ACTUAL OPERATION SHOWN

If Present Reserve Is Required, Irrespective of National Act, Hardship Would Be Worked on Oregon Institutions.

SALEM, Or., March 29 .- (Special.) --That Oregon needs to take a stand soon regarding reserve requirements for state banks in order that they may conform to those of the new Federal reserve system was asserted today by S. G. Sargent, State Bank Superinten-He suggests that the bankers of the state give the question study, so amendments to the banking laws may be formulated at the next state con vention for submission to the Legisla-

The pyramiding of reserves, as a present," said Mr. Sargent, will be su-perseded by the system of fixed re-serves when the currency law becomes fully operative. It is obvious that un-incident to the transferring of the re-Federal reserve bank, it is likely that many of the banks would not care to maintain the required state reserve, yould, therefore, seem necessary to adopt a new system of reserves, if we are to conform with those of the Federal reserve system. It has been sug-gested that this might be accomplished by using the Federal reserve bank as reserve depository or by establisha state reserve bank on similar

"Our state law divides the banks into two classes. Banks in cities of $0,000 inhabitants or less must carry a reserve of 15 per cent of their deposits and banks in cities having a population of more than 50,000 and all banks approved by the Superintendent of Banks, as reserve agents, must carry a reserve of 25 per cent of their com-mercial deposits and 15 per cent of the

"Of the 170 state banks reporting to this department January 13 this year 71 are not now eligible for membership in the Federal system on account of the capital requirements, but to make a comparison of the reserves under the two systems I will assume that all state banks are members with their present capital, surplus and live de-posits.
