Captain Tinsley, manager of the Uranium Com-pany here, who, until three years ago, was assistant superintendent of the Cunard Company here, says he has been impressed with signs of bitter antagonism of Continental rivals of the Uranium company, who were alarmed over the rapid growth of trade of the latter company from Dutch ports.

This antagonism was shown in many ways, says Captain Tinsley. German officials forbade German immigrants to sall on vessels of the Uranium line and there was constant trouble with seamen who were Dutch and Belgian and whose disaffection is attributed by Captain Tinsley to interference by rival companies.

"They Always Come Back" is a remark we overheard one of the clerks say to another when a customer left her to shop around on junior coats. She had two daughters with her and was just about to decide to make a purchase when a friend accompanying this cus-tomer suggested, "Why not look around before you decide?" They left, and the clerk was not at all disturbed, and made the remark. "They al-ways come back." In less than an hour afterwards the customer did come back and complimented the young lady on her showing of juniors' coats.
