

FESTIVAL WILL BE COMMUNION OF JOY

Rose Celebration Plans Are Reaching Working Basis and Outlook Is Good.

GRAND WINDUP ON FRIDAY

Real Prizes, Worth Effort of Competition, Assured and Director Baker Says, "Bring the Crowd, Show'll Sure Be Here."

It is getting around now toward Rose Festival time and the Rose Festival people are beginning to get their plans of entertainment down to a definite working basis.

There is the big fraternal, industrial and military parade of Friday afternoon, for instance. They will have at least three distinct sections, either one of which will be a float.

First of all, to induce spirited competition among the various entrants, the festival board will offer liberal—just how liberal depends upon the volume of contributions—cash prizes in each department.

Everyone knows, they say, that people don't want to go to a lot of work and a lot more expense, win a prize in a parade and then get nothing for it but a cheap, powder cup, a little pink ribbon or an elaborately engraved diploma of some kind.

"We want to make it worth while for people to participate in the parade," said George Baker, executive director of the festival, yesterday.

"We expect to make this parade a spectacle that will attract visitors from the entire Northwestern territory. We hope to make the day a legal holiday and give everyone in Portland a chance to see it."

The big industrial division plan of the Friday parade will present to the people of the state as well as to those in other parts of the state as well, according to the present plans.

"The festival people are eager to get every Portland industry and every community in the northwest represented. This will go far to encourage the 'Made in Oregon' movement, they say, as it will impress Oregon people with a definite sense of what actually is made in the state."

To launch and conduct a parade full of novelties and in floats, this kind will require a lot of money in addition to the cash prizes, they admit, but the festival officials are confident that they will be able to contribute enough to make it possible.

Standards to Be Set. But there will be no promiscuous entry of floats or marching organizations. Each feature will be required to measure up to a certain standard. No lodge will be permitted to enter unless it is properly uniformed.

Mr. Albee's Case Test for State. EUGENE, Or., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Although he has received cash contributions of $20 from each of a dozen Oregon cities willing to join a case to test the validity of the eight-hour law, as applied to firemen and policemen, Mayor Yaran has decided to return the money and let the case against Mayor Albee, of Portland, be the test case for the whole state.

ONLY DEAF ACTRESS IN VAUDEVILLE IS IN PORTLAND THIS WEEK

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE.

Probably the only deaf actress in vaudeville is Miss Gertrude Lawrence, girl star of "Huckins' Run," the rural playlet at the Empress.

A tanko contest will be held at the Empress tomorrow night at both shows. Several couples have already entered the competition, which will be held under the guidance of Montague Barton and Belle Jackson, tango dancers from San Francisco, who are the extra attraction of the Empress show.

B. F. ATHERTON CONVICTED

Defendant Admits Securities Given Woman for Coin Are Worthless.

After a few hours' deliberation the jury which has heard the evidence against Benjamin F. Atherton, on trial for securing $1300 from Mrs. Alice Snyder by false pretenses, returned a verdict of guilty in Judge Kavanaugh's court yesterday afternoon.

Atherton had rooms at Mrs. Snyder's house during the past summer and became friendly, it is said, with Mrs. Snyder, who is more than 70 years of age. By means of their friendship, it is charged that Atherton secured the $1300 from her, giving as security what she testified he represented to her to be valuable contracts with timber companies and one with the Government.

GLENDALE MERCHANT DIES IN PORTLAND

Philip M. Dewey.

Philip M. Dewey, aged 39, died January 24 after an operation at the Good Samaritan Hospital. He was a brother of E. D. Dewey, former of the mailing department of The Oregonian.

Mr. Dewey was a merchant at Glendale, where he leaves a widow and three sons—George, Charles and Henry. He is also survived by his father, E. Dewey, of Gresham, and two brothers, J. Dewey, of Glendale, and E. D. Dewey, of Portland.

Born in Lawrence County, Nebraska, December 15, 1874, Philip Dewey came to Oregon with his parents in December, 1877.

He would allow religious beliefs or occult sciences to prejudice him in arriving at a verdict. Mr. Albee's Case Test for State. CHURCHES PLAN TO AID

MEMBERS WILL CO-OPERATE WITH MEN OF Y. M. C. A. Strangers Are to Be Invited to Attend Meetings and Join Portland Churches.

Closer co-operation between the churches and the religious work department of the Portland Young Men's Christian Association is foreshadowed by a meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The meeting was attended by representatives of nine denominations and by K. E. Randall, religious work director of the association.

The purpose of the movement is to bring the privileges of church membership to the attention of members of the Y. M. C. A. who are not affiliated with any denomination. Committees will be organized in the different churches to take charge of this work. Particular attention will be paid to getting in touch with strangers, large numbers of whom go to the association building each week. They will assure these young men that a welcome awaits them at any of the churches they may wish to attend.
