

EVELYN THAW IS APPEAL HEART

Wisp-Like Dancer Grips Her
Two Sunday Audiences at Heilig's and Holds On.

CROWDS GASP SURPRISE

Dramatic Thrill of Her Gestures, an Indescribable, Swirling Madness,
Requiring No Word to Magnify Nor Emphasize.

BY LEONE CARR BAER.
Every once in a while something goes right. There's Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, for instance. She has come right up to the heights, the same heights that only a few years ago, a great big dent, almost a deep hole, for her. Her performance yesterday was a shock to the expectations of calamity prophets.

Portland's best and most confirmed aesthetes galloped to the Heilig in two relays, a matinee and a night crowd, out of pure or more or less pure, unadulterated curiosity to have a good, square, first-hand look at the "most talked of woman in the world." With the price of beef and ice soaring, the rabble fought and all but gouted its neighbor to crowd in and get well settled before Evelyn Thaw came on the stage.

Audiences Become Fervid.
A fever of unrest, in fact two fevers of unrest, one for each performance, possessed the audiences.
They had come to see Evelyn Thaw, and they didn't give a damn whether she did a juggling act or "correct imitations" of Anna Held and George M. Cohan, or whether she merely came in and recited "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star."

The audience, three-fourths of whom, by the way, took the vaudeville part of the bill as a personal affront to their admission money. It was a well-earned sort of thing—any day—bring—on-Evelyn sort of expression. And when she did come, peeping her face like face through a parting in the great velvet hangings of royal purple, an audible gasp swept through the house. She did look like a queen, and she was, and she was youthful and she was not ornate, neither was she appeared in fine linen nor fussiness.

Two Combs Only Ornaments.
She wore no jewelry, only a bright little comb, which fell out when she danced, were her only ornaments. Her dress was of the June graduation sort, a soft, straight, white, with a white, innocent frock, and, unlike Gaby Deslys, Mrs. Thaw had her waist made with regulation arm-holes, with shoulders that stayed put and her gay little slippers had acutely high heels. Her big, frightened eyes swept the audience once, as if she would send a plea for kindness to her jury. A wave of sympathy swelled back to her and she stepped from the curtain folds, drawing her dancing partner, Jack Clifford, by the hand.

Anything that upsets the expected order of things is balm to most of us, and so the little Evelyn Thaw, dancing like a gay little will-o'-the-wisp, rather pleased. For this little slip of a woman dances much more for the world than the world has danced for her.

Her Dance Is Work.
No I. W. W. would find an atom of joy in Mrs. Thaw's dancing. It is too much like work. There is something furious in her mad swirlings and leaping through space. It is such a thoroughly digested sort of dancing, to work.

Mrs. Thaw's exquisite delicacy of body, a sort of early-dawn loveliness, cries, nay shrieks, a lie to the athletic, strenuous high noon of her dancing. Neither bears the other out with consistency. Mrs. Thaw's dance is an acrobatic, call it what you will, a swirling, mad, dervish, throwing carelessly about, of emotions, legs, arms, smiles and hair.

There is no living poetry about it. The little Thaw treads the stage in confidence, for Jack Clifford is the motor power. She is a dancer, she is in mid-air and floats across the stage, always with the watchful, careful Mr. Clifford at the helm. She exhibits amazing grace.

Radiant Face Is Toward Audience.
And all the while she turns her pretty head, with its crown of all-her-own brown hair, so that she can face the audience. She flashes radiant smiles and makes a personal appeal. Those who come to scoff remained to praise. She is not only a dancer of physical ability, but her greatest drawing card is her beautiful art.

In "Marie," a musical pantomime, Evelyn Thaw is amazingly clever. She evidences dramatic talent and a conveyance of thought, unaided by gesture, but wholly by the expression on her face. It is her ultimate ambition, it may be recorded in passing, to work into the dramatic world. And if that old politician, Fate, chooses to hand the little Evelyn a few kind pats to make up for the many hard knocks, we will most of us be glad for her. There is no reason why she should not reach her goal, she has brains, beauty and a splendid will power. Besides which she has brains, which seems a prodigious waste, with all the other blessings.

The remainder of the bill was merely high-class entertainment. Arnaud Brothers, musical clowns, put a crook in Kubelik's nose, because Kubelik can only fiddle. These chaps fiddle and clown as well. Willie Weston and Mike Bernard had a dress suit, piano and song act, with Bernard singing tunes out of the piano that no mere manufacturer ever put into it.

