CHARMING BRIDE WHOSE WEDDING OCCURRED LAST NIGHT

MISS MARY LELLA CAMPBELL became the bride of Thomas Lane Emory last night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Jerome Campbell. The wedding was a charming, simple affair, only 50 guests attending. They included the most intimate friends of the young couple, and the members of the Friday Afternoon Club, of which the bride is an enthusiastic member. Rev. Horace Ramsey, of St. Stephens Pro-Cathedral, officiated, and the bride was given into the keeping of the bridegroom by her uncle, H. C. Campbell.

The ceremony was read before a bank of dogwood blossoms and ferns, and the attendants were Miss Ruth Rosenfeld, bridesmaid, and Dr. Alan Welch Smith as best man. Little Miss Florence Pangle and Master William Wiggins were pillow-bearers.

The house was a veritable bower of bride's roses and white lilies, combined with lacy ferns and arranged in an artistic manner.

The bride, who is an extremely pretty girl, was charming in a lovely robe of ivory charmeuse, elaborated with a graceful drape of Chantilly lace. Her veil was a delicate, fine mesh, which is a priceless family heirloom. It was wreathed with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was a shower arrangement of lilies of the valley and bride roses.

Miss Rosenfeld was attractive in a pastel pink charmeuse, draped with exquisite lace. Her bouquet was a shower of pink sweet peas and ferns.

Little Miss Pangle was daintily attired in a chic embroidered frock with shimmering pink wash and hairbow. Little Master Wiggins was admired in a smart white suit built on David Copperfield lines and gay flowing pink tie.

Mrs. Jerome Campbell, mother of the bride, was charming in a handsome gown of black lace over white satin.

After the ceremony the guests held and a buffet supper was served. The table was artistically adorned with bride roses, and was presided over by Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse and Miss Celia Swiger. They were assisted by the Misses Luella Bronaugh, Helen Krause and Doris Clark. Stationed at the punchbowl were Miss Greata Butterfield and Miss Clara Marsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory left for a wedding trip to the Sound cities, and upon their return will be at home at 429 Harrison street.

Miss Grace Baxter, the attractive daughter of Col. and Mrs. John E. Baxter, arrived Monday evening from a visit in California and is with her parents at Alexandra court. Miss Georgia Varum will compliment her with a bridge-tea this afternoon.

Phi Delta Phi Fraternity will give a large dance on Thursday evening, April 23, at Hotel Multnomah. These affairs have always been brilliant social events, and this one is expected to surpass previous ones.

The important social event of last night was the Friday Night Dancing Club's extra party given at Cotillion Hall. The hall is in itself very artistically decorated, and enhanced the loveliness of the gowns of the matrons and maids present. Practically every member of the Club attended last night's affair, and it was one of the merriest and most delightful of all their dances. An elaborate buffet supper was a feature of the evening, and the table was decked with pink and blue hydrangeas. Receiving the guests were Mrs. E. C. Bowen, Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. John K. Kollock, Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mrs. E. C. Shevlin and Mrs. David T. Honeyman.

Proceeding to the dance, Miss Isabella Gault presided at a pretty dinner party in honor of Miss Mildred Honeyman and Miss Clara Welder, popular engaged girls. Miss Gault's guests numbered 16. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett also entertained at a dinner party for several members of the Club.

A delightful affair of yesterday afternoon was the matinee to see "Peg o' My Heart" at the Heilig Theater, given by Mrs. Clara H. Walton in honor of the 30 girls and three professors from the domestic science department of the Oregon Agricultural College, who are visiting various friends and relatives in this city.

