Frank A. Vanderlip, the speakers to-hight at the banquet that closed the convention here of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, each sounded a note of warning to the busi-son, Julia ness interests of the country. Mr. Hill, whose subject was "Railroad Financing of the Future," declared that "the country is waterlogged with bonds. Confidence cannot be restored," he said, "until the name bond has won back something of its old standard."

back something of its old standard."

Mr. Hill said the "reckless issuing of this kind of paper without proper security" had brought about a change.

"Instead of a man's word being as good as his bond," he added, "his bond is no better than his word. The investor is not sure today of either or the ability or the intention of the soliciting borrower to pay at maturity. Issues must be limited by moderation, conformed to the value of the security and confined to the margin of safety and the form of credit for which the bond was originally designed."

Mr. Vanderlip said that Congress was in danger of saddling the country with a rulnous policy of flat money. The Senate, he said, was hesitating and fearful of doing anything against the wishes of the House.

"Flat Currency" Attacked.

"Flat Currency" Attacked. Mr. Vanderlip spoke on the pending banking legislation. "The fatal defect of the Glass bill," he said, "is that it starts the country on an issue of flat currency. The notes proposed are flat notes. They have no reserve whatever provided by the Government and they

on the resources of the bank. Competition for reserves among regional banks and forced investment by National banks in regional bank securities he also gave as fatal objections. The central bank, he asserted, met every objection.

"The hope for the removal of these obstacles to sound legislation lies in the creation of a public opinion that will be felt by the Senate. The force of such opinion will bring about the de-sired result," he continued "The Sen-ale is intellectually convinced today. ate is intellectually convinced today.

They need only to know that the public is convinced. They are fearful of the political situation and afraid to change front after the House has prepared the mind for a regional system.

SIRL'S LIFE NOT ISSUE public mind for a regional system.
"If the Senate could be convinced the public wanted a central bank," Mr. Vanderlip concluded, "sound legislation night be had in 20 days." George M. Reynolds, president of the Continental & Commercial Bank, of Chicago, attacked the bill as likely to have an adverse effect on business.

"I feel there are some features in the Administration bill so revolutionary and so unnecessary that I fear an attempt to put it through in its present form will have such an adverse effect on the sentiment of the people that it will be reflected in business," he said

Forced Investment Criticised. "I attack specifically the enforced entrance of National banks into the system through the requirement that they shall furnish the capital and deposits with which to make it a success or have their charters dissolved, and which at the same time denies them representation on the board of control, as unjust to the banks and contrary to the spirit of Americanism

"The National banks which did not go in would be forced to liquidate their business within one year.

"In the liquidation of a National bank one of the first things necessary is for the bank to deposit with the Treasurer of the United States lawful money to retire its circulating notes. On June 4, 1913, the lawful money in the 7000-odd National banks in the country was What would bappen in the business world if those banks were to attempt to deposit $730.000,000, or 8 per cent of their entire lawful money to retire the circulating notes, thus contracting the lawful money to the extent of three-quarters of a billion dollars? "Where under the sun could the banks go to secure that vast sum of money, and, failing to secure it, what would become of our organization of

He praised the work already performed by the officials of the State Highway Commission, and assured the people of Clatsop Country that with whatever Major Bowlby and S. C. Lancaster were intrusted the people could depend would be carried out. He had searched the United States for five years to find a man who knew how to build roads. He could find many men who knew how to build a watch but few that could build a road. The State of Oregon could congratulate itself upon acquiring the services of Major Bowlby, he said.
