

CAPTOR CAPTURED BY INDIAN CAPTIVE

Arrow, Idaho, Constable Outwitted and Overpowered by Nez Perce Chief and Wife.

MOXMOX ATTACKS MOTHER

Arrest of Tribe's Giant Beau Brummel Finally Effectuated by Sheriff After Fugitive Drinks Until Peacefully Intoxicated.

LEWISTON, Idaho, March 9.—(Special.)—P. Welsh, Constable at Arrow,

Idaho, started to arrest Chief Thomas Moxmox, of the Nez Perce tribe, accused of beating his aged mother, but the officer passed the night as a prisoner in the Indian's house and walked back to town, eight miles, minus his hat, revolver and some preconceived notions of an Indian's lack of sagacity. The Constable told Sheriff Lydon that when he found the Indian he had no trouble in arresting him. The pair were waiting for a train when Moxmox, who is a physical giant, and the Beau Brummel of his tribe, asked to be allowed to go to the river for a drink. The Constable gave permission, and a few minutes later found himself overpowered by the red man and his squaw. The squaw stuffed part of a shawl in the officer's mouth and with her husband's aid marched Constable Welsh up Potlatch Creek and kept him a prisoner all night.

Meantime the finding of the officer's hat near the scene of the scuffle beside the river started the report that he had met foul play. Sheriff Lydon took up the trail and located Moxmox in a clump of brush. Covering the Indian with his gun the Sheriff arrested him, but not until he had finished the contents of a liquor bottle. Sheriff Lydon then obtained a bandage and brought Moxmox to Arrow Junction, where they embarked for Lewiston.

In the meantime the Indian had become peacefully drunk and tonight he lies in a stupor at the county jail. The aged mother of the redskin is badly cut and bruised about her head and face.

LAW CAUSES GRUMBLING

WASHINGTON OFFICIALS MAY NOT CHECK INITIATIVE PETITIONS.

Provision Requiring All Persons Signing to Be Registered Voters Threatens to Make Trouble.

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 9.—(Special.)—

The feature of the state initiative law which requires that all signatures to initiative petitions, to be valid, must be those of registered voters, threatens to cause trouble in the present campaign. Under the law, city registration officials must check the signatures on the petitions with those in the registration books. No financial compensation is provided, and already rumors of dissatisfaction and threats to refuse to do the work have been heard.

W. H. Kingery, Socialist member of the Legislature, in charge of the campaign for the eight-hour law, said that Tacoma City officials are prepared to resort to a charter provision allowing them to make a specified charge for comparing signatures. For this reason, Kingery said, the eight-hour petitions will not be circulated in Tacoma, at least for the present.

Mr. Kingery said that by circulating the eight-hour petitions at the polling places during the municipal election at Seattle last week, 25,000 signatures were obtained. The joint committee of labor and farmers' organizations, notes that the election is over, plan to circulate the "seven sisters" petitions in all parts of the state.

The Anti-Saloon League forces already have made considerable headway toward procuring signatures for the statewide prohibition measure, and will close their campaign for signers April 1. By that time they expect to have 100,000 signatures. About 32,000 valid signatures are required to insure a place on the ballot for a measure.

HOURS MAY BE CHANGED

City Commission Considering Shift of Wednesday Meeting.

To make it possible for all matters coming before the Council at its regular meetings Wednesdays to be placed on the printed calendar of proceedings it is probable the City Commission will change its meeting hour from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M.

By postponing the meetings until 2 o'clock Wednesday the calendar, it is said, could be sent to the printer Monday and all matters could be presented. There has been much complaint about the Council considering so much "fifths" rule matter because it is said the public is not notified beforehand of its coming up.

FRUIT INSPECTOR TO AID

War Against San Jose Scale Starts in Earnest.

CLARKSTON, Wash., March 9.—(Special.)—W. B. Harris, district state fruit

Inspector for Whitman and Asotin Counties, has arrived from Garfield, and immediately will take up the cudgels with the fruitgrowers in the fight against San Jose scale. He expects to be here for several days, and will return from time to time during the period that the orchards are being sprayed in order to insure good work. An accurate check-up of the spraying also will be made in an effort to learn definitely the comparative values of crude oil and the lime-sulphur solution. He states that a determined effort will be made this year to free the fruit from disease, and positively no fruit will be allowed to be shipped or sold locally unless it is clean. Through much insufficient spraying last year, the orchard pests secured a greater hold, it is believed, than usual, and the growers have learned that only thorough and consistent work will check their inroads.

