SAN FRANCISCO, April 9 .- (Special.) -After many gallons of gasoline had been spilled and burned and many more been spilled and burned and many more sacks of sawdust has been scattered over the mud-covered infield, Del How-ard and Walter McCredie decided to play a game over at Oakland this after-noon, and the surprise was that a real exhibition of our National pastime was dished up with a 2 to 1 Portland victory

But why shouldn't the Beavers and Seals be at home in water and mud? Judging from the way they played today under overhanging dark clouds and over a heavy field they had ideal conditions proved!

Undoubtedly the reason for such a Undoubtedly the reason for such a close and interesting contest was the presence of two star hurlers on the mound. Charles ("Skeet") Fanning came out for the Seals and Harry Krause did the honors for the Beavers, and it was a beautiful pluching duel. The left-hander emerged winner, but the form displayed by "Skeet" is a source of much satisfaction to local fans.

"Skeet" Master of Situation. In inning two Fanning lost his effectiveness for a few minutes and a series of four singles, coupled with an error due to the slippery condition of the ball, gave the northmen their two runs necessary for victory. Outside of that period Fanning was the same old "Skeet" who finished 1913 as the second best pitcher in the league. He had the hop on his fast ball and brought into play curves that proved baffling. It is true he was touched up for six bits play curves that proved baming. It is true he was touched up for six hits besides those four in the second, but he scattered them thoughtfully and was master of the situation.

To Harry Krause's credit be it said that he pitched airtight ball. His specialty was a change of pace and an assortment of curves, and it was quite successful. He faltered a wee bit in assortment of curves, and it was quite successful. He faltered a wee bit in the first inning, when two were down and a triple and single saved the Seals from a crushing defeat. In the second inning he was touched for a couple more hits, but then he started going and was never in what might be termed a dangerous situation. In the last seven innings he scattered three sin-gles. The fielding as a whole was creditable considering the muddy grounds.

The game can be described easily by telling what happened in the first and second innings. It was the Scals who took the lead first. Two were out of the way when Biff Schaller proved that he can slap left-handers as well as right-handers by banging a three-basger to right field. Jerry Downs picked out the first ball offered for a Texas leaguer to left. That tallied Schaller, but it was the last of the Ryan Real Cleanup Boy. In the second Krause led off by striking out. Donne, however, singled sharp-ly to left. Speas dropped a single to right, and when Rodgers poked a sino deep short the sacks were much Buddy Ryan, the cleanup dude, Buddy Ryan, to center field singled over second to center field, could not hold the ball and Doane and Speas crossed the plate. At Pendleton it was a case of too much Gravelle, the Buck hurler letting King's Kubs down with two hits and one walk. Lefty Darling, of Baker, was swatted in bunches. The game was good for the grandstand, as there was some brilliant work in the field. Pendleton took one at the start on a double sacrifice and single, while four hits and an error gave the rest in the fifth. Baker got a score in the sixth on a double steal and error, Lind, who scored, got both Baker's hits. Peters son was hurt and is out for two weeks. Pembrooke takes his place.

The baseball boosters' opening-day parade was the subject of another long discussion at yesterday's meeting of the Boosters. Reports from all com-the Boosters. Reports from all committees indicated that the parade will be as large or larger than that which welcomed the Portland Beavers on their arrival last Spring.

Every order or association and mercantile and civic organizations have promised to help the Boosters make the Beavers feel that they are thoroughly welcome in their home town.

So as not to cause any confusion, the Boosters' committee has made arrangements to have an American flag hoisted on The Oregonian tower at noon of the day of the game.

The Oregonian is making arrangements to have the same thing done all over the city and in the suburbs.

Just as soon as President McCredie gives the word that the game takes place it will be dispatched to the designated stations and flags will be raised immediately.

Bloom in the discus seems to be a sure first place winner and in Landreth, Fleetwood and Robert Bown there are a trio of quarter-milers which should form the nucleus of a record-breaking relay team. Fleetwood is showing form in the half. He ran his first test against time this week in 2:19 and finished fresh.
