Mrs. Wilson contributed several musical selections for the entertainment of the guests.

One of the most enjoyable parties of the season was the regular dance and card party at the Transportation Club Wednesday night. In addition to the dancing and card playing, an interesting exhibition of the castle walk, hesitation waltz and other tango steps were given by Harry Gray and Miss Wirt, adepts in the late Argentine dances. The music was furnished as usual by the Transportation Club orchestra of seven men, and refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. John C. Albright won the prizes.

Case 29—Woman Would Go to People.

Her husband is a cripple and has been for a long time away from Portland, presumably working at odd jobs in a sawmill in the mountains. It has become clear to the woman now that he has deserted her and that she and her three children, the eldest one only 3 years old, are left to shift for themselves. selves.

She has neither money nor food. Her parents live in a nearby state and she is pleading for enough only to make it possible for her and her little children to go to them before Christmas to seek protection and care. The spirit of Christmas is in the air. The beautiful weather yesterday brought out the shoppers in full force. Case 30-Husband Sick; Funds Gone. Case 39—Husband Sick; Funds Gone.

Destitute in Portland, with her husband sick and unable to care for himself, with two little children to look after, a woman appealed yesterday to the Associated Charities for aid. Food for the present and clothing are needed. Her relatives will care for the family if it can be sent to them. Twenty-five dollars or $30 before Christmas will make it possible for this family to be in comfortable and cheery home on Christmas day. They crowded the stores, some buying generously, others "just looking about," hunting for a bargain, for when the pocketbook is slim and there are many to remember one must be careful in se-lecting. The "spug" may be in town, but he wasn't in evidence yesterday and trade was humming.

"Might as well take it with me," is the average man's remark. Some of the women aren't so considerate of the deliveryman. One clerk tells of the woman who ordered a 25-cent pair of sox delivered five miles out on the East Side. A druggist tells of another woman who wanted a small 10-cent article that could have been put in her article that could have been put in her handbag, sent to St. Johns.

Tango Freeks Shown

Tango Frocks Shown.

Tango, the Tango! Even in the Christmas giving the dance is considered. Frocks and slippers for the popular dance are among the most suitable presents for the debutante and the society belle. One of the most beautiful tango gowns shown is built along Grecian lines of pure white heavy crepe with tango pleating to allow of just as much "kick" as is needed and the bodice in V. clear to the waistline. The girdle and sash of emerals green chiffon make a striking contrast.

Another beautiful dancing frock that is to be the property of some fortunate girl is of white net with brassiere effect of shadow lace outlined with pink rosebuds. The butterfly ruching and bow at the back make it distinctive. Gowns of golden-hued velvet and gowns of delicate shades of silks, waists of every description, all make most appropriate gifts for sister, daughter or intimate friend. The display of these articles in the Portland stores rival anything of the sort in the best shops of the East. streets.

Under the direction of Miss Lucie Schmit and her assistants, Miss Grace Funston and Mrs. M. Walker, the girls of the millinery department have learned to make hats—frame, shape and all—including flowers and butterflies.

The styles of various periods are studied and their application to present-day use made. Color combinations, studied and their application to present-day use made. Color combinations, choice of materials, dyeing, renovating, economy in making over old hats into new and all the arts and devices of the professional and the home milliner are taught to the girls, who are thus fitted to make their own hats or have a trade at which they can earn a living. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Adds Healthful Qualities to the Food

Prof. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, explains why Royal Baking Powder adds healthful qualities to the food.

Testifying before the Pure Food Committee of Congress, the Professor stated that fruit acids were excellent articles of food and that of these cream of tartar, the acid of grapes, held rank with the highest both in itself and its effect in the process of leavening and baking. He regarded the results from cream of tartar baking powder as favorable to health. Scientists and hygienists are in accord with this opinion.
