So the building will be torn down at once.

MAKE YOURSELF EMPHATIC.—What is worth having is worth making for and to ask alone without emphasizing does not always insure desired results. Mr. Hollabaugh was on his way home with a load of presents for his adopted daughter, Mrs. Helen Tracy, who was to have celebrated her 13th birthday yesterday. He was crossing the street with his umbrella close over his head and evidently failed to see the automobile, for the testimony at the inquest showed that he stepped directly in front of it. The car, say the witnesses, was running at low speed. He died while the ambulance Service Company was taking him to the hospital.

MR. HOLLABAUGH came to Portland 49 years ago. For eight years he was a member of the shoe firm of Wiberg & Hollabaugh, who conducted a store at First and Washington streets in the '80s. Invited six weeks ago of fraudulent use of the mails in connection with real estate transactions of the Oregon Inland Development Company. In affidavits accompanying their trial, Richet and Conway swear that they did not have a fair and impartial trial because of articles against them published in the Journal while the trial was in progress. These articles, they allege, strongly prejudiced public sentiment.

The first of the articles cited is an editorial appearing November 28. Publication of this article while the trial was in progress was severely criticized at the time by Federal Judge Bean. As set forth in the affidavits, a new trial is asked, "because the defendants were prevented from having a fair and impartial trial, and the verdict of the jury was influenced by the publication of articles in the Oregon Daily Journal of Portland, Or., as set forth in the affidavits filed herewith."

Under the most strict medical and sanitary regulations, the unemployed men will be allowed again to use the Gypsy Smith Auditorium as a lodging house. Members of the City Commission yesterday reconsidered their action of Tuesday which resulted in the place being closed following discovery by City Health Officer Marcellus of a case of smallpox.

The building is equipped with many conveniences for the men and it is believed the place can be kept open without danger of contagion following a thorough fumigation. The building and bedding will be fumigated and the men will be forced to keep themselves and the building clean.

At a meeting yesterday of Governor West, members of the League and members of the City Commission, the matter of providing employment for men was taken up in detail. Governor West announced that the City Commission would declare that there is an emergency in Portland and that unemployed must be given work he would be justified in expending state money. A meeting of the City Commission, Governor West, the County Commissioners and members of the State Emergency Board will be held in the City Hall, probably today, to go into the details of plans for creating work for the men.
