the cure? "Within the last year the inside of my hands have developed at least a dozen most annoying warts. They started first on the first finger of my left hand, but now they are on my right hand fingers as well, but all on, the inside of the hand.

"I am a woman of 52, never was subject to any form of eruption, and have what you would call perfect health, except a little indigestion once, in a while."

Reply. Warts are an excessive growth of the little papillae of the skin with a thickening of the horny layer. They often appear suddenly without apparent cause and disappear almost as suddenly without any treatment. It is more than probable that warts are due to some irritation of the nerve endings to the whim.

While warts on the hands may be annoying, even with old persons they do not become dangerous like they do on the face or on the shoulders.

Trentment.

Make daily applications just to the wart of tincture of indine. This is a mild, but often successful, treatment. If this is not successful apply a drop of glacial acetic acid and protect the of glacial acetic acid and protect the skin about the wart with vaseline. Repeat several times. A more severe method, but probably more sure, is the use of pure nitric acid. Protect the skin from the spread of the caustic by applying a thick layer of vaseline all around the wart. Then touch the wart with a small drop from the end of a glass point. It may be necessary to repeat this treatment several times, but great care must be exercised, for this last care must be exercised, for this last acid will burn the skin. Some warts that are large and re-distant may have to be removed by means of a knife.
