

SULZER COMPARED TO APOSTLE PAUL

Defense Declares Governor is Impeached for What He Now Refuses to Do.

RYAN'S SON IS WITNESS

Declaration Made That Executive Sought to Obtain Influence of Root and Barnes to Prevent His Trial.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Governor Sulzer attempted to influence the United States Senator Root and of William Barnes, chairman of the Republican state committee, to prevent the trial of his impeachment, according to testimony adduced at the trial today, although subsequently stricken out by vote of the court.

Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, a New York financier, gave the testimony. It was also brought out through the testimony of Ignatius V. McGlone, secretary of the elder Ryan, that Governor Sulzer was the recipient of a $10,000 cash campaign contribution from the Ryans, which was not reported in the Governor's sworn campaign statement.

"Tell your father I am the same old Bill," young Mr. Ryan said to the Governor said to him over the telephone, in asking for the contribution.

Sulzer Seen in New York. Mr. Ryan was called to the stand today after the attorneys for the impeachment managers had obtained permission to reopen their case, which they announced as complete when court adjourned last Thursday. The witness said that just a week before the trial attempt to impeach him he had seen Governor Sulzer in the latter's office in New York.

"He asked me," testified the financier's son slowly, "to go to Washington and see Senator Root and request him to see William Barnes and get him to endeavor to have the Republican members of this body to vote that this court had no right to try him and impeach him."

The testimony preceded the opening of the case for the defense and in the afternoon by Harvey D. Hinman, who compared Governor Sulzer to the Apostle Paul, whose former friends, the attorney said, "did not attempt to impeach him or his actions because of what he had done while acting with them and while one of them."

Impeachment Motive Assailed. "When, in the 19th century, has a voice been raised to condemn Paul or his apostles for his acts as Saul?" asked Mr. Hinman.

The question was, he added, whether Governor Sulzer was impeached for corrupt conduct in office or "because of what he has refused to do since he took office."

After Mr. Ryan's testimony was ordered stricken out John B. Stanchfield, attorney for the impeachment managers, attempted to obtain from him testimony as to another conversation he had had with the Governor, but was not permitted to pursue this line of questioning further. Mr. Ryan, after court had adjourned, said to newspapermen:

"I am unwilling to make any statement other than that I made as a witness, except that I did not see or communicate with Senator Root upon the subject."

Mr. Ryan's testimony was not the only parting shot that was fired by the impeachment managers before the defense opened.

Edward J. Meaney, attorney for the New York Telephone Company, testified that he had "lent" the Governor $10,000 in cash within a week or ten days after his nomination. Meaney said he had paid the contribution in cash, because he did not wish it known, for the "gift might be misconstrued."

Promise to Reply is Told Of. He added that the Governor had promised to reply to him whenever he could. A letter which the Governor had written, supposedly in connection with the gift, and which was not allowed in evidence, was reported to have been a recommendation by the Governor to President Wilson that Meaney be appointed to an ambassadorship.

Mr. Meaney said that little or no evidence would be offered by the defense in answer to articles three, four, five and six of the impeachment, barring political influence, attempting to influence the stock market by legislation, the bribery of witnesses and the suppression of evidence. Meaney already had ruled out testimony offered regarding the Governor's alleged attempts to barter his political influence, and the other articles were being allowed only lightly by evidence offered by the board of managers.

STEEL RAIL INJURY CAUSE

Miss Elnore Franseen Seriously Bruised on Fourth Street.

Thrown over a steel rail upon which she had stepped while crossing Fourth street at Oak yesterday, Miss Elnore Franseen, of 710 Division street, was seriously bruised and medical assistance was necessary. Miss Franseen stepped upon the rail at the precise moment it started moving and was thrown. Patrolmen Cameron and Stewart carried her into a nearby office, and after medical attention had been given, she was sent to her home.

Shrieking Women in Hall, While Trying to Protect Leader, Are Scattered About Like Ninepins. Clothes of Many Are Torn.

Two men, one of them a clergyman, and seven women were arrested. Before the adjournment of the suffragettes' meeting, two derby hats and a walking cane, which had been captured from the detectives by the women, were put up for auction. The bidding was lively. The hats fetched $25 each and the canes $12.50.