After the matinee Mrs. Waldo further entertained her guests at the Hazelwood for tea. The guests included Miss Ava B. Milan, professor of domestic science; Mrs. Brooks, professor of household arts; Mrs. Henrietta W. Calvin, dean of household economy, and the Misses Norma Bick, Jennie Caldwell, Marie Hofer, Anna Keller, Wilda Salamon, Estelle Sheldahl, Virginia Keatley, Edith Allworth, Hazel Cartan, Mildred Wilson, Evelyn Spencer, Lillian Thordarsen, Myrus Sammut, Wynne Sheldahl, Archibald, Lottie Milan, Lottie Mentzer, Kathleen Kirkpatrick, Cordelia Goffe, Edythe Shaw, Merle Bowen, Alice Butler, Sarah Vineyard, Esther Smith, Loraine Miller and Mrs. Swafford.

They are visiting the high schools, trade schools, large bakeries, Union Meat Company, several markets, and large interior decorating shops. Tomorrow will be devoted to inspecting the Oregon Woolen Mills at Oregon City, and the various tea rooms, kitchens at the Y. W. C. A. and in some of the hotels. The object of the excursion is to give the students every advantage to study the practical side of their work.

Mrs. Waldo has been connected with the state college for years as a member of the board of regents and is an earnest and faithful worker in its interests.

Miss Fern Nickum recently returned from San Diego, where she passed the Winter months. Miss Nickum will be hostess for a pretty tea this afternoon for a number of college girls who are passing their vacations in this city.

Another affair planned for the girls' home from college is to be for which Miss Mary Siglin will be hostess tomorrow afternoon.

An interesting event of this evening is the "barn dance" to be given by the Haines Riding Club at the Portland Riding Academy at 8 o'clock. The dance will be a "really and truly" barn dance, the floor of the barn has been put in condition for dancing, and attractive decorations enhance the building. The dance is to be preceded by a class drill, a feature of which will be hurdding and fancy riding.

Mrs. George E. Reed and Miss Ruth Catlin will give a tea at the residence of the latter, 161 North Twenty-third street from 4 to 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

MISS R. F. writes, "I have read and been impressed with your sincere and sound advice given in The Oregonian and think probably you can help me. I am troubled with a most disagreeable taste in my mouth. Have had it off and on for years and am simply at a loss to know what causes it, as I have no catarrh and have always kept my teeth in the best of condition, and have no apparent trouble with my stomach unless it is possible that gases from there cause ill-effects in the mouth without first giving pain in the stomach. I am a young woman of 28 and while not fleshy or robust, I have had little or no sickness."

"Also could you tell me what causes lip sores? My sister, a healthy girl with good blood, is bothered with them."

due to the presence of pus germs in the skin. At the first appearance of the swelling, if free, or very hot compresses are applied, the sore may be averted. Also the application of camphor or pure menthol may check the process. After the sore has disappeared I would suggest that you simply apply hot towels to the face for a few minutes to steam it, and then shampoo it thoroughly to remove all germs from the skin. If this is done once or twice a week for time, these sores may entirely cease to appear.

Divorced Life

"Whom God Hath Joined Together,"

"CUT a clipping of this morning's newspaper which I knew will interest you, my dear." "What is it, Mrs. Lily?" inquired Marian, motioning her visitor to a chair. The latter, the angular childless gossip-loving magazine subscriber, handed her a clipping from the table at the boarding house, had been altogether too persistent and frequent a caller at Miss Winthrop's door of late. To Marian, this creature seemed to be the embodiment of everything she detested about a boarding house.

"It's about the prevalence of divorce," smiled Mrs. Lily. "A United States Senator from the South, I see, proposed an amendment to the constitution, prohibiting divorce, entirely with the right to re-marry," she added with a tone of obvious triumph in her voice.

"A brilliant idea, I'm sure," rejoined Marian ironically. "But why not, my dear?" argued the other. "I have given up the realization of the 'evil.'" Here Marian conquered an impulse to protest against the term "evil," and resolved to let her visitor go on unchecked, in order the quicker to get rid of her.

