BUTTER—Cresmory prints, extras, 340

The market is as strong, if not stronger, than it has been at any time since harvest. The demand is substantial, and with the great reduction of first-hand holdings, the indications are that prices will advance steadily.

Oregon growers are holding firmly, and this prevents much activity in the local market. Among the deals that came to light yesterday was the sells by George Miller, of Readville, of 69 bales to Money. The same buyers bought 400 bales of Takima hops during the day, the crops of Seudder, the Mexce Hop Company and the Bank of Sunnyside. The terms were not made public. Julius Pincus delivered 388 bales to Joe Harris at 214; cents.

The best evidence of the soundness of the market is the fact that quality is being graded upward. Mediums are becoming primes, and primes are getting into the choice class, and are valued in price accordingly.

After the turn of the year, supply and demand always become the doundnant factors in the market, Bearish pressure is still being exerted in various ways, but the market is clearly seeking its rightful level. Even the American between are coming to a realization of the shortage that is facing them. They have allowed too many hope to go out of the country, and stand a poor chance now of establishing a safe reserve.

Lack of an adequate demand for cash corn here had considerable to do with the rapidity with which the price of futures gave way.

There was a show of strength in wheat

There was a show of strength in wheat early, based in part on higher cables and partly on the smallness of receipts Northwest of here, but the market soon wavered, especially after corn began to sag. Mild wenther, which provailed in both the Winter and Spring wheat helts, counted against the bulls. Prospects of free wheat soon from Canada acted as a wet blanket later on the market.

Pressure from Canadian receipts here was in the main responsible for caus going to the lowest price of the season. For awhile pit traders attempted to cling to the bull side, but finally were forced to let go. Grain longs selling out weakened provisions. Declining prices for hogs tended also to drag down the market.
