

HEROIC EXAMPLE SET ON VOLTURNO

Officer of Doomed Vessel Demonstrates That Boats Can Live in Sea.

NEW YORK AIDS SURVIVORS

Special Efforts to Be Made to Reunite Members of Families and Owners Will Pay Passage to Destinations.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—New York took in and sheltered today the first survivors of the steamship Voltorno to arrive in this country, 105 in number, brought into port by the Grosser Kueferst, the North German Lloyd liner that sent the first rescue boat careening across the heavy seas to remove passengers and crew from the burning ship.

From the lips of some of the Voltorno survivors there came today descriptions which accentuated the heroic conduct of the Voltorno's captain, officers and crew and of the men who manned the boats which put forth from other ships.

The explosion of a drum containing chemicals was the cause of the fire, according to the story told by Waldron Dieselman, third officer of the Voltorno. Dieselman gave a thrilling narrative of the long hours spent on the fire-ridden ship fighting the flames, repairing the crippled wireless plant, lowering lifeboats, quieting the panic-stricken, steering the vessel by hand to keep her from drifting—while the waves were running too high for the crew to attempt to accomplish the journey to the Voltorno's side.

Eighty Cut Off by Fire.

More than 80 passengers were burned to death when they were cut off by flames, Dieselman reported. Ranking well up with the bravery displayed by Captain Inch, of the Voltorno, were the daring feats of his officers, among them Second Officer Lloyd. While 16 ocean liners maneuvered about the Voltorno after darkness had settled on Thursday, Captain Inch wireless: "We can't stand this long. Our boats are gone. Send boats."

No rescue boats came in response to Inch's wireless. Then Second Officer Lloyd measured up to the mark. Taking four men with him, he entered a damaged lifeboat, the Voltorno's last, and showed that it was possible to ride the sea. Second Officer Von Carlberg, of the Grosser Kueferst, told the story of how Lloyd and his crew set the example for the other ships.

Daring Experiment Succeeds.

"We saw a light—it was Lloyd's pocket lamp dancing up and down on top of the waves," said Von Carlberg, "and in a short time the Voltorno's boat reached us. Second Officer Lloyd and his crew were in the boat and no sooner had they boarded the Kueferst than their boat sank, being nearly full of water. Lloyd had experimented to see if it was possible for a small boat to live in the heavy sea."

Von Carlberg commanded the first lifeboat that put the Voltorno ashore as a result of Lloyd's venture. Besides the Grosser Kueferst, other of the liners that had come to the Voltorno's assistance were the Carmania and assisted in the dangerous work of rescue. The Carmania, which had relayed the Voltorno's wireless calls for help to the other steamships, did not dispatch any lifeboats, according to Second Officer Lloyd, of the Voltorno.

People Rescued in Sea.

"When we got alongside the Voltorno," said Second Officer Von Carlberg, "the Kueferst's crew had taken the first trip of his boat. I heard screaming on board and I decided to keep away. For I figured that some of the panic-stricken people might jump into our boat and upset it. I shouted to the officers of the Voltorno to tell the people to jump into the sea and they would be rescued. This advice was taken and we picked up man after man. When we got back to our ship I found we had rescued 21 men. The following morning I made two trips and rescued more. While we were at the Voltorno's side I could not see a single woman. They all appeared to be men."

Passengers Describe Horror.

Passengers told of some of the horrors they witnessed. Some said they saw women burned to death; others said babies were trampled and killed. Several were quoted as declaring they saw the ship's officers jump back with revolvers panic-stricken seamen who had swarmed on deck after the explosion and tried to force their way into lifeboats ahead of women and children. It was denied on behalf of the officers that revolvers had been used.

Mayor Kline's committee, the Red Cross relief workers and representatives of various charitable organizations met the Grosser Kueferst at her Hoboken pier and the survivors were brought to New York. Efforts will be made to reunite members of families. The immigration rules were suspended, although many of the rescued are paupers. The Uranium line, in whose service the Voltorno was engaged, will pay the passage of survivors to their destinations.

PREACHERS POORLY PAID

More Than 3000 Methodists Work for Less Than $500 a Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—More than 3000 Methodist ministers in the United States preach and work the year around for less than $500 each. This was the report today of the Bureau of Sentimentation, when the board of managers of the Methodist Women's Home Missionary Society began its 32d annual meeting here. The bureau lamented that such a state of affairs could exist "in this most highly favored land at this time of high cost of living."

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. George H. Thompson, of Cincinnati, showed that the receipts of the society for the fiscal year were $901,622. In her annual address, Mrs. George O. Robinson, of Detroit, president of the board, denounced the law recently enacted in Florida prohibiting whites from teaching negroes and negroes from teaching whites.