"Did you know that more divorces are granted in the United States than in all the rest of Christendom combined?" pursued Mrs. Lily ruthlessly. "Listen what this Senator says: 'Divorce is spreading with alarming rapidity. It has permeated every walk of life, and every class of people. The total number of divorces granted in 1887 was 27 for every 100,000 of population, while in 1906 there was 86 for every 100,000 of population. At this rate, before the middle of this century, we shall have annually in the United States 275 divorces for every 100,000 of population, or one divorce for every five marriages.' Isn't it perfectly horrible?"

Marian bit her lip. "Well, what do you want me to do," she said coldly. "Draw up a diagram showing the reasons for the increase in divorce?" "Why no. It isn't any of my affair, you know. I surely didn't mean it personally," pursued Mrs. Lily.

"Oh, didn't you? That's very sweet of you, I'm sure," returned Marian just as softly, thinking it best to hide her resentment behind soft words. "But really divorce statistics and glittering generalities about what they call the divorce evil don't interest me at all. I'm a purely practical woman, and I propose to make the matrimonial plunge. Why, the state makes it more difficult to form a business partnership than it does to get a matrimonial partnership! Ridiculous!"

A sanctified look overspread the countenance of Mrs. Lily. "Whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder," she retorted. "That's ridiculous! If you'll pardon me," shot back Marian. "What is easier, and at the same time sillier, than for human beings to blame their mistakes upon God? I think it's the height of sacrilege. It's the argument of religious fanaticism. And it doesn't grow out of a worship of God, either. It grows out of a man's blind egotistical idea of what God is, when he then proceeds to worship, in every other phase of life, progress and righteousness are based upon the effort to correct mistakes, and to make the world a better place. Why shouldn't the same rule of action be applied to marriage?"

Mrs. Lily could think of nothing to reply. So she changed the subject, and soon she glided with cat-like motion, and a purred farewell, to the door. "Another thank 'settled her," mused Marian with a smile.

Third, a bad taste may be due to fermentation in the stomach and intestines. The poisons are absorbed by the blood and are eliminated through the secretions into the mouth. Auto-intoxication is a frequent cause of a bad taste.

I would suggest that you form the habit of drinking two to three quarts of water every day. Drink on rising in the morning, between meals, and on retiring. The frequent drinking of small quantities of water will help you to gain weight, which no doubt would be agreeable to you.

Lip sores are due to slight colds of the mouth, and they may be due to stomach trouble. The "fevering" is husband and do not want anyone to come between us. I have given him no cause to act so. Hoping this will be in time for next Sunday's Oregonian. Yours truly, A DESPERATE WIFE.

Your grief and your misfortune make my heart ache for you, now that you have met this world-old problem: How to hold the love of the man you love.

Love is a queer thing; it comes and it goes like a summer dream, sometimes, and men are cruel sometimes in the way they change their affections. There is nothing to do but to fight—to grapple on the armor of your womanliness and to fight.

Your weapons are the charms your husband once loved; your sweetness, your character.

There is little use in chiding; little help in tears or frowns. Try to awaken his memory. Bring to your aid the friends of your acquaintance unknown to him or them, and try to lift him up to a higher moral plane.

Wear a brave smile, remember some of your girlhood ways, and don't lose courage. Study him and yourself. Don't bore him. Draw him out about his troubles, if he has any, and ambitions. Cheer him up and make home pleasant for him.

Here's hoping you win.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKensie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

1 K C Apple Dumplings
One and one-half cups sifted flour; 1/4 teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1/4 cup shortening; about 1/2 cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two of these tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk.

Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the J. C. Leavelle Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

Yes: Serve Campbell's Tomato Soup.

"Prepare it as a Cream-of-tomato, please."

And this is done as easily as said; and almost as quickly. Simply heat the contents of the can and an equal quantity of milk separately. Bring them to the boiling-point but do not let them boil. And when ready to serve take them from over the fire and pour the hot soup into the hot milk—this prevents curdling.

The whole process doesn't require over three minutes. And you have as fine a cream-of-tomato soup as you ever tasted. Why not enjoy it for dinner today?
