

SMALL BOYS' DAY IS HERE AT LAST

Circus Tents Are Spread and Four Performances Will Be Given in Portland.

BIG PARADE IS PROMISED

After Early Arrival Raleigh-Street Ground Becomes Scene of Activity While "White Tops" Are Being Elevated.

ROUTE OF CIRCUS PARADE.
On Pettigrove to Twentieth; Twentieth to Washington; Washington to Sixth; Sixth to Yamhill; Yamhill to Third; Third to Everett; Everett to Twentieth; Twentieth to Pettigrove, and thence to show grounds. The parade will start at 10:30 o'clock.

Out of the dawn there came to town yesterday morning, two great, creaking, gliding trains of yellow and white and red cars and with the arrival men leaped from their places aboard the "clats" almost before the grinding brake shoes had accomplished their air-pressure tasks; bosses shouted, horses and "bulls" and draught stock thumped and trundled down the long runway, great, trucking wagons came down the chutes from the cars, and almost with their arrival upon solid ground, started the long, hurrying journey to the "lot," a mile away.

Out of the dawn there came men and women who had been waiting for their homes for three days. Out of the dawn to rest and to work—for the sleep that is anticipated every large city, sleep unhampered by the noise of grinding car wheels and tooting engines. Out of the dawn there came to town yesterday morning the Sells-Floto Circus, and Buffalo Bill for a "Sunday on the lot," and then, today and tomorrow, performances afternoon and evening on the great expanse of territory at Twenty-sixth and Raleigh streets.

From the indications at the lot yesterday, it would seem that the circus has doubled within a year, the tents in the past—but now it seems that they stretch over a large city. Many were the wagons of the circus of the past, but now they are everywhere, for things have happened for the better to the Sells-Floto Circus.

There has come the addition of Buffalo Bill and everything that was good out of the Wild West show, which he carried to Europe and throughout the United States for so many years.

While men were working out at the lot yesterday, the Sells-Floto Circus, his footman sitting proud and erect behind him. The Sunday morning strollers on the streets turned and looked. They lifted their heads and cheered, and as the white-haired man bowed to the greetings which came to him from every side, there passed from person to person, a sort of magnetic sentence which stopped interest in other things for awhile, the message:

"There he goes—that's Buffalo Bill!" Colonel William Frederick Cody, Buffalo Bill, was taking his weekly outing.

He sought out a hotel and seized an undersized, laughing man in his arms, Marshall P. Wilder, the comedian, "Lo, Marshall!" he boomed. "Come on and take a ride!"

"I've got to go to work," he announced. "My o'clock!"

"Then you get to the theater at 8," came the booming voice of the Colonel. "Think—"

"Right!" came the laughing answer. "I'm on, Colonel, remember that time when we were in Paris together and we went into a barber shop to get a shave, and the barber said, 'You've got that long hair of yours? Roar? I never did hear a man roar like you did.'"

"Who wouldn't roar?" boomed the Colonel. "Think—"

"Growing that hair just to have some Parisian scissor artist cut it off? Now, come on. I want to show you this town."

For those who were not on the streets yesterday, there will be an opportunity this morning to see Buffalo Bill in his spider, driving his Arabians, for this morning when 10:30 o'clock comes, he will lead the two-mile long street parade of the Sells-Floto Circus as it passes through the downtown streets.

It is also promised that a sample of almost everything in the circus will be in that parade, from the two callions to the 20 performances.

LOYALTY PUT FIRST

Norwegians Celebrate Centennial of Constitution.

ALL DAY SESSION IS HELD

Comparison With United States Is Made and Love and Pride for Native Land Declared Necessary to Citizenship.

In honor of the centennial anniversary of the establishment of religious and civil liberty in Norway through the adoption of a constitution, May 17, 1814, a celebration of that event was held yesterday in the Lutheran Norwegian Church, East Tenth and East Grant streets, in which the United Norwegian Lutheran Church joined.

At the morning services Rev. George Henriksen, pastor, delivered the address on the establishment of liberty in Norway through the adoption of a constitution. He pointed out that Norway took her place among the free nations of the world then when every citizen was guaranteed civil and religious liberty.

While Norway has a king, he said, that king is elected by the people and his functions are the same as those of the President of the United States.

Rev. Mr. Henriksen reviewed the events that led to the adoption of this constitution, and said that while Norwegians are loyal citizens of their adopted country in America, they still retain the love and pride for their fatherland and rejoice in the progress it has made in free institutions.

Dinner was served in the basement of the church at 12 o'clock by the Aid Society.

A joint celebration was held at 3 o'clock in which the Norwegian Lutheran Church and the United Norwegian Lutheran Church united in an appropriate celebration. Rev. G. A. Larson, assistant field secretary of the United Lutheran Norwegian Church, and Rev. Mr. Henriksen, were the speakers. They told of the progress of Norway since it adopted its free constitution. Norway and the United States were compared by the speakers as examples of progress and true civilization.

"The Norwegian people," said Rev. Mr. Henriksen, "who have adopted the United States, are among the best and most loyal citizens. The percentage of crime and corruption among the Norwegians is less than found among any other nationality which has adopted the United States as its home."

The speakers also commented on the movement to unite the Norwegian Lutheran Church of the Norwegian Synod, and the United Norwegian Lutheran Church in one body, an event soon to be consummated.

The exercises of the day, and especially the afternoon meeting, were convened by the Norwegian Singing Society, which rendered Norwegian songs; the united choirs of the churches and the band of the Norwegian Lutheran Church. It was a general reunion of the Norwegian citizens of the city.

Ole Hansen, of Seattle, Progressive candidate for United States Senator, was the principal speaker. Prior to the literary programme a large street parade, in which children carried American and Norwegian flags, was held. The programme, with the exception of Hansen's speech, was in Norwegian.

MONTANA CLAIMS MILLS

Indian Accused of Burglary Must Serve Incomplete Sentence.

Richard Mills, the Indian burglar, who robbed an average of two houses a night when he was in Portland three days two months ago, will be taken back to Deer Lodge, Mont., to serve the remainder of an uncompleted term.

He was sentenced to the penitentiary there for one year for a burglary, and after 11 days' incarceration he escaped and came to Portland.

He gave part of the profits of his robberies to two Indian girls here. When arrested by Detectives La Salle and Abbott and Patrolman O'Dale, he refused to tell his name, and only clippings from the Montana papers, describing his exploits there, which the detectives found in his hat, revealed his identity.

Eddie Foy and seven little Foy and Marshall P. Wilder are holding forth at the Orpheum, and Julian Rose, who is listed as the greatest of all Hebrew comedians, is filling headline place at the Empress.

Frank Coffinberry, manager of the Orpheum, is chairman of the committee detailed to arrange the big vaudeville show to precede and follow "The Two Orphans." The committee will call upon the artists of the Orpheum, Empress and Pantages today to request their co-operation in the presentation of the theatrical event of the year. Announcement of the complete Follies programme will be made Wednesday or Thursday morning at the latest.