The two Courtney sisters, in con song, shouting, popping, with "pops" also in his accordance, and Fouchere, a trick cyclist, made up the rest of the bill.

RAILROAD MEN ORGANIZE

Hill-Northern Pacific Employees Will Aid Festival Candidate.

At a meeting of a number of employees representing nearly every department of the Hill-Northern Pacific lines in Oregon, held at Elveth and Hoyt streets yesterday, ways and means were provided to further help the candidate, Miss Helen Fitzgerald, who is representing the North Bank Road for queen of the Rose Festival.

In order that this matter might be handled to better advantage it was thought best to organize for this purpose and a set of officers were elected and various committees appointed.

L. P. Knowlton, city ticket agent, fifth and Stark streets, was elected manager. A. E. Brown secretary and G. R. Williams treasurer. Among chairmen of committees appointed were: D. C. Freeman, advertising; H. H. Keck, D. MacDonald and C. W. Madden, entertainment; and Fred Cass, booster.

It was decided also that this organization would be made permanent and be known as the North Bank Club.

OREGON POLITICAL GOSSIP

Mayor Albee Challenges Recall Backers to Come Out Into Open and File Recall Petitions at Once, So Special Election Expense Can Be Saved. Progressive Platform Committee Organizes—Governor West to Address Jackson Club—Ten Republican Rallies This Week—News of Candidates.

MAYOR ALBEE challenged the backers of the Albee-Brewster-Dieck recall yesterday to file their recall petitions at once and go ahead openly with their campaign.

His reason for making the challenge, he explained, is to enable the City Council to set the date of the recall election for May 15, the day of the primary election. By having the recall and primary elections at the same time the city will be saved a large added expense that will be entailed if a special election must be held to decide the recall issue.

Though the recall backers declared some months ago that they had more than enough signatures to invoke the recall, they have not yet filed the petitions. One reason has been the trouble they have encountered in getting the recall candidates to run and another that they want a special election in the belief that the vote would be much lighter than in the primary, with opponents of the administration, however, turning out in force.

"In the conduct of the city's business the Commission is endeavoring to be as economical as possible," said Mayor Albee. "If there is going to be a recall election, it should be held on the day of the state primary or some regular election date, so it would not be necessary to put the taxpayers to the burden of additional expense that would result if it were held on a separate date."

"So far as I am concerned I concede the point that the voters are within their rights in seeking to recall any official they deem unworthy. If enough bona fide names have been obtained by the backers of this recall movement the issue should be settled as promptly and with as little expense as possible."

"I lay particular stress on the fact that it is up to the persons conducting this recall campaign to file their petitions, so the Council may designate a date coincident with a regular election. Why should they not file them at once, if they have enough names, as they say they have? Give the voters an immediate opportunity to decide the case and with but little city expense as compared with the cost of a special election."

"If the recall petitions are not filed in time to make possible an election at the primary and it becomes necessary to call a special election, it will be the fault of the backers of the movement and not of the City Council, stand ready, and I believe, speak for the entire Council, to designate May 15, the date of the state primary, for the purpose, if possible."

The platform committee of the Progressive party, appointed by T. B. Neuhausen, state chairman, to draft a state platform, held its first meeting Saturday afternoon at the Albina branch library. The committee was organized by the election of A. E. Clark as chairman and R. H. Lampman as secretary. A resolution was adopted that the committee should include as possible inclusion in the platform be submitted in writing.

All proposed planks, whether drafted by members of the committee, candidates or other members of the party, should be mailed to R. H. Lampman, secretary, 248 Hamilton avenue, city, who will submit them up to Wednesday, April 29. The full committee will meet next Friday night at 8 o'clock at 702 Lewis building, to consider the suggestions submitted.

Grant B. Dimick, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, spoke at Albany Saturday night.

A Progressive party rally will be held next Wednesday night in the room of the Portland Commercial Club, next Thursday night. Governor West will speak on the subject "Abolishing Unnecessary and Commercial Petrol."

