HOP GROWERS WAIT

No Pressure to Sell New Crop in Oregon.

LOWER PRICES INDICATED

Dealers Figure on Possible Business at 14 Cents, but There Are No Sellers at This Price-Spot Market Is Neglected.

There is some interest displayed again in the hop contract market, but there is particular activity in the demand, no there any selling pressure on the part growers. If husiness of any volume should be worked it would propably be at a lower ing 15 cents, but the general quotation on the new crop is 14 cents, with perhaps half a cent better obtainable on a favored yard. While a number of growers have indicated would contract at the higher price named, no offerings at the lower figure are trade is divided in opinion as to the advisability of taking on new hops at these quotations. Aside from cases where pur-chases might be made to cover sales already effected, such operations would be a pure as the future of the market is uncertain. The crops, which are uncertain. et to he made, at present promise very well. ffected by the prohibition movement, Another undetermined factor is the financial and industrial condition that may result from the wiar.

As for the spot market, it has completely flattened out. There are no orders on hand now, so far as known, even at concessions from lately prevailing prices. Not many hops remain in the hands of Oregon growfrom lately prevailing prices. Not many hops remain in the hands of Oregon grows, only about 8000 bales, and speculators and dealers at the most do not have over 8000 bales and speculators and dealers at the most do not have over 8000 bales in addition. With an active Eastern and foreign demand this quantity would be insignificant, when compared with the total crop, but with demand lacking and the new season drawing on, this supply is sufficient to act as a depressing weight on the market. Holders are maked, particularly in the supply is sufficient to act as a depressing no efforts yet to unload at less than previous prices, hopfing that new-crop developments will favorably affect the situation. The coming month will throw some light on this phase of the question.

LOOKING AHEAD IN WOOL MARKET

Buyers Not So Certain as They Were of the Future Prices.

Eastern wool dealers are beginning to wender whether or not they have paid too much for wools in the West. The early operators are well satlafied with the prospects. In fact they be-mosh having falled to buy more extensively before the rates advanced in the West Furthermore, the situation stands in their favor for the moment in this center, with the likelihood of a ready turnover of the first arrivals, at a profitable level of prices.
"Conservative interests, however, see an tacle shead for the wools secured at higher prices. Foreign wools are going to be a substantial factor in the reckening. The first wools are expected to bring good prices because of the demand for fin season on lightweight goods. CHICAGO, April 24.—Wheat prices turned downward today on account of the general rains supplementing the much-needed moisture received during the previous 24 hours. Selling, however, was not at all aggreestly and the close was steady at % to 4c net decline. Other leading staples, too, all showed a setback—corn % % % to to $60 % c. oats a shade to 4c and provisions 5 to 20c. The downpours in the West and Southwest resulted immediately in extensive sales of cash wheat to come here from Kansas (City. Besides, good authorities were quoted as declaring that abandoned acreage would now be very small. Considerable interest was taken in a report that consignments of No. 2 red Winter had been made from Toledo to Baltimore, notwithstanding that Baltimore prices are nominally lower than Quotations at Toledo. Millers explained that Baltimore may be a more important point send for Army and Navy supplies.
