ness Relations as Result of Trip of Prominent Residents From Metropolis.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Sept. 30 .- (Special.)—"I wish that I could express properly the significance of today's conference of good roads enthusiasts from Multnoman and Hood River Counties," said Truman Butler, vice-president of the Butler Bank Company, tenight president of the Butler Bank Company, tonight.

"The meeting in Portland last week and that of today will be a great step forward in the building of the scenic Columbia River Highway, which will connect the two counties and at the same time bring the eastern and western parts of the state together for the first time by a wagon road that also will form a highway for the many enthusiastic automobile owners of both sections. The meetings will help us with our road and in our business relations, for they have brought us in closer touch and made us better acquainted."

The weather could not have been better. With a brilliant sunshine in a clear sky and just enough of a touch of frost in the air to make it invig-orating, the visitors were whirled away orating, the visitors were whirled away on their arrival this morning by a train of nine automobiles. With Mayor Blanchar at the wheel of his machine acting as pilot, the Portland enthusiasts first were taken west of the city to a point on the old state road, which will form a link in the completed Columbia Highway.

Great View of Gorge Enjoyed.

Here they alighted from the cars and lingered for a moment at the home of J. W. Hinrichs, vice-president of the First National Bank, for the superb view that is had of the Columbia Gorge. Leaving here, they toured the road system of the west side of the valley. They journeyed back to the city over the new macadam road of this district that the Portland county officials and Major Bowlby, State Highway Engineer, might view the work that is being done here by the local County Court.

The party then left for Eggermont, located in a fir grove on a high jutting point caused by the confluence of Neal Creek and the Hood River, where the greatest and most pleasant Great View of Gorge Enjoyed.

of Neal Creek and the Hood River, where the greatest and most pleasant surprise of the day awaited them.

As the cars entered the grove the savory aroma of frying chicken and mountain trout greeted them and accentuated the appetites caused by the bracing air. W. L. Clark and C. N. Ravlin, respectively president and secretary of the Hood River Commercial Club, were busy in the big kitchen

The local automobilists and their guests passed the afternoon in the Upper Valley. Their tour today covered more than 50 miles. Tonight the Commercial Club room was decorated with one of the most enthusiastic road meetings ever held here. A completed Columbia River road by 1915 was the slogan advanced. Addresses were made by Samuel Hill, Frank Terrace and D. N. COURTRESTRAINS COURT

TO TRY CONTEMPT CASE.

Seattle Judge Who Denounced Defendant From Bench Refuses Change of Venue.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 30 .- Acting Supreme Justice Parker, of the State Supreme Court, today issued an alter-native writ to prohibit Superior Judge Humphries, of Seattle, from sitting as judge in contempt proceedings against Thorwald Siegfried and ordering him to judge in contempt proceedings against Thorwald Siegfried and ordering him to show cause here October 30, why he should not be forever restrained from acting as judge in the case.

SEATTLE

SEATTLE. Wash., Sept. 30.— Thorwald Siegried, who is a practicing attorney of Seattle and who is not a member of the Socialist party, wrote a letter to the Seattle Bar Association requesting an investigation of what Siegfried termed abuse of the writ of Siegfried termed abuse of the writ of injunction by Judge Humphries, alleg-ing that the judge had arrogated to himself the power of the police. Thereupon, Judge Humphries, from the bench, denounced Siegfried and threat-ened him with punishment and cited him to appear to answer a charge of contempt of court. Siegfried asked for a change of venue under the statute which makes it ob-ligatory for a judge to grant a change on request of either party to a suit. Judge Humphries overruled the motion. Siegfried then asked a change of venue on the ground that Judge Humphries already pronounced him guilty, motion also was oversuled by Humphries, and Siegfried ap

The officials this year have a mess tent in Toxierville, near the main entrance to the fair, and at noon each day they gather here and hold their noonday executive session while they partaka of dinner, or lunch if you prefer so to call it. This is the first year this has been done and it is a great time-saver to the overworked board members.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 30.—(Special.)
On the allegation that it is a "spite" building, Superior Judge Card has granted a temporary injunction, stopping construction of a unique building which C. C. Darling, of 1120 North Fifth street, has well under way. The building is seven feet wide, 51 feet long and 124 feet high. The complaint is made 12% feet high. The complaint is made by Mrs. Calesta H. Wheeler, widow, who owns an apartment-house, and charges that Darling's building shuts off the light entirely from two of her

FARMERS BUY MILL

Flour Plant at Burns to Operate on Co-operation Plan.

NEW INDUSTRY WILL START

Packing-House Products Soon Wil Be Part of Output and Plan Is to Keep Money Spent for Hams, Bacon, at Home.

BURNS, Or, Sept. 38.—(Special.)—
About 50 farmers of the Harney Valley have organized a co-operative company, and have taken over the Burns flouring mill property, including more than 200 acres of land and the waterpower on the Silvies River a short distance north of the city, which has been owned and operated the past few years by a corporation composed of Burns business men.

The mill is equipped with modern machinery and turns out a first-class grade of flour. It is the intention of prace of nour. It is the intention of the new owners to run it to its capacity and to sell the product at such a price as practically will make it impossible for mills in outside points to ship flour to this county and compete. It is also the intention to establish a little state of the county and compete.

It is also the intention to establish a packing plant in connection with the mill for the curing of bacon and hams, manufacturing of lard and other hog products. This will encourage the raising of hogs, which have been increasing rapidly the past few years.

It is the intention of the new organization to buy all the grain possible to handle at the best price it can afford, and such as cannot be ground will be fed to hows, either around the mill