Republican rallies to be held this week by the Lincoln Republican Club are as follows: Tonight—Lents school, 8 o'clock; Tuesday—Lents school, 8 o'clock; Wednesday—North Portland library, and Mont-

Municipal Judge Stevenson is advocating the passage of an ordinance which will greatly simplify his court matters and also make it possible for him to inflict proper punishment within his own discretion, where he is obliged to impose more of a fine or imprisonment than otherwise would be justifiable or release others charged with offenses without sufficient punishment.

By the passage of a "punishment clause" ordinance Judge Stevenson believes it will be possible for him to facilitate his work. He proposes that the ordinance shall provide a fine up to $500 or imprisonment up to 90 days or any part of such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

There are numerous ordinances at present, each of which carries its particular penalty clause, one very frequently conflicting with the other. Many times, says Judge Stevenson, it is found that the penalty is too extreme or not severe enough, the court being allowed no discretion. He must, therefore, release a defendant or punish him beyond his just dues.

"Many times I have had cases where the minimum fine would be $20, but where I felt that $5 would be sufficient to teach the proper lesson. Again I have found many cases where the fine is not great enough. I believe this may easily be amended to suit the ac-

At a meeting to be held at the Albina branch library, Tuesday night, the recall petitioners will be urged to file their petitions at once.

The State Fish and Game Commission will meet at 1 o'clock this afternoon in the office of William L. Finley, ex-State Game Warden, but now State Game Propagator.

Supporting the candidacy of Dr. Sam C. Sloum for re-election as Coroner, nearly 150 leading physicians and surgeons of Portland have signed a petition that was circulated by friends of Dr. Sloum. The petition is in the form of an endorsement of Dr. Sloum's past administration and cites his honesty, integrity and efficiency as the reason for the endorsement.

Registration books will close next Friday night, May 1. This leaves only five days in which to register for the primary election of May 15. Though registration has picked up slightly of late, it is still not as brisk as had been expected at this time. Books will be open at the Courthouse until 9 o'clock each night for the convenience of voters.

To nominate a Multnomah county ticket, Prohibitionists of the county will hold a convention next Wednesday in Behnke-Walker hall, Fourth and Yamhill streets. The convention will start at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The state Prohibition convention to nominate candidates for state offices will be held in Portland on May 5 and 6.

The primary election is now only 13 days away. The primary is to be held on May 15.

At a meeting to be held in the assembly hall of the Central Library on Tuesday night, J. A. Churchill, state Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Charles L. McNary, Supreme Court Justice, will be the speakers. Their addresses will deal with educational problems before the people of Oregon; a special invitation has been extended to parents and school teachers to attend. The meeting will be held under the direction of Republicans who are interested in school matters. Mr. Churchill at their request will discuss measures he believes are needed to make more efficient the schools of the state outside of the city.

Ex-Governor T. T. Geer, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, returned Saturday night from a campaign tour to Seaside, Astoria, Rainier, Holton and St. Helens. He will go to Toledo on Tuesday to address a public meeting there. On Wednesday ex-Governor Geer will be in Newport. He will return to Portland by way of Corvallis, Albany and Salem. He will attend the annual celebration at Champeog on Saturday. Mr. Geer reports a growing interest in the issues of the campaign, especially to regard curbing the tendency toward increased expenditures in state government.

Candidates for Attorney-General have been invited to speak at a public meeting under the auspices of the Sellwood Methodist Brotherhood.

George M. Brown, J. J. Johnson and George N. Farrin have accepted, and Frank S. Grant and W. P. Lord are also expected to speak.

Unable to reach complete agreement as to nominations for county offices at a Socialist county convention in Socialist hall, at 232 Second street, Friday night, the convention was adjourned to next Thursday night.

The prohibition issue was the principal cause of contention.

Under the auspices of the Lincoln Republican Club, another of its series of campaign rallies was held in the Albina branch library Saturday night. John L. Day, as chairman, in his opening remarks spoke for party organization and called on all Republicans to support the candidacy of R. A. Boos for United States Senator. Mr. Boos is not opposed for the nomination.

Candidates who spoke included: W. Hohlt, for County Commissioner; Judge Arthur C. Dayton, for District Judge; C. A. Johns, for Governor; Nelson R. Jacobson, for Congress; Daniel Grant, for Coroner; and R. W. Gill, for the Legislature.

There are to be two rallies tonight: one in St. Johns, and the other in Lents. Music will be a feature at both.

