Fifth National Conservation Congress Opens Today.

EXPERTS AT WASHINGTON

Secretary Lane Calls Attention to Fact That Squabble Over States and Federal Rights Is Retarding Co-operation.

tion experts from all sections of the United States and a delegation from Canada arrived today to take part in the meetings of the fifth National Conservation Congress, which will begin tomorrow. Several sectional meetings were held today at which preliminary features of the congress were discussed. The National Association of Conservation Commissioners was addressed by Secretary Lane, who made a plea for greater co-operation between the state and Federal authorities.

The Secretary declared that the greatest obstacle in the preparation of an adequate conservation policy was the conflict between those who believed in centralization of Government and This conflict, he said, was responsible for the difficulty the Federal authori-ties experienced in obtaining the cooperation of state officials.

Practical Tests Rule.

"Now, the Government is not wedded to any particular theory, but it is wedded to practical tests that will de-velop something to better the country." continued Secretary Lane. "We are indifferent to the agency employed. You represent the states, I represent what is called the central Government. We can co-operate, and manifestly there can be no success unless we do co-operate."

Reforestation was declared to be the remedy for the coming timber famine in the report of a sub-committee to the forestry section.

"Successful commercial planting," the report concluded, "depends upon a good future market, lands of low value upon

"The long time nature of the invest-cent makes planting more feasible for the Federal, state and local govern ments or long-lived corporations than that of individual or smaller com-panies."

Other addresses were made before the Association of Commerce by Dr. C. R. VanHise, president of the University of Wisconsin; Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the geological sur-vey; H. J. Waters, president of the Kansas State Agricultural College; C. F. Marbut, United States Bureau of Soils, and C. B. Waldron, department of agriculture and forestry of North Da-kota Agricultural College.

PENDLETON WILL PROTEST

Commercial Association Objects to Increased Valuation.

PENDLETON, Or., Nov. 17,-(Speclal.)—County Assessor Strain has been sent to Salem by the Pendleton Commercial Association to protest against the proposed increase in the assessed valuation of Umatilla County property. The Tax Commission insists that Umatilia County property is as-sessed at only 67 per cent of its valuation, whereas the law calls for a full valuation assessment. Mr. Strain and local property holders declare the present valuation is based on actual cash

The proposed increase is attributed to the action of the O.-W. R. & N. Company, which has had men at work for the past year compiling figures to show the company property is being assessed at a higher valuation than other property in the county. In ad-dition to Mr. Strain, the Pendleton Commercial Association will be represented before the State Tax Commis-sion by a number of Umatilla County
