Trust & Savings Company, of Chicago, is financially interested in the outcome of the litigation as is the Crater Farm & Orchard Company, the Pacific Coast Pipe Company, the Minneapolis Steel & Machinery Company, the C. R. Shaw Lumber Company, of Boise, and other concerns.

The case is one of the most complicated in irrigation history of Idaho. Organized under the terms of the Carey act, the King Hill Irrigation Company contracted with the state to complete an irrigation system to furnish water to 16,000 acres in the Snake River Valley close to what is now the town of King Hill.

The settlers purchased land and signed water contracts, the King Hill Irrigation Company depositing the latter with the Continental & Commercial Trust & Savings Company, of Chicago, as collateral for a bond issue of $358,400. The irrigation company was unable to complete its work. The American Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago became the successor to the Continental & Commercial Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago, and began suit for foreclosure of the bond.

The irrigation company in the mean time extended its system to the King Hill extension, or Medbury tract. This involved heavy expenditures and brought the company face to face with financial embarrassment. Application was made for a receiver and B. P. Shawhan, formerly of Payette, was placed in charge.

While little time has been spent in getting subscribers for stock in the county, $1298 has been sold. A site valued at $6000 has been obtained at the foot of Franklin street, on the track used jointly by all railroads, at a nominal annual rental for a term of years.

Because woman may not legally work more than eight hours daily Denver stores will hereafter open at 9 A. M. and close at 5:30 P. M.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair, which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been stopt, except itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Adv.