His early life was passed mostly at Heppner, where his father was a merchant and cattleman. He gained part of his education at the old Bishop Scott Academy in Portland. When about 18 years old he began teaching. When 23 years old he started a private bank at Heppner, Or., associated with the Rhea Bros. Later he turned it into the First National Bank of Heppner. He married Miss Ida May Patterson, of Logansport, Ind., January 27, 1888. The following year he sold out his interest in the Heppner Bank and went to Goldendale, Wash., and started the First National Bank of Goldendale.

He liquidated his bank about 1897, paid all his depositors in full and in 1899 went on a fruit farm at Colton, the Columbia River. In 1904 he came to his place on the Klickitat, known as Maddock Mineral Springs, where he and his wife ran a summer resort. It was there that he died.

For years he was connected with several of the leading newspapers of Oregon and Washington, and through them he kept Klickitat before the public. He belonged to the United Artisans and Masons.

O'NEIL PLEA FOUGHT

Stormy Session of Idaho Pardon Board Held.

'BARNEY' BITTERLY SCORED

Attorney for ex-Banker Declares Clemency Only Opposed by Rich Man's Lobby and Warns Officials of Rebuke at Polls.

BOISE, Idaho, March 9.—(Special.)—

Charges of political intimidation, crooked dealings and the maintenance of a rich man's lobby against the application were made before the State Board of Pardons today during a stormy session when the application of B. F. (Barney) O'Neil, convicted president of the defunct State Bank of Commerce, of Wallace, for a full and complete pardon, was heard. The Board took the application under advisement, wishing to review the evidence. Robert E. McFarland, of Coeur d'Alene, appeared for O'Neil. James A. Wayne, former County Attorney of Shoshone County, opposed the application. L. C. Wilson, receiver of the bank, was also here, but did not speak. McFarland charged that only wealthy men of Shoshone County wanted O'Neil imprisoned. He declared that outside of Shoshone County, in North Idaho, the people are unanimous for a pardon, and that as Idaho had a direct primary and the people had thus spoken to the officers elected by them they should heed their wishes. He charged that if they do not they may expect rebuke at the polls. In opposing the pardon and scoring O'Neil only left the fixtures, vault and safe of the bank when he broke it by his false transactions. He said O'Neil got $326,000 of the bank's money and his assets were only about $4000; his campaign for Governor cost the depositors $35,000, of which $20,450 went to Allen Haynes, of the defunct Inland Herald, of Spokane; that his dealings were all dishonest and he never gave a penny of his own for even a charitable purpose, but always used the bank's funds.

The Republican nomination for State Senator from Umatilla County will probably carry with it the election, according to Will M. Peterson, chairman of the County Democratic Central Committee. He says that while the party has plenty of available timber for this position no one seems willing to make the race. The Republican aspirants are J. N. Burgess, incumbent, and Frank Sloan, a prominent rancher of the irrigated district. L. L. Mann, Representative, has formally announced he will not seek reelection to the Legislature, but will seek the Republican nomination for Sheriff. He will not be opposed in the

COPPERFIELD PROBE SET

GRAND JURY AT BAKER TO PASS ON SEVERAL CASES.

District Attorney Plans to Seek Indictments and Begin Crusade When Governor's Fight Ends.

BAKER, Or., March 9.—(Special.)—

The grand jury investigation at the coming session, March 16, promises to center around Copperfield, with the many cases which were hinted at by Governor West coming up for a searching inquiry. District Attorney Godwin is said to have obtained some concrete evidence (not from the Governor) and several indictments are expected to result. One Copperfield case, evidence in which was provided by Colonel B. K. Lawson, when at Copperfield with the militia, is against William Wiegand, the Copperfield saloonman who is suing Governor West for $4000 for the destruction of his business. Colonel Lawson has been subpoenaed to appear. The case is an outgrowth of Colonel Lawson's finding in Wiegand's saloon alleged improper pictures, and an indictment is to be sought on these grounds. District Attorney Godwin intends to make a strong crusade against Copperfield on selling liquor to minors and gambling, but he is withholding his fire until after Governor West's crusade has ended. This, however, is the first grand jury session since the alleged law violations.
