SANDY MAY GET ELECTRIC LIGHTS.—Sandy may get electric lights from the Bull Run station. A. C. McMicken and Harry Wakefield, representing the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, visited Sandy last week and investigated conditions and declared they were favorably impressed with the prospects. The Council has agreed to take 12 street lights for a year, and many citizens have signified their will. to take 12 street lights for a year, and many citizens have signified their willingness to take electric light. It is estimated that it will cost $3000 to extend a cable from Buil Run to Sandy, three miles in a direct line. Electric power could be supplied also if wanted in Sandy. The Botkins Company has been started to erect a power plant on Cedar Creek near Cherryville for the purpose of developing eletricity and furnishing Sandy with power and light from that source. This company recently secured a franchise to erect poles on the streets of Sandy.

GROCERS DISTINGUISH TREMSELVES. An old saying and a wise one is, "Men are known by the company they keep," This proverb applies to grocers. Dealers who carry and recommend an article of quality on which they are sacrificing profits expressly for the purpose of satisfying their customers are the ones who distinguish their establishments and become recognized purveyors of quality goods. The grocer who sells Royal "Table Queen" bread is sacrificing profit on bread, but regaining it many times over through increased business in other staples because of distinguishing himself as a dependable merchant.-Adv.

PAVING CONFERENCE HELD.—The first PAVING CONFERENCE HELD.—The first of a series of meetings of City Commissioners Dieck and representatives of various paving companies to prepare new plans and specifications for paving in Portland, was held at the City Hall yesterday. As a celebration of the first anni-versary of the Empress in its ber is way above the average, in fact, deserving of the highest praise.

Joe Maxwell's Dancing Girls, seven attractive, graceful and pretty maids with Ada Proctor leading, are seen in four specialties, all appropriately and elaborately staged and costumed. The act begins "In Toyland" with the girls in unique dress and clogs, and the last scene finds them merrlly singing in a real old-fashioned Oregon or california rain storm. The electrical effects in this feature are superb and every detail is delightful.

Warren and Blanchard captivate the audience with their songs and jokes. They "kid" each other and spring some comical surprises. Warren is a burnt-cork artist and Blanchard ap-pears "all dressed up." #### KREISLER, MARCH 12.

"The great beauty of Mr. Kreisler's playing is something better than the emotional inflammation that drives crowds to madness. He illustrates how art begins where technique leaves off. There is always in his playing something warmly sympathetic that proceeds from the heart. As to his caliber as a musician, it is well understood by the intiate that he stands alone among the living violinists."