C. W. Hohlt, candidate for County Commissioner, has opened campaign headquarters at 315 Stock Exchange building.

Ralph C. Clyde asserted Saturday that, though he may be a candidate for Commissioner at the recall election, he is not one of the backers of the recall.

"I have not yet decided whether to run," said Mr. Clyde. "I will let some of my friends at a meeting in my office on Wednesday urge me to do so."

George B. Cellars, whose name was mentioned at the meeting in Mr. Clyde's office as a probable candidate against Commissioner Dieck, said that use of his name was not by authority and that he had no intention of running, though he had been asked to do so.

tual status of the prisoner and make matters better generally, with no loss to the public."

Architect Firm in Contest.
Johnson & Mayer, a Portland firm of architects, is among the final contestants for building the Scott memorial fountain at Detroit, Mich. The fountain will cost about $250,000. Ten firms are left in the competition.

Miss Fannie Harley will deliver a thrilling and authentic word picture on the history of Old Mexico—in Meier & Frank's Main Building, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons, April 28th, 30th and May 2d, at 3 P. M.

Miss Hurley spent many years in traversing Mexico, and is thoroughly capable to tell of the home life, manners, customs, mythology, legends and ruins; cathedrals and churches; resources and natural scenery, bull fights and catacombs of this vast, historic country.

Hear the lucid narrative of the despotic Diaz regime and the cause of its overthrow. Why the Madero administration was unsatisfactory and what intervention by the United States Government will mean.

Augmenting this travelogue there will be the finest collection of stereoscopic pictures ever shown of Mexico.

These picture stories will be given without charge to you. Mexico—a vital topic handled in a most masterful manner by Miss Harley.

Store of L. Shanahan, 146 Third Street, Left in Disorder and Goods Spoiled.

NONE HEARS EXPLOSION
Entrance Believed to Have Been Effected Through Another Building and Is Close to Scene of Similar Recent Deed.

A large iron safe in the store of L. Shanahan, 146 Third street, was blown open early yesterday morning. The robbers got $2500 in cash and checks, mostly cash. Mr. Shanahan said that he would not know his loss definitely until today, but thought it would exceed $2500.

The safe is within 100 feet of the safe of Hamburger's, 145 Second street, which was blown and robbed $2500 October 13 under similar conditions.

On Morrison street, nearly in line with the rear of the one-story building in which Mr. Shanahan's store is located, is a two-story office building, the stairway of which leads to a blind hall on the second floor. In the rear of this hall is a window, which opens on a one-story building directly behind. From this to another building of the same height is a matter of a few steps, and from the side of this second building a wooden stair leads down into an areaway opening to the rear of the Shanahan and Hamburger stores. This is the route which Detective Captain Baty and Detectives Snow, Coleman, Goltz and Hyde believe was taken by the robbers.

The rear door of the store is of soft cedar, and has three windows in it. One of these was broken some time ago and the glass had been replaced by this siding. Protecting all the windows are small iron bars, screwed into the cedar boarding with small screws. These were torn out.

The safe, which is of ancient construction, is worked by a single combination. It was placed near the rear of the building, from top to bottom and bulging a big hole in the center where the charge had been placed. Greasy smudges and a trace of gun powder ruined about $50 worth of cloth.

No one whom the detectives have yet found heard the explosion, and it was not until the janitor came to the building that the safe-blowing was discovered. He notified Mr. Shanahan, who reported to the police.

The confusion caused by the explosion in the immediate vicinity of the safe was great. Bales of cloth were thrown down, piles of garments overturned and boxes of material and completed garments were thrown around.

Mr. Shanahan explained the large amount of money in his safe by saying that he failed to bank Saturday, and the receipts of Friday afternoon, Saturday and Sunday night were all in the safe.

Dr. C. Carmey Arrested.
Dr. Charles Carmey, an osteopath and an organizer for a lodge, was arrested yesterday morning by Detectives La Salle and Abbott after he had tried to sell them a horse and buggy which, it is charged, he rented from a livery stable in McMinnville two weeks ago and failed to return.

The detectives were informed that the outfit was at a local livery stable, and they went to investigate. They met Dr. Carmey and they say he offered them the horse and buggy for $100. They refused and placed him under arrest. A Deputy Sheriff from McMinnville returned Dr. Carmey late yesterday afternoon for trial.
