OREGON CITY, Or., Dec. 15.—(Spe-cial.)—Henry O'Malley today received notice of his appointment as Field superintendent of the United States Bureau of Fisherles, and has been placed in charge of all the fish cultural work of the bureau for the entire Pa-cific Coast, embracing the waters of Oregon, Washington, California and Alaska. He expects to maintain his breadquarters at Oregon City for the present, though later it may be noces-sary to move to Seattle because of the importance of the Puget Sound work and the extent of the Alaska field. He declares that he has matters in such a condition that he will be able to get the actual construction work started by the first of the year, and that the new cannery will be ready for operation when the fruit season begins. Just at present, however, all of the energies of the club are bent in the direction of the $150,000 flax mill that the city plans to get here. San Fran-cisco and Portland capitalists have agreed to furnish most of the money if the city would gather in the resit and assist in signing the farmers for the production of the crop. Commit-toes are at work on the details of the effort to land the mill here, and they affort to land the mill here, and they

Station, on tributaries of the Rogue near Grants Pass, and Clackamas Sta-tion proper. Since Mr. O'Malley came to Oregon City the old station has prac-ticaly been rebuilt, with larger and more modern hatching houses, an in-creased water supply and equipped to insure greater care for the baby fish as well as to increase the egg capacity. Mr. O'Malley entered the service 17 years ago as assistant fish culturist at st. Johnsbury, Vt. Less than two years afterward he was transferred to Lead-ville, Colo. Egg Separation Attained At both these stations the principal work was the propagalion of Eastern brook trout. From Leadville he was seent to Baker Lake and promoted to fish culturist, and when Superintendent Buck resigned Mr. O'Malley was ap-polified in his place. His first work was to install a fish trap at Baker Lake, and this necessitated taking machinery in by pack-horse over the roughest of mountain trails. This was the means of saving the government many thousands of dollars annually He discovered the plan for using a sali from the live ones. Until this discov-ery was made it had always been neces. Sary to pick out the dead eggs by hand. The salt solution caused the dead eggs to float on top of the water, where they were dipped off with a scaff net. Mr. O'Malley's work has not been pleas-ing to the Washington office alone, but the cannerymen of both the Columbia River and Puget Sound as well as the sportsmen of both states praise him. Mr. O'Malley is serving his second term as exalted ruler of the Oregon City Lodge of Elks and is high priest of the Clackamas Chapter of Royal

Egg-Take Increases. At the Clackamas Station under his direction the egg-take has increased stadily, until this year when a grant total of over 53,000,000 salmon and trout eggs were obtained and nearly 3,000,000 shad eggs. The Clackamas field Includes the Big White Salmon and the Little White Salmon rivers in Washington, bordering on the Columbia River; the River Mill Station, on the Clackamas below Estacada; Elk Creek Station, on the Upper Rogue River Lower Rogue River hatchery, situated a few miles below Medford; the Apple-gate Creek Station and Hilnois River Station, on tributaries of the Rogue near Grants Pass, and Clackamas Sta-tion proper.
