consideration of the bill. In the absence of Senator Hitchcock, the only Democratic member who has held out against the Administration bill, it was expected that the Demo-crats of the banking and currency committee would have little difficulty in committing the caucus to the sup-port of the draft of the measure pre-vented by Senator Owen. It was reade sented by Senator Owen. It was made clear, however, that some of the amendments proposed by Senator Hitchcock would be written into the bill by the conference.

Vote May Come at First Lull.

The determination of the Democratic leaders to press the currency bill to a vote quickly became more apparent tonight, when it was virtually agreed that a vote would be asked for when-ever there comes a lull in the speech-making in the Senate. It is believed the cancus will come to complete agreement on all features the bill before Sacurday, and that the Democrats will then unite in the effort to shorten debate and push the bill to its passage. Speeches made in the conference today and tonight, especially by Senators who had recently returned to Washington from their home states, emphasized the demand for immediate action so that condi-tions may resume a normal state and any contraction of credit be prevented.

The caucus discussed the number of regional banks that shall be estab-lished, but came to no decision. It is believed, however, that the eight-bank plan of the Owen bill will be indersed by a large majority of the Democrats. The section of the bill relating to the ownership of the stock of the re-gional bank was not reached tonight, but informal discussion of this subject led the Democratic leaders to believe that the majority favors the ownership of the regional banks by the member banks.

stons sought from the Colombian gov-ernment apparently would have given the Pearson concern indiscriminate right to construct harbor works and canals in connection with the works and balled in the the day. The general death list is not heavy. The general belief is that most of the men who filled the graves were men who were canals in connection with the exploita-tion of Colombian oil deposits. The contract was signed by Lord Murray in Bogota April 24 last and approved by President Rostrepo and his cabinet. It was intimated the grant would give British interests closely alled shot after the capture. One of the points in favor of such a conclusion is the almost undisturbed character of the ground between the two lines. The distance is six miles and the fighting appears to have been on British interests closely allied with the British government itself a right to build an inter-oceanic canal by way of the Atrato and Cupica Rivone line or the other, with little ac-tivity between the two. The ground is scarcely disturbed on any of the intervening territory.

was also asserted that the United States Government would con-sider the building of such a canal as a violation of the Monroe doctrine.
