Every Reader Wants This Beautiful Song Book

The Bridal Chorus in Lohengrin

The Opera from which this Chorus is taken is perhaps the most popular of all the works of Wagner. And the Bridal March, which appears on page 95 of "Heart Songs," is heard all over the world today, at weddings.

To hear its strains is to recall in thousands of hearts the happiest moments of life. The words printed in this book are a very beautiful translation from the original German—and the music is that written by the great Master.

400 Songs—the chosen heart favorites of 20,000 people from all over the world. Every one a gem of purest ray serene.

REV. F. L. LOVELAND IS HEARD BY FLOCK

New Pastor of First Methodist Church Says He Is Ambassador of Christ.

AUDIENCE TAXES BUILDING

Successor to Rev. Benjamin Young Tells Congregation His Opinion of Them Is Question Which Agitates Him Principally.

"No doubt you are wondering how you are going to like your new pastor," said the Rev. Frank L. Loveland, successor to the Rev. Benjamin Young, in his first sermon to his congregation at the First Methodist Church yesterday morning.

Dr. Loveland said that he did not come to Portland to assume the role of a dictator nor to "wield a big stick," but as a brother, a human being, an ambassador of Jesus Christ.

RESULTS DECLARED REAT TEST

In his sermon he said his past theme was "There are two paramount themes in the New Testament, the one is the Christ, the other, Christ's Church. The two are inseparable. Christ's great passion was to build a church against which the gates of hell should not prevail; to prepare an instrument through which and by which he could propagate the great ideas which were to rule and bless the world. This instrument, called the Church, St. Paul designated as being the 'body of Christ.' Every great truth must be incarnated in a body. Ideas are valueless except in so far as they become operative in and through personalities. Truths to become of use to the world must have elbows, hands and feet. Because of this necessity the Bible is filled with biographies. Every great truth and every great ideal were incarnated in some patriarch, prophet or king. Not until God was made flesh and dwelt among us did the world know him at all. The incarnation was a scientific and psychological as well as a theological necessity. Christ's physical body was on the earth only 33 years, but in that body was incarnated Christ himself. That body was buffeted, scourged, crucified and sealed in the tomb in the garden, and the Sanhedrin declared that that ended it, but it did not end it. The Christ that laid aside that body on Golgotha has been incarnated in another form, and that body is called the Church.

Role Is of Messenger

Mrs. Booth said in part: "I come to you simply as a messenger. I represent my boys behind the prison bars who seem to say to me, 'Little Mother, go forth and tell the people that we are human beings and that beneath our rough exterior there is a desire to be clean and decent. Tell them to give us a chance.' There has been a tendency to brand those unfortunate fallen ones and so we hear of the drunkard, the criminal, the convict. But it is our duty to go in the name of the One who sees beneath the surface an undying human soul. We believe that the day of miracles has not passed and that there can now be brought purity and goodness and light out of the deepest shadows. Thousands of letters come to me. They are the cry of the groping soul. These men want the touch of human sympathy that can make them believe in the touch divine. I feel like saying it is up to you and God to see that these poor boys have a chance. Open the doors of honest labor to them and give them hope. 'In the 15 years that I have been in this work I have seen many of the brutalizing systems of the past disappear and have seen the good effects of the humanizing influence. Even in reform, chance is need. 'Even if we can make of every prisoner a model, reform him and bring him out a better man, he cannot get along in the world unless he has a chance. He will need friends and an opening. He will need an employer who, knowing his history, will trust him. After a man leaves prison he should not be forced to go back to the old haunts and to sink in the shadows. A prison cell is a good place in which it is better to be than in a street where they have reached their extremity. They realize the folly of their old life and know it doesn't pay. They are looking forward to release to this what the ex-prisoner needs. 'The league goes to them with the friendly touch. We make the men feel that they must work out their own salvation. There is no good in simply singing to the prisoners or preaching at them. We try to be practical. If there is a chance for any one, it must come from within, but after the doors are open it is up to you. There is a friendly hand outstretched—this is what the ex-prisoner needs. 'Mrs. Booth told of the work done in Hope Hall, where the requisite for admission within its portals is that a man shall have served at least one term in prison, and that he shall have a desire to rise and be a man. 'Good Results Told. 'She told of the practical friendliness extended to "her boys" and of the splendid results that followed her efforts. 'She spoke of "Rainbow House," where the little children and the weary, broken-hearted wives of prisoners are sheltered and of the need they had for love, kindness and sympathy. 'At the close of her address she made a plea for the support of the cause of the Volunteers of America and of the Home for Working Girls. A generous contribution from the congregation was received for the latter institution. 'A packed auditorium, with every available seat taken, and standing-room all utilized, greeted Mrs. Booth this morning at the Taylor-street Methodist Church. The gifted speaker was introduced by Mayor Albee, who paid high tribute to the splendid work of the Volunteers of America and especially to that department directed by Mrs. Booth—the prison reform work. 'Mrs. Booth and her daughter lunched with their hostess, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, and in the afternoon visited the Home, 12 East Seventh street, where a cordial reception awaited Mrs. Booth.

Union High School Proposed

LEBANON, Or., March 1.—(Special.)—A successful school rally, in which six school districts participated, was held at Lebanon yesterday. The object of the rally, which was held under the direction of School Supervisor Joseph Benner, was to bring the schools, teachers and patrons together to discuss the proposition of uniting the districts into one high school district and establishing a high school at Lebanon. 'The chief arguments against prohibition are, first, that it does not prohibit, and, second, that it injures business. I would rather see every saloon site empty than have it occupied by a saloon. 'I have been with the prohibition movement since territorial days. If I am elected Governor, the people can count on the enforcement of strict prohibition by my administration. 'The proper way to deal with people who violate the prohibition laws is the way the Portland officials dealt with the W. V.'s last summer. It is useless to arrest them. 'Rev. A. J. Bolster, of New York, who is here in the interests of the prohibition movement, asserted that the registration officials were influencing the voters against registering under their party name. He denounced this as interference with the rights of American citizens. 'E. A. Rowell presided. 'Boys Listen to Sermon. 'ASHLAND, Or., March 1.—(Special.)—The Boys' Vocational Club attended service tonight at the Presbyterian Church and listened to an address on "The Essentials of Manliness," by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Carnahan. Seats were reserved for 200.

EVER TAKE AN INTERNAL BATH?

It is the New and Scientific Nature-Cure for Many Ills.

INTERNAL BATHING

A most interesting method of Internal Bathing is now being shown and explained by Woodard, Clarke & Co. It is called the "J. B. L. Cascade" and is different from anything else used for the purpose. 'You have undoubtedly noticed that constipation and biliousness, besides bringing on much more serious ill, make us feel nervous, yellow, blue—unfit to think or work—in fact, about 50 per cent inefficient. 'Accumulated waste in the large intestine always causes these troubles, and the old methods of ridding ourselves of it are only partially effective. They force nature, too, instead of assisting her. 'This Internal Bath, however, is taken perfectly naturally—you just use the appliance and warm water—it assists nature instead of forcing her, yet rids the system of the poisonous matter much more thoroughly than any drugs—it keeps one regular, too. 'Inasmuch as many thousands are using and praising the "J. B. L. Cascade" and the most enlightened physicians are prescribing it, it would seem worth every one's while to see the Cascade at Woodard, Clarke & Co., Alder and West Park sts., Portland, and let the principles and operation of the system be thoroughly explained—this, of course, involves no obligation whatsoever.