Cat-and-Mouse Bill Enforced. Miss Kenney was not arrested for her part in today's demonstration in the music hall. She was taken under the "cat-and-mouse" law, which permits the authorities to release suffragettes or other persons whose weakness from the effects of a "hunger strike" and given the right to re-arrest such persons after they have regained sufficient strength to be able to undergo the ordeal of incarceration again.

Miss Kenney was arrested for conspiracy several months ago, and, upon conviction, was sentenced to a term of 18 months in Malloway jail. She at once began a "hunger strike" and was released soon after. She became active again in militant affairs and was re-arrested, only to begin another "hunger strike" and again to be freed.

The last time she was released was two months ago and her condition at that time was said to be serious. She soon regained her usual strength, however, but no attempt was made by the authorities to arrest her until her appearance on the stage of the music hall today.

Crowds Surround Jail. Crowds formed around Holloway jail tonight clamoring for the release of the suffrage leader. The police in force turned out when the uproar threatened to develop into a riot, and made the crowd move, but no further attempts were made to arrest. Several small fights occurred between anti-suffragettes and sympathizers with the "cause," but these were not serious enough to warrant action by the authorities.

Speeches denouncing the action of the police for arresting Miss Kenney were made by prominent suffragette leaders at various places in the city tonight. All promised reprisals and declared that the campaign of militancy would be continued but no overt acts were committed and the police were without authority to make any arrests, either of speakers or of the noisy auditors.

RAISE HOGS PLEA HEARD

WAY TOLD TO REDUCE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

A. J. Lovejoy, Rockford, Ill., Breeder of Berkshires, Says Oregon Is Adapted for Stock.

"Raise hogs and reduce the high cost of living," says A. J. Lovejoy, the famous Berkshire breeder of Rockford, Ill., who was in Portland for a few hours yesterday, having come over from North Yakima, Wash., where he judged all classes of hogs at the Washington State Fair last week, to visit with C. M. Plummer, of the Portland Union Stockyards.

"Oregon is better adapted to hog raising than is Illinois, where thousands of farmers have been getting rich on hogs for three-quarters of a century," said Mr. Lovejoy, who, besides being the most successful hog-breeder in the United States, is president of the Chicago International, the greatest livestock show in the world, which is held every December; a member of the State Legislature, of the School Board of his home community, ex-State game commissioner of Illinois and president of the Berkshire Breeders' Association of America.

"What surprises me about this part of the country," said Mr. Lovejoy, "is the fact that they don't raise more hogs. The climate ought to make it the best hog country in the world. You don't have to protect against severe winter weather. You can raise corn, alfalfa, cow peas, red clover, wheat and all other foods that hogs fatten on."

"Hogs will go far toward reducing the high cost of living, but we will have to cut out the middlemen there will be no raising of hogs, but the farmers ought to ship direct to the stockyards. The consumer ought to have a chance to buy almost direct from the packing-house."

Mr. Lovejoy declares that hogs, in order to return the most money to the farmer, ought to be very similar to the cattle ranch in a mild climate like Oregon sows can produce two litters a year.

He does not think much of the dual purpose cow which J. H. Hill introduced in Minnesota in an endeavor to lower the cost of beef.

"A dual purpose cow is neither one thing nor the other," he said. "The best problem will be solved only when farmers start growing beef stock in small quantities. The day of the big cattle ranch is over. It takes a little while for a farmer to get his money out of beef, but it is sure money, and when once started in the business the farmer has a steady income 12 months in the year."

CELILLO PLANS UP

Senator Lane Makes Bid for Aid by Government.

RECLAMATION HEADS HEAR

Oregon Solon Will Take Up Matter With Secretary of Interior and Learn Possibility of Having Federal Power Plant.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Oct. 6.—Senator Lane was today in conference with the officials of the Reclamation Service urging upon them the importance of Government investigation into the power possibilities at Celilo Falls on the Columbia River. Senator Lane also has taken the matter up with Army engineers. He requested the Government to send engineers to study this big project with a view to outlining a plan to develop this power either by Federal Government or by Federal Government in conjunction with the States of Oregon and Washington.

