BOND'S METHODS AT TACOMA SAID TO BE PECULIAR.

Blow Marks in Strange Places Tell Queer Story of Match in Arena Last Tuesday Night.

That "Marquis de Tacoma" and not the "Marquis de Queensberry" rules prevailed at the Madden-Bond match at Tacoma Tuesday night, and in that lies the reason for Larry's defeat, is the statement of Jack King, upon the return with his protegee yesterday.

Joe Bond has a future, probably, but he never will win a battle outside of Tacoma if he expects to use such tactics as he did Tuesday night, says King. As evidence of Bond's methods, King offers as exhibit "A" a bunch of blue marks on Madden's body in places where they ought not to be.

HOTEL MAN LOSES CASE

MONOPOLY ON LIQUOR TRADE IS ENDED BY COURT DECREE

Dismissal of Action Alleging Town of Cornucopia Not Incorporated Closes Long Battle.

BAKER, Or., May 7.—(Special.)—Quo warrant proceedings brought in the name of the state against the Council of Cornucopia, asking by what right the Councilmen held office and alleging that the town had not been regularly and legally incorporated, were dismissed by Circuit Judge Anderson today.

By the terms of the decision Charles Kellar, hotel man, with a state liquor license at Cornucopia, loses the final round of a long battle to hold a monopoly on the retail liquor business of that place.

Mr. Kellar had built a hotel of 50 rooms at Cornucopia and held his monopoly for years. Whether the town incorporated the Council was in a position to grant licenses to other retailers.

He brought one action in the County Court, lost it, and then induced District Attorney Godwin to bring action in the name of the state.

Judge Anderson held that inasmuch as the County Court had found that there were more than the requisite 100 inhabitants and that the 40 persons required to incorporate the town were found to be regular, that the case was not subject to reversal by any other court.

NEWS ABOUT RAILROADS

REHEARING has been granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission on certain phases of the Donaver, Spokane, Silver Bow and Butte gateway cases, which recently were decided adversely to the Union Pacific system.

The evidence originally taken in the hearings at Portland and elsewhere will be considered.

It is understood that the commission will grant the Union Pacific system lines an opportunity to argue on those particular points in which they were required to shorthaul themselves in the event the commission's decision in accordance with the commission's decision. Dates for the rehearing have not been set, but it is understood that the Northwestern lumber interest and others who opposed the original decision again will contest the Union Pacific.

J. A. Munroe, traffic vice-president of the Union Pacific, who has been in Portland for the last few days, looks for better times immediately following movement of this year's crop.

Conditions for a big harvest are excellent, he says. Mr. Munroe, accompanied by William McMurray, general passenger agent for the O. W. R. & N. Co., left last night for Seattle. He will return home via Spokane, Butte and Salt Lake City.

Roseburg wants a railroad to the coast. They are going to have a mass meeting in the Antlers Theater there tonight to discuss plans of financing such a project. They propose to follow much the same line as that followed by the people of Grants Pass, if such a plan is possible.

At Grants Pass they issued the bonds for certain bonds to assist in paying for a railroad to Crescent, Cal. The road now is being built.

Roseburg hasn't determined to what point on the coast its proposed line will be built. Marshfield, however, will be the probable terminus. The Southern Railway is expected to make the proposed road a part of existing railroad properties.

The next Transportation Club dance and card party will be held at the Multnomah Hotel Tuesday night, May 19. It will be a shirtwaist affair. Men and women are expected to appear in shirtwaists. Men who have no such garments can dance in their shirt sleeves. The orchestra will turn out in "ice cream" suits.

Employees of the Meier & Frank Company will picnic at Bonnyville on Sunday, May 17.

The Mazamas will leave town Saturday at 4 P. M. on the O. W. R. & N. and go to Rooster Rock. The party will camp all night on Thor's Point, to take in the sunset and moonrise on the Columbia. Those not able to go Saturday will go out Sunday morning, when the entire party will tramp across the country to Cottrell, on the Mount Hood Railway, from which the return to town will be made.

The Southern Pacific has filed in the United States District Court at Seat Lake City its answer in the Government suit to divorce the Central Pacific from the Southern Pacific.

The answer, after specifically denying the suggestion that the late anti-trust law has been violated, points out not only that the two lines were originally built, operated and developed as one road, but that as far back as 1898 the United States Government itself practically recognized the combination as wholesome.

It asserts that in the joint operation of these lines through trains have been run by the most direct route without reference to their ownership and that any separation of the Central Pacific lines from those of the Southern Pacific cannot now be had without detriment to both properties and without impairing and inconveniencing the public service and the communities through which the lines pass.

William Harder, the veteran general agent of the Great Northern, who recently underwent an operation at the Good Samaritan Hospital, was in his office yesterday for the first time. He will not return to his desk regularly, however, until after the Great Northern general agents' meeting at the late Morgan building, which will be late next week.
