

PEDESTRIANS ARE AFFECTED BY BILL

Prohibition of Crossing Streets Except at Intersections Is Proposed Law.

LOWER SPEED IS PROVIDED

Ordinance Urged on Commission by Automobile Club and Other Organizations, Would End Diagonal Travel at Corners.

Provisions in the proposed new traffic ordinance pertaining to the regulation of pedestrian traffic at street intersections probably will cause considerable fuss when the measure, as prepared by Deputy City Attorney Myers...

In addition to prohibiting pedestrians from crossing diagonally over street intersections and from crossing at any place excepting at regular crossings, the measure subjects pedestrian traffic to the whistle of traffic policemen.

At present vehicles and streetcars alone are subject to the traffic whistles, pedestrians being permitted to cross an intersection in any direction at any time or place.

On the East Side the district takes in all the streets within the district bounded by Hawthorne avenue on the south, Grand avenue on the east, Holiday from Grand avenue to Larabee and Broadway from Larabee to the bridge on the north and the river on the west.

In these districts the speed limit is 15 miles an hour and all the provisions of the ordinance pertaining to vehicles and pedestrians are applicable.

Private ambulances are subject to the regulations the same as all other vehicles. Exemptions are made only for vehicles of the fire and police departments.

The present traffic ordinance was adopted by the City Council early last Spring after a long investigation and considerable controversy among members of the Council.

HEALTH NEEDS TOLD

City's Physician Gives Reason for Requesting Big Fund.

DANGER DECLARED GREAT

Dr. Marcellus Says Present Department Inadequate to Portland's Demands and Force Is Unequal to Tasks.

In support of his requests for additional appropriations for the health department in 1914, City Health Officer Marcellus yesterday outlined his reasons, saying he desires to build up his department to such an extent that it will be able to cope with the disease and sanitation problems of the city and the care for emergencies such as epidemics, which, he says, are apt to arise in any large city at any time.

"While the figures of the increase sound rather imposing," said Dr. Marcellus, "yet it must be taken into consideration that we have not had in the past, and have not now, a modern health department, although the requirements of a city of the size of Portland demand such an organization.

"One of the items asked for is to provide bacteriological equipment. We now have nothing for bacteriological work, except a vacant room where equipment ought to be. This imposes a serious handicap in the important work of checking up on foods and infections. In cases of rabies it is necessary to refer the cases to the State Health Department which, fortunately, is located in Portland.

"As to the additional working force, more men are imperative. In every branch of the health department there is a shortage of help is now felt. Take the schools, of which there are 51, with only four men to inspect them. Each school is inspected about once a month, when there should be an inspection once a week.

"As to the matter of pure milk the inspectors now at work are unable to provide the provisions of the ordinance requiring the testing of all cows for tuberculosis once each year. About once every three years is the complete round. In the past three years some 15,000 cows have been thrown out for tuberculosis.

"At the present time there is no inspection at slaughter houses. There is nothing to prevent slaughter houses from serving meat from diseased carcasses.

"Portland has outgrown its health department. It is behind every other city of its class in that respect. For several years the fact has been overlooked or neglected in the past, which explains the larger requests for funds in the present budget. I do not feel that the safeguarding of health and sanitation in a great city is the proper subject for petty crimping or false economy."

MOVIES DEPICT ROUNDUP

Daring Feats of Reckless Cowboys and Cowgirls Thrilling.

"Let 'er buck!" If you would know the true significance of this expression, go to the Hells and see the motion pictures at the Roundup at Ford's. These wonderful reproductions of this year's monstrous show will be presented for three days more.

To those who have never attended the Roundup they are a revelation; for those who have seen it they are doubly enjoyable, for they bring back exciting memories vividly.

There is a wildness, a freedom in the bucking ponies and their daring riders that is distinctively Western. The steer-roping contests are a revelation, the mad determination of the animal to remain unfettered and the final mastery of the cowboy. The Roman standing races done by cowboys which in days of old were a world to looker.

The cowboys' "drunken" ride and the trick and fancy riding by the men and girls, who have never attended the Roundup, are a revelation.

The Indians from the Umatilla, Walla Walla and Cayuse reservations also have a large share in the glory of the Roundup.

MOOSE VOTE TO BUY LOT

Order Plans Construction of Large Club and Business Building.

The committee will select five sites and leave to the vote of the members the question of final selection. It is proposed to build a large club house, which in addition to housing the Moose organization, will afford space for subletting.

With about 20 charter members the Junior Order of Moose, a subsidiary organization to the Loyal Order of Moose, will be installed at the Moose quarters in the Royal Building, October 20. The organization has been worked up by E. M. Fryer, relief steward of the Moose lodge.

All members of the Junior order will be under 21 years of age. It is proposed to have separate clubrooms for them. As soon as a member becomes 21 he will be transferred into the senior order.