SULZER TRIAL NEARS END

(Continued From First Page.) Peck incident as a basis of a substantive charge. In opposing the inclusion of this and Morgenthau testimony in article four yesterday counsel for the defense held that the desire of counsel for the board of managers was to include it in order to "bolster up a weak case." They declared it would be equivalent to bringing a new charge against the Governor. No light was thrown by the presiding judge on why the Morgenthau testimony was not included under the article.

Procedure Decided On.

The procedure of taking the final vote as required by the rules of the court is as follows: Each member will be called on alphabetically to answer to each of the eight articles in their order, the following questions:

"Senator (or judge) how say you, is the respondent guilty or not guilty as charged in the — article of impeachment?"

Each member will then rise in his place and answer "guilty" or "not guilty." The result will then be announced by the clerk of the court. If two-thirds of the members present concur in the finding guilty, then in similar manner the members will be called upon to answer separately the following further questions:

"Shall William Sulzer be removed from his office as Governor of this state for the cause stated in the article (or articles) of the charges preferred against him upon which you have found him guilty?"

Disqualification Put Separately. "Shall William Sulzer be disqualified from any office of honor, trust or profit under this state?"

If all of the 37 members of the court are present it will require 23 to convict. Only newspaper men were admitted to the hearing. The trial was held in the galleries, the hall containing the court was thronged throughout the day with men and women who hoped that a final verdict might be reached and they would be fortunate enough to get a glimpse of the closing scene of the trial.

COMFORT COMING BACK

FASHION TO LET UP ON TOO TIGHT GARMENTS.

Modesty Also to Have Chance, Although Fancy Waistcoats Are Slated for Revival.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(Special.)—Here is a message of cheer for the men and women who follow, but, nevertheless, oppose the naughty clinging modes of present fashions. Models at two style shows displayed skirts that will not show the knees when stairs are mounted and sack suits that do not have to be put on with a shoehorn.

The designers gave out the glad news that comfortable clothes, like-wise modest ones, are surely coming back. Freaks also were shown—there were many of them—and a tango dancing suit and gorgeous motor coat with men's section vied for comment with M. Poiret's "lampshade," or the butterfly greens in the women's tailoring, certain men's styles Frank T. Brown, vice-president of the tailors' organization, said:

"We are going to ease up a bit on these tight, narrow modes. The extreme, for the present, will be the light coats and tight trousers, but the days of that style are numbered. The latest waistcoats, out for five years, are coming back, and they will be cut lower to make room for the new large ties. Stripes are dying and brightly colored ones are going in great quantities, checks and plaids, are arriving. Evening clothes now must be in color, chiefly grays and dark greens."

The latest dress suit has a kneeless athletic vest and the entire suit is unlined. The material is silk alpaca and the entire suit is about as heavy as a dozen silk handkerchiefs.

WIRELESS TO EXPERIMENT

Committees in All Countries to Cooperate in Obtaining Data.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 15.—The provisional international wireless committee at a meeting here today decided on the organization of committees in all the countries adhering to the wireless telegraph treaty which was signed in London in July, 1912, to aid the governments in extensive wireless observations and experiments.

These will be carried out with the object, first, of determining a way to insure constancy and steadiness of wireless waves; second, measuring the variations in signals and atmospheric disturbances at the different stations; third, comparing the intensity of signals. The experiments will be conducted simultaneously on three days of each week, beginning in January. Special meteorological observations also will be made once a month.

Reports of the work of the committee will be made to the wireless conference at Brussels in 1914 with a view to legislation.

DECISION FAVORS WOMAN

Judge Holds Sex May Hold Office, Even Without Franchise.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 15.—Judge Robert R. Henderson, in the Allegheny County Circuit Court here, handed down a decision today in a mandamus petition seeking to compel the Board of Election Supervisors to place the name of Mrs. Grace Koontz, of Midland, Md., on the official ballot to be voted in the November election. Mrs. Koontz is the Socialist candidate for County Treasurer.

Women have no right of suffrage in Maryland. The supervisors held that in Maryland women have civil but no political rights and that if Mrs. Koontz were elected she could not serve in the office. Judge Henderson ruled that this does not enter into the question, that the duties of the supervisors are ministerial and not judicial; that the board had no choice, and that there is no law in Maryland prohibiting women from holding political office.

Trinidad Gushers Afire.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Oct. 15.—The large oil gushers, which recently were struck near the asphalt lake and which have been producing 30,000 barrels daily, were reported today to be on fire. A great volume of smoke could be seen from this city, 40 miles distant.
