"Detegates of the United States of America, delegates of the United States of Mexico, we are in need of your enlightenment in order to be able to arrive at a solution of the conflict which threatens the harmony between your mations with destruction. It is apparent that we are working for you in the first place when we offered you our services as mediators in the present conflict, and there is no doubt of the fact that you will derive the benefit from any good results of our work.

"This is the sentiment which prompted our tender of good offi-ces to the United States and to Mexico, which sustained our spirit when almost overcome by the difficulties which beset our path, and which, gentlemen, with your aid and with the aid of your govern-ments, we hope to be able to overcome. If we succeed in doing so we shall have affirmed by a striking example the never-to-be-for-gotten lesson that even in the midst of turmoil of battle and the un-chained tempests of hate and conflicting ambitions, above all this tumult will be heard the clear and persuasive voice of reason coun-seling the sacrifice of persons in favor of the collective interests of the people and spreading the gospel of peace and justice."
