MRS. WILLIAM G. MADOO (ELEANOR WILSON).

The wedding gown worn by Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson is made of ivory white satin and trimmed with real old point lace. The bodice is softly draped with satin which crosses in front and is brought to a point below the shoulders, front and back. The V-shaped neck is finished with folds of soft tulle. The long, mousseline sleeves are made of tulle. The real old point lace is draped over the right shoulder to the left side of the waist and is fastened with a spray of orange blossoms; the lace then continues as a border to the long transparent tulle of tulle, which graduates to the side of the skirt at the train. The long sweeping train is three and a half yards in length. A cap effect of tulle, especially executed with orange blossoms and long draped veil, was effective.

Old Lace Real Work of Art.
The real old point lace used on the gown is a work of art in lace making. Unique in design and perfect in execution, it is said this famous art treasure, which is a part of a world-famous collection, may find its place as an antique in a National collection. The three-piece going-away dress was made of corbeau blue gabardine. The coat is of corbeau blue charmeuse and gabardine. The front and upper part of back of coat is of charmeuse. The back is gathered at collar. The three-quarter sleeve of gabardine is topped with the blue charmeuse. The edge of the sleeve is bound with a flat black silk braid. Soft girde of gabardine design in front with oval charmeuse buckle.

Skirt Has Three Flounces.
The short skirt of gabardine has three circular flounces starting at sides of skirt. These are fastened at back with a strap of gabardine, attached to which are four small black silk tassels. Between the flounces, corbeau charmeuse, to which they are attached, showing about one inch of charmeuse between each flounce. Flounces and bottom of skirt edged with black silk braid.

Other Gowns Described.
Coul blue brilliant peau de faille gown, with bodice of self-color blue silk net, which veils hands of silver re-embroidered lace across the front. Around neck and down front of bodice, ending at waist line, a bias band of peau de faille. Where they meet they are finished off with a single rose bouquet. Japanese collar, below collar a fullness is gathered, which falls softly to waist line. Six sleeves gathered at elbow, with silver thread, making a soft ruffled effect. Silver embroidered motifs on sides of soft folds of tulle. Skirt, flat puff tulle effect at back. Front of skirt simple long drapes, cut bias and a trifle fuller at side, with slight opening at bottom.

As the President gave the bride away, there was an affectionate smile on his face. He stepped back from the altar beside Mrs. Wilson, and, as the words of the service were read, their faces were gravely set. The bride and bridegroom repeated the service unflatteringly and did not appear in the least nervous. They smiled happily as they led the procession from the altar to the red room, where they received the congratulations of the guests.

McAdoo Gives Luncheon.
Secretary McAdoo gave a luncheon to his colleagues in the Cabinet, attended also by Dr. Cary C. Grayson, U. S. N., his best man; Secretary Tumulty and Vice-President Marshall. It was a jovial company, speech-making and witty toasts, especially from Mr. Marshall, who kept the group in a continuous roar of laughter.

Belldroom's Daughter Leads.
The guests, relatives and close friends of the two families were grouped in a semicircle. There was a hush of silence as the clergyman entered and ascended the little altar with its prie-dieu covered with white satin in the south bay window of the blue room. The marine band struck up the wedding march.
