Yesterday's Results. At Portland—Portland 7, Oakland 3, At San Francisco—Sagramento 3, Francisco 2, At Venice—Venice 6, Los Angeles 2.

With Arthur Devlin, new manager, on the bench for the first time, Oakland lost its fourth straight game of the series to Fortland yesterday, 7 to 3. Although not Devlin's fault, it was the worst defeat of the week, Southpaw Ables being driven from the box in the fourth frame.

Ables being driven from the box in the fourth frame.

The day was cold and the most excitement the 1500 half-frozen ladies'-day fans got was in the ninth, when loose playing brought Oakland two of its three runs.

It was a bad day for pitchers. The cold wind from the North stiffened their fingers so much that the sphere could bardly be grasped for any of could hardly be grasped for any of the favorite shoots. Higginbotham did the nine-inning round for Portland and held the Oaks to eight hits, two of which were rather scratchy. Oakland led off with Ables, who lasted until after the first out in the fourth. It looked bad and he was series Tuesday afternoon. Here in Portland excitement will be as high and the latter held the Beavers in among the fans, even though they have

Derrick and Kores singled. Rodgers came up and knocked a little infield grounder. Derrick was around to third when the play started and he started for home. Rohrer dropped the ball and Derrick was safe for the first run.

A minute later Kores trooped in on a hit to third by Speas. Berry followed it with a single, which brought in both Rodgers and Speas. The Beavers then took some chances and Speas was out at the plate in an attempted double steal. Berry went out the plate in the plate in times up.

Chadbourne was thrown out at first base in the seventh on a grounder to Pruitt. Pruitt slipped when he went after the ball and was scated when he made the throw to Gardner.

Derrick made a still more spectacular play while scated. He went after Zacher's fly, but slipped when almost beneath it. Instead of attending to his balance, Derrick turned over and let the ball land in his lap. Speas' work is appreciated by the fans. When he came up yesterday for his last trip he received several rounds of hand-clapping.

Berry gets credit for a good throw to ecould in the initial inning when he got Zucher trying to steal.

Venice wen one while Portland was doing the same, so the lead was not widened in numbered games.

Kores and Speas both handled some pretty ones over in the left corner of the field. Both picked them off the fence.

Both umpires had cold feet. Not the kind of popular netion, but really cold.

Five errors marked the game. However, the field was slippery as soap and the misplays did not necessarily show that the teams were off form.

Killilay will probably pitch for the Oaks today, while either Hagerman or Krapp will oppose him.
