San Francisco, dark horse of the 1914 Coast campaign, will be here today for its initial visit against the Beavers. Reduced to lowest denominations, this week finds the Seals in Portland, Sacramento at Oakland, and Venice at Los Angeles.

Hub Pernoll, the darkest horse of them all, will unquestionably open for the Seals against the Beavers. Hub is a southpaw and will be opposed by that other sterling fork-hand pitcher, Harry

Del Howard plans to use a plentiful sprinkling of southpaws all week, so, no doubt, we'll see this Pernoll person twice in the series. Leifield blanked the Oaks, 2-0, Sunday, so he'll be Howard's "ace in the hole" along about Fri-

Admitting that the "come - back" chatter has been worked to death since that lamentable affair at Reno, something must be said anent this embonpoint-ladened Hub Pernoll.

Let that portion of our population which carries its stomach in its lap gaze with admiration on Hub's heroic gaze with admiration on Hub's heroic dimensions. Fat men, take courage. Motioned by the Oaks last year to "move along," Pernoll caught on with the Seals. Friday the Grants Pass portsider hung up his seventh consecutive victory of the season.

Of course Hub cannot keep up that pace, but he seems to have done a "come back" without any compromising quibbles.

Ing quibbles. His remarkable boxwork has been with "Spider" Baum in the hospital with a bad leg, and Fanning just beginning to round to shape, the Scals would have been in a terrible pickle minus Pernoll. Howard's amphibians have won 17 games and Bud has won

All of which, properly sized up, illustrates the luck there is in this base-ball business after all.

Thus far in 1914 Portland's Coast team has won one series, over Sacramento, 3 games to 2; tled one, Oakland, 2 all, as they say in golf, and lost two. San Francisco walloped us 5 games in 6, and Venice 3 games in 5. The Seals have given us the worst treatment of all, as can be seen by gilmpsing the above, but Howard's men don't figure to tower over us like an elephant over a lap dog.

Methinks there'll be a turning of the lowly worm, commencing this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Outside of a scarcity of experienced twirlers, the Mackmen have been playing bang-up ball. And yet, a look hind him.

That cannot continue, and if the Beavers expect to win at all this year they ought to begin this week. Three pitchers are enough for a six-game series in a pinch. This looks like a pinch series if there ever was one.

Harvard Crew Shuffled Again.

CAMBRIDGE, April 27.—The Harvard varsity eight again was shaken up to-day following its defeat by Annapolis on Saturday. Morgan and Saltonsall were dropped to the second boat, while Parson and Curtis were brought up to the first. Cangain Beynolds was shifted. Parson and Curtis were brought up to the first. Captain Reynolds was shifted from three to his old position at bow. As now made up the crew is as fol-lows: Chanler, stroke; 7, Schell; 6, Harwood; 5, Soucy; 4, Parson; 3, Curtis; 2, Talbott; 1, Reynolds; coxswain, Sar-gent. Tudor Gardner, who is generally conceded a place on the varsity eight, is ill.

A recapitulation of the series shows that Meleon, Bayless, McArdle and Leard wrought most of the bat damage. McArdle swung the hickory to a .316 tune and Leard rattled the boards with a .350 refrain. The team average was .297 as against .271 for Portland.