The Columbia River, being an interstate stream and controlled by the Reclamation Service, Senator Lane argues that the Government should assist in the development of power at Celilo, and he further maintains that the ideal project would be that built through co-operation of the Federal Government with the States of Oregon and Washington, and to that end he will seek to have competing Government engineers detailed to examine into the project and formulate some definite plan for submission to Congress.

Reclamation officials told the Senator today that while they would like to see this project developed, it involves a question of Government policy and must be decided by the Secretary of the Interior. Senator Lane will lay the matter before Secretary Lane soon after his return to Washington, and through him hopes to secure the services of the engineers of the Reclamation Service to co-operate with the Army engineers in investigating and reporting on the Celilo power possibilities.

Police Necessary to Clear Lobbies After Hall is Filled.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—Jan Kubelik, the Bohemian violinist, opened his American tour at Orchestra Hall with a seating capacity of 3000 today and created a furore when it was found that all seats had been sold. The management of the hall was obliged to place 300 persons on the stage to quiet the throng that demanded to see and hear the noted violinist.

A detachment of police was necessary to clear the lobbies and streets.

HARMONY IS PARTY AIM

(Continued From First Page.) Republican National committee in the future will not have the power temporarily to seat contested or contested delegations and thus virtually determine the control of the National convention. This question, together with the proposal that members of the National committee shall take office as soon as elected, instead of leaving the control of the National committee in the old committee's hands throughout the campaign, we believe to be the chief matters of reform that must be dealt with through a special National convention.

The call issued by Chairman Hilles for a meeting of the National committee in Washington, December 16, has set in motion again the movement started early last Summer by Senators Cummins, Jones, Crawford and others for the special National convention. The endorsement given the project a few weeks ago by the New York Republican state convention added impetus to the campaign.

Agreement is Sought. It is proposed to bring all possible pressure to bear on members of the National committee, before the date set for the meeting in Washington, to induce them to agree to the holding of a National convention not later than next February.

The advocates of the convention will vigorously oppose any attempt by the National committee to make the proposed changes itself. Such action, the reform leaders say, would not establish popular confidence in the party reorganization as would a revision of rules made by a regularly called National convention.

COOS GOAL IN DEMAND

BRITISH COLUMBIA MARKET OPENS TO OREGON PRODUCT.

One Company Charters Vessels to Carry Daily Cargo, First of Which Will Go Forward Today.

COQUILLE, Or., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—The Coos County Colliers Company, of North Bend, has completed negotiations for the entire output of the Riverton Coal & Development Company's mine on the Coquille River, the Libby mine on Coos Bay, and the surplus of the Smith-Powers mine and has contracted to supply Vancouver and Prince Rupert, B. C., parties with 24,000 tons of coal during the next six months.

The company has chartered two vessels to ply in this trade and the first shipment will go forward from the Riverton mine Tuesday, when 800 tons will be taken from the bunkers. Thereafter it is expected to ship 1000 tons over the Bandon bar each cargo, the depth of the water permitting no more.

The Riverton mine, which is one of the most extensive producers in the county, is increasing its working force and by November 1 will be operating with a double shift and producing 150 tons of coal per day. The Libby will also double its force and likewise its output, for besides the contracts just entered into the Coos County Colliers Company has Seattle and California orders for coal shipments that will bring the aggregate demand from these mines well up toward 35,000 tons for practically immediate shipment.

Coos County is the largest coal-producing county in Oregon. The total area of its coal fields approximate 230 square miles, the character of the coal being sub-bituminous. Until within a comparatively short time, since no extensive operations have been carried on, local consumption being the principal market. Portland and San Francisco, however, began to cast their eyes in this direction for coal, and large annual shipments are now made to these points. The call for fuel from British Columbia opens an entirely new field.

B. Morris has filed in the Circuit Court suits against the city of Eugene to recover $2383.32, alleged to be the total of balances due for the furnishing of poles and cross-arms and the construction of the pole line for the Eugene city electric power plant. The work was done in 1910, and covered the main transmission line from the municipal power-house on the McKenzie River near Watterville to the sub-station in Eugene. The city asserts the balance due is a little more than $1200, and has some months since made a tender of cash to this amount to the contractor.
