FIGHT INTENDED TO OUST HILLES IS ON

Aggressive Republicans Plan to Place Widely-Known Man at Party Wheel.

OPPOSITION NOT PERSONAL

At National Committee Meeting De cember 16 Important Problems, Including Southern Representation, Coming Up.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Nov. 17.—The meeting of the Republican National Committee at Washington on December 16 will be interesting and important, even though the committee may coincide with the view of its law committee that it cannot, of itself, change the basis of representation in National conventions. Several problems, looking to the reorganization of the Republican party on progressive lines, will be considered and acted upon.

Not the least interesting feature of the December meeting will be a fight to oust Charles D. Hilles, ex-private secretary to President Taft, from the chalrmanship of the Republican National Committee. A fight on Hilles is being planned by some of the more aggressive Republicans of the progressive type, and plans have so far progressed as to develop the rumor that Mr. Hilles may resign from the chairmanship "in order to devots his time to private business."

Opposition Not Personal.

Opposition Not Personal.

Opposition of Progressive Republicans to Mr. Hilles is not personal, but the substitution of a Progressive Republican for the present chairman is deemed essential if the Republican party is to make rapid progress with its plans of reorganization. Mr. Hilles has never been affiliated with Progressive Republicans and has never been identified with any Progressive Republican policy. It is generally recognized by experienced politicians that the Republican party cannot get far with its plan of reorganization if the old leaders are to remain in control of old leaders are to remain in control of the party organization. Sentiment among Progressive Republicans has not crystallized in favor of any particular man to head the Re-publican National Committee, but if some one candidate is fixed upon, he will be a Republican of National reputation and one whose views are known. Mr. Hilles is handicapped by reason of the fact that he is not well

Southern Representation Issue.

While technically, at least, it may be true that the Republican National Committee has no authority to change the basis of representation in National conventions, and while that decision may be reached by the committee itself, there are many Republicans who be-lieve the committee has authority to settle one other important point in controversy — namely, to decide that delegates to National conventions, elected at primaries, shall be seated in National conventions, when so elected in accordance with state law.

This point was one that figured largely at the last Republican National Convention, and is a question that must be settled before the next Republican National Convention. Is is the National convention. committee that issues the call for Naconventions, and this commit-is argued, has full authority to effect.

so far as the reduction of Southern representation is concerned, it is likely that the National committee will sustain the holding of the law committee and decree that only a Republican National Convention can change the basis of representation. If that is the decision, then will arise the question whether a special National convention whether a special National convention whether a special National convention whether they are unavailable at this shall be called for the early part of next year—preferably in the Spring—or whether the question shall go over to the regular National convention, which meets formally to nominate a Presidential candidate in 1918.

Senator Cummins and some of his friends are enthusiastically in favor of a special convention next year to settle this and other questions. Others helieve the change will be deferred until the regular convention in 1916. This material, which is objected to, it is declared that the Southern delegate evil is worst when the Republicans are in control of the Government, and a Republican promises, can swing the average Southern delegate as he will, as Roose, velt did in 1908 and as Tatt did in 1912, and as other Presidents have done before. and as other Presidents have done be

HOMESTEAD RULING MADE

Pederal Control Ceases With Issu-

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Nov. 17.—In the case of John R. Buchser, homestead entryman in the State of Washington, against the guardians of four minor children, the Supreme Court today held that the Federal Government's control over a Federal Government's control over a homestead entry ceased with the issu-ance of patent and that after the patent issued the land became subject to state laws, as any other real estate.

In this case Buchser's wife claimed a half interest in the homestead, but deeded it shortly after the patent issued to her husband.

The Supreme Court holds that the rulings of the lower courts apply in this case and the wife's contention is sustained.

Inquiry by National Association for Advancement of Colored People Reports Effects of Alleged Practice

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 .- (Special.)the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, incorporated in 1911, with headquarters in New York, has received so many complaints and inquiries in regard to the alleged segregation of colored employes in Government departments in Washington that it sent a trained investigator. M. C. Nerney, to Washington to ascertain the facts.

The National Association comprises both white and colored people. Its object is to secure for colored men and women full enjoyment of their rights as citizens, justice in all courts, and equality of opportunity everywhere, it has 20 branches, ranging from Boston to Washington, and from New York to San Francisco and Tacoma. It publishes each month as its official organ the Crisis Magazine, which has a circulation of 22 000.

In the office of the auditor for the Postoffice segregation seems to have been most skilfully worked out. Mr. Kram, the head of this department, said he never would lose an opportunity to introduce it. White operatives doing the same work occupy separate rooms. In one alcove where the investigator visited, there were nine colored women working on the "key punch." The light and ventilation were poor. These women had been moved several times, but originally had been in rooms with white clerks, where they had good light and air.
