BOARD MEETS

PRINTING PRESSMEN ELECT.-The fol Executive Officers of Leading Business and Commercial Bodies Confer With Governors and Rousing Meeting Result.

At a joint conference of the Rose Festival board of governors and executive officers of the leading business and commercial organizations of the city held at the Commercial Club last night, the Rotary Club openly and officially dared any and every club, society, fraternity or other organization to overbid it in contributing to the Festival fund. The meeting had been called for the purpose of adding imthe new administration. President Berry has advocated a closer affiliation for years, and it is said that the direc-BOOSTERS CLUS TO MEET.—The South Portland Boosters' Club will meet tonight at Gevurtz Hall, Front and Gibbs streets. Reports of committees will be received on the Hillside Parkway, a playground for the children, the franchise given the United Railways on Macadam road and the extension of Fourth street to the city called for the purpose of adding im-petus to the financial campaign in or-der to secure renewals of subscripimits. Commissioner Daly's water neter scheme is expected to be dis-cussed and a representative of the tions from former donors and to reach as many new contributors as possible. After the 10 or a dozen club presi-dents in attendance had agreed to ap-"axpayers' League will speak on the point special finance committees to start in this campaign in conjunction with the Festival management, Fred Speeri, vice-president of the Rotary Club, jumped up and said:

"I have been sent here officially by ur club and instructed to say that the given our solemn pledge to go down on the Rose Festival books with a larger contribution than any other club in the city and we will do it if we go broke the rest of our lives."

Ad Club Has Some Sack.

"We'll see about that," shouted Charles F. Berg, president of the Ad Club, "We've got some sack ourselves."

"The roof's off with us, too," exclaimed Jacob Kanzler, president of the Progressive Business Men's Club.

"Watt till I go out and count our money," urged S. Dean Vincent, president of the Realty Board. "I think we can give you a run for your white alley. can give you a run for your white alley, Another Meeting on Monday.

The net result of the discussion was that committees of five from each of the organizations present will meet with the festival governors at the Commercial Club Monday afternoon at school. Arrangements have just been made with the School Board for the club to use that schoolhouse as a place for all its future meetings. 4 o'clock, and the gathering in of the belated sheckels will be resumed with zest. The first work will be to line up all former contributors and secure heir subscriptions and then tackle the ield that has as yet been untouched. t is expected this will take a month

President Kanzler, of the Progressive Business Men's Club, announced that every member of that body has pledged himself to join a campaign of pand individual boosting for the val and that a further pledge had been taken to drop everything if necessary and assist the management to the limit. At his suggestion a plan will be worked out to provide seats or benches along the curb line for women and children exclusively during all parades. Two more important Rose Festival meetings will be held this week. To-morrow night the water sportsmen and representatives of the local marine and shipping interests will beet in C. V. Cooper's office to arrange for the marine pageant which will welcome Rex Oregonus VII on the opening day of the Festival. On Friday night Director T. L. Perkins will meet with committees from all fraternal organiza-tions in the city to discuss their part in the general programme.

"Hogan the Painter," two weeks ago, he delegated McGettigan to collaborate with him in the writing of "Hogan in London," McGettigan to supply the story and plot and Leslie to enliven the sketch with the slang, for which he is noted in the stage world. Leslie he is noted in the stage world. Leslie contemplates making a vaudeville tour next Summer in "Hogan in London." The sketch tells the story of "Hogan, the Painter," of New York, who is be-queathed 2000 pounds by a Dublin uncle, who was under the impression that his New York nephew was a famous painter, not a dauber. The plot centers about the efforts of a waiter and Mrs. Merriweather, Hogan's fourth cousin, to compel Hogan to remain with the fortune in London. The comedy of the sketch is in the hands of Hogan, the walter and a typical London cabby.
