WORK FOR ARMY NEWCOMERS NEEDED.

The most pathetic case recorded in the report of the Associated Charities is that of a family of nine—father, mother, girls aged 13, 6 and 2 years, and a baby girl of 6 weeks; boys, aged 14, 8 and 4. These people are Bohemians, scarcely able to make themselves understood in English. They are destitute, living in one basement room. The man is a capable farmer who came here recently thinking this a "land of promise." He wants work on a farm, but so far unable to get a place. The children all have aggravating colds, and are in need of food, clothing and care. Anyone knowing of a location in the city where the man could work would aid the Associated Charities in their efforts for the family by telephoning Main 717.

MANY INDORSE PLAN

Go-to-Church-Sunday Gains New Supporters Daily.

EVERYONE PREPARES TO GO

Judge Cleaton and Members of Police Department Approve Movement—Interesting Special Services Are Arranged.

"Go-to-church Sunday." All signs point that everyone is going next Sunday. The movement gathers new and enthusiastic supporters. Voluntary indorsements are coming in from men in every profession.

Circuit Judge Cleaton says: "Any campaign which by persuasion or education results in persons acquiring the church-going habit must improve the moral conditions of our community. As such it meets with my approval and I believe with the approval of the majority of the residents of Portland. I sincerely hope the movement is successful as I believe it will be."

"I heartily approved of this movement," said Police Captain Inspektor. "The church people are not the ones that figure in the Police Court."

"I know from personal experience that some people are afraid to go to church. They hear about being called on to confess their sins or to testify and they form a morbid dread of entering a church."

Police Captain Cleaton felt that the move was of great importance especially for the younger generation. Church training is especially important for the young," he said. "If they get started right it is half the battle won. This movement can be of great value in getting them started to church. Then it is up to the churches to keep them."

The churches are planning interesting services. Everything is being made ready for a big gala day for example at the Universalist Church. Miss Greco the organist will present a choice repertoire of music; the regular choir will be augmented. The pastor, Rev. J. D. Corby, will speak on "The Challenge of Modern World Problems to the Church." Visitors should be at the church at 10:30 o'clock to hear the opening musical parts of the service and obtain good seats.

The Sunshine Hour Sunday school which meets at noon will also have special features for those who attend and important announcements regarding the improved methods for the primary and junior departments will be made.
