Growers in Oregon Are Holding Last Year - Larger Quantity Due to Greater Crop.

Unsold stocks of hops on the Pacific Coas nuch larger than at this time last year, his fact, together with the good crop

There are now left in Oregon growers hands (890 bales of the 1913 crop. Speculators and Eastern dealers are holding 3590 bales. Last year on this growers unsold holdings in Oregon were 2100 bales and dealers applies were practically exhausted. There remains unsold in California 7500 bales of Sonomas and Mendocinos and about 2000 bales are said to be held by Sacramento, Yolo and Butto County growers. Several deals were reported yesterday, Dorcas Bron. bought 63 bales from Glen Fraves, of McCoy, at 13% cents, and H. L. Inst bought 73 bales from John Gebble.

Several deals were reported greaterlay.

Doress Bros. bought 63 bales from Glen Graves, of McCov. at 134; cents, and H. L.
Hart bought 73 bales from John Gebbie, of Hillsboro, at 13 cents. A number of other deals were closed, but the particulars were not made-public.

In a report on hop-crop prespects on the Parific Coast, the United States Brewers' Association says:

"In the Pacific Coast states the hop roots have Wintered well and there is enough sorreage to produce a crop of 255,000 bales, under favorable weather conditions, which will give a large surplus.

"The current session has been most iltuminating. Our exports of the 1913 crop have reached a total of 100,000 bales, and yet there is no apparent shortage. On the other hand, our imports from Germany have reached nearly 5,000,000 pounds, which is equivalent to 25,000. American bales. Although imported hops have cost twice to three times as much as the domestic article, the American brewers have used them quite

BRIDGE FRANCHISE APPLICATION MUST BE FILED ANEW.

Commissioner Daly Expresses Doubts as to Company's Sincerity, but Denial Is Made by Officials.

Because of typographical errors found in the proposed franchise grant to the Portland Railway, Light & Pow-er Company covering the operation of cars over the bridges of the city at a rate of 3 cents a car, the City Commission yesterday rescinded a resolution adopted recently sending the franchise sion yesterday rescinded a resolution adopted recently sending the franchise up for final advertising. This throws the franchise proposition back before the Council necessitating the filing by the company of a new application. The errors in the measure were found by Chief Deputy City Auditor Grutze after the Council had checked the franchise over. The errors apparently were merely typographical, but it is said they made considerable difference in the meaning of the provisions of the franchise. The mistakes consisted of the use of the word "of" for "or" and "the" for "a."

Commissioner Daly said he felt sometimes as though the company was not anxious to get a bridge franchise. He says, however, that the present action will bring the proposition to a head, necessitating the filing of a new application by the company. The franchise as rescinded was to have been advertised nearly a month ago, but as yet
