NO. 2-THE WORLD'S SERIES OUT-LOOK.

BY CHRISTY MATHEWSON,

(Of the Gianta)
In my first preliminary article, the

In my first preliminary article, the Athletics' hitters and the Giants pitchers were taken up, and I endeavored to show that our chance this year lay in the weakness of the Philadelphia pitching staff, provided our twirlers could stop the terrific slugging of Mack's team. In this, my final article before the series, I am going to tell what I know of the Athletics' pitchers and also introduce some characteristics of the two teams that should have a direct bearing on the result. When the Athletics went into the world's series of 1911 with the Giants, they carried one of the best pitching staffs I have ever seen on one club. It was a remarkable collection. Bender, Coombs and Plank were all at their best in that series, but all were veterans of considerable age then. They had nothing further to learn about the tricks of pitching at that time. Since then, Mack has lost John Coombs, who was one of the mainstays of the series, while two years have been added to both Bender's and Planks' terms of service. Two additional years have done them no good.

Neither Is "Iron Man" Type.

Each one has gone through a tougher year that he ever before experienced in his career. "Connie" Mack put it up to these two to win the pennant, and they had to work with great frequency, both at starting games and as relief pitchers to accomplish this. Neither one is of the rugged type which in baseball is called "iron man." That they were worn down by the arduous eitching this year was clearly shown pitching this year was clearly shown by the manner in which they weakened toward the conclusion of the race when the Cieveland club had an excellent chance to nose out the Athletics if the Naps could have just slipped over the naps could have just supped over the final punch.

I have been reliably informed that, just before he began to rest up in preparation for the world's series, Plank carried nothing but his shrewdness and his knowledge of batters. A tough senson of this sort has done within plank par Bender any good neither Plank nor Bender any good for the world's series no matter how completely they have been rested since. I figure each one to be good for a sin-gle bang-up game. Plank has been suf-fering from rheumatism for the past fering from rheumatism for the past month and is not in shape to go through two or three hard battles. Because of the weakened condition of the Athletics' pitching staff, much depends on the outcome of the first game. There is little doubt but what Mack will send Bender to work that opening battle, because it is the one both clubs want to get. The victory will give one team a big edge. The fact that we are playing the first game at the Polo Ground will be of some advantage to the Giants, but not some advantage to the Giants, but not as big a one as most fans believe. The Athletics have been meeting the Yan-koes in this same park all Summer and are familiar with it. It is a great thing to know the park you are playing in, because there are certain peculiari-ties about every ground which handicap the strange team more or less.

McGraw Wants First Game Badly. With Bender beaten and not a chance of him coming back strong within less than three days, even if Plank should take the second battle in Philadelphia, we would have the edge on the series. Therefore, McGraw is bending every effort to grab that first battle. Bender at his best, is a terrific proposition to beat because of his great coolness and knowledge of most of the Glant

The longer the series runs the better chance the Glants are going to have, because we have four first string pitch ers while Mack really has only two. Of Mack's youngsters I know little Brown seems to have made the best record of any of the recruits with an average for the season of .621, having appeared in 42 games. Much has been said of Shawkey, but I know very little. He appears to be an in and outer There is one man on the Athletics wh is a youngster, and who has a weakness for which we are prepared. They say he is liable to blow up whenever the situation binds.

Glants Counted on to Hit. We come to another question. Car the Giants' batters hit this Philadelphia pitching? Nobody in the world ever got a decision who did not carry a punch. Up until a month or so back the Glants' greatest asset was their ability to bat. But the team began to drift into a hitting slump in the latte part of August, and we lost severa well pitched games on the last Western trip. McGraw has been working hard to overcome this batting defect by "riding" the players for it. Doyle or-dinarily should be one of the best bets on the team with the stick. His layoff, due to injury, may dull his batting eye. "Larry" has not had a good season anyway, but he appeared to be coming better just before the accident.

It is my opinion that Snodgrass and Murray are going to be the batting sur-prises of the series, with a possibility prises of the series, with a possibility of Burns horning into the limelight Snodgrass has been hitting more Snedgrass has recently than I ever saw him bat before with the exception of his first spurt, when he broke in as a regular and hit up around five hundred for a week or so. John Murray I expect to see upset calculations. Fletcher is an improved hitter over 1911. He seems to have overcome a certain weakness that he displayed up to this year.

Plank is going to have a tough time of it winning his ball game this year, because of the formidable array of right-handed batters that can be mustered on the Glants. Meyers, Merkle, Fletcher, Herzog, Snodgrass, Murray and Shafer, if Doyle should be out of it, all take a right-handed wallop against left-handers.

Ginnts Said to Be Stendier. In summing up, I should say that the Giants have been strengthened over 1311 both in pitching and in team steadiness. The Athletics have been weakened in the pitching department by the loss of Coombs and by the overrking of Bender and Plank to win the pennant. Their batting strength has also been reduced. In 1911 they had such sluggers as "Danny" Murphy had such sluggers as "Danny Murphy and "Bris" Lord in the outfield, beside oldring. They had taken the pennant in a walk and they breezed down the stretch in 1911 preparing for the series. This year they were forced to go all the way and would have had a terrible battle to win if Cleveland could have mustered any fight.

Naps Lose Race for Second Place in Final Week, Senators Taking Position-Yankees Escape From Cellar by Yesterday's Game.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. - Major league paseball for 1913 came to a close today, so far as the regular schedules are In the National League Philadelphia's title to second place was not seriously questioned. not seriously questioned.

Chicago finished in third place, with a good margin over Pittsburg in fourth place. The Cubs, under Evers, made a better showing than many critics expected. The Pirates got off to a bad start, and at no time were a potent factor in the race. Fred Clarke is not likely to rest satisfied with the team as it is.

Boston Hends Second Division. The Bostons, under George Stallings, finished fifth, heading the second division. Brooklyn finished sixth, a notch Brooklyn finished sixth, a notch above last year, losing a final-week chance to beat out Boston. Cincinnati, with Joe Tinker at the helm, had to be satisfied with seventh place. St. Louis, last by nearly 100 points, never got going well at all, and played worse instead of better as the season progressed. The Athletics this year got an early lead in the American League race, and the finish was easy. Cleveland the the finish was easy. Cleveland, the runner-up for the greater part of the year, lost its grip in the season's later weeks, while Clarke Griffith's Wash-ingtons were bracing and making a strong showing.

Red Sox Win Fourth.

It took the last week of play to de-de the fourth-place contest, but the Red Sox finally won by a slight margin. The last-year champions' fall from their high estate of 1912 was one of the season's remarkable developments. The White Sox finished in fifth place although with a percentage well abov the half-way mark.

Detroit, ending in sixth place, is there largely by weakness in the box. The seventh-place fight was not decided until the last moments of the season in Cleveland today, when Cleveland, by taking the last half of a double-header, kept the Browns in the cellar.

The New Yorks occupy the seventh position by a four-point margin. The St. Louis Browns, although last, have played well recently.

don was 138, only five strokes better than Evans. Wood played best ball on only two holes and this threw the strain of the contest on Evans throughout the contest.

The putting of all four players was ordinary, but the approach shots were uniformly good. Ray slightly outdrove the others, but he and Vardon both found bunkers at times. Despite a drizzling rain that fell during the first soft, a large gallery followed the play-ers. When it had become evident that Wood was not up to his usual game the contest, so far as the spectators were concerned, became largely a com. petition among Ray, Vardon and Evans for low medal score.

After the match Ray expressed great admiration for the playing of the amateurs. Vardon was in ill humor, com-plaining that the gallery had cheered and declaring that he had nothing to say of the golf of American amateurs.
