WOMEN OF OREGON HEAR BIG LAW SUITS

Three Times Dignity of United States Government Borne on Fair Shoulders.

MARY BELL FAMOUS NOW

Eastern Papers Have Varied Ideas of Girl Who Is Taking Testimony in Case for Dissolution of Alleged Telephone Trust.

Three times the dignity of the United States Government, in suits of National interest and importance, has been represented by a Portland woman, and each time by a different woman.

It is not because Oregon wome have the full right of suffrage, that three of her daughters have been chosen as special examiners for United States District Court, Under ordinary conditions women are not selected for positions of honor and trust in Oregon more frequently than in other states, although Governor West has a woman, Miss Fern Hobbs, as private secretary.

Two of the three feminine special examiners were appointed before womaminers were appointed before wom-an's suffrage was adopted in Oregon, and the adoption of suffrage had noth-ing at all to do with the selection of Miss Mary E. Bell, now acting as spe-cial examiner for the Government in New York City, taking testimony in the case of the United States against the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, accused of being a violator of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Two Others Recalled. The other two were Miss Margaret

States District Judge Wolverton, who went East to take testimony in the Southern Pacific land grant case two years ago, and Miss Vivian Flexner, who has made two trips East and three to California, and who is employed yet as a special examiner in the secondled "innocent nurchases" cases so-called "innocent purchaser" cases growing out of the land grant suit. Miss Violet Webster, stenographer for United States Circuit Judge Gilbert, is the fourth Portland woman to go Mast on business connected with big Governmental suits. She left for New York a week ago to transcribe the testimony in the telephone case from Miss Bell's notes.

Of the four women Portland has sent East on these important missions, Miss Flexner is the only one who was not an official United States court stenog-rapher at the time of her appointment.

Miss Bell's picture has been printed all over the East. She has been photographed and interviewed and character-sketched frequently.

One paper describes her as "small and petite, attired in a pretty gown with a necklace of moonstones about

Another, whose reporter received his impressions of the special examiner by telephone or by pure inspiration, said she was a "big, masculine woman."

Miss Bell denies that she is a "trustas some of the papers have called her.
"I am not here for that purpose," she talls them. "I am morely a disinterest-ed party and have no power whatever in deciding the case."

He is a member of the Cham-ber of Commerce, Commercial Club, Automobile Club, of the executive committee of the Social Hygiene Society and is prominent in fraternal circles. He is married and has three children.

Platform Is Announced. His formal statement of his candidacy and platform follow:

dacy and platform follow:

In announcing my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor, I do so after due deliberation and consideration of the matter, and a full realization of what it means to aspire to the highest executive position within the gift of the people of this state. I am aware of the fact that others worthy of consideration will seek this nomination at the coming primary election. The primary campaign should be a friendly contest between those of the same political faith, all striving to accomplish the same political ends, which I hope will be in every case for the betterment of every condition—moral, social, financial and political.

"Charity is the condemnation of our present civilization. Why should there be a system that demands the doling sout of alms when what men are seeking is independence? Work and the opportunity of independence is what they want; not charity, which places them in a position of supine dependence.

"In the most of these men who are unemployed, I believe, runs red blood of independence as strongly as in yours or mine, and I am not surprised that they condition—moral, social, financial and political ends."

Miss Bell's duty as special examiner is to take the testimony as it is produced by the attorneys for the Government and the telephone company. She has no judicial power; even as to the character of testimony that may be admitted or excluded. Her transcript of mitted or excluded. Her transcript of the record of testimony will be brought to Portland and will be reviewed by Judge Bean in his consideration of the case, and he will decide on its competency.

Another consideration is that the bringing of the hundreds of witnesses, nearly all of whom live in the East, to Portland would involve enormous expenses, and the Government saves much nearly by means of traveling special eximony by means of traveling special eximination. If elected Governor, I will the the the multi-millionaire that he bottom traveling special eximination. The eximination could be supremed to the travel in the association building.

Appearing for the United States in the hearings, which have been conducted in Chicago, Pittsburg. Boaton, Baltimore, New York and other Eastern cities, and Spokane and Tacoma in the West, is Constantine J. Smyth, special assistant to Attorney-General McReynolds, who, with United States District Attorney Reames, filed the suit to dissistive the alleged telephone trust here last Summer. Opposing Mr. Smyth, as counsel for the telephone company, are some of the leading attorneys of the country.

Miss Bell is not a lawyer, and has acquired her extensive knowledge of law and court procedure by her several years work as official stenographer for Judge Bean.

Experience Not New.

To be a special examiner is no novelty for her, as she has engaged in that capacity in four separate suits, of which the one now in progress is by far the most important. She told an Eastern newspaper man that this is her first "big case."

Miss Bell's picture has been printed all over the East. She has been photo.

These seven men from the three parties named are but the vanguard of the host of candidates likely to be in the ring before another month is past. There are abundant evidences of other announcements to follow shortly. Among the Republicans known to covet

"I heard a man say not long ago that the misery of Portland could be relieved only by the recall of Mayor Albee. In my judgment, the man spoke like a fool, and knew neither Portland's misery nor Portland's Mayor. I thought that in this day we were through with that in this day we were through with that old political twaddle that says that if you remove Tom and put Dick or Harry in his place you will remedy or Harry in his place you will remedy conditions. You might recall every one in office, from the highest to the very lowest elected official, but the ex-isting conditions would prevail. When one tells me that the recall of the Mayor would remedy conditions I am inclined to answer him with that street phrase of the children, 'Quit yer kiddin'!'" consideration in planning a farm colony of Jews. I have learned the principles of farming by traveling around among the farmers of my race, working for them, studying their methods and listening to their opinions. My conclusion is that no Jewish colony could be formed successfully with less than 180 families. Among so large a number there would be some who have some knowledge of farming. The financing of the colony would be an easy matter compared to the financing of the same number of individuals.
