VIEWS OF OPPOSING SIDES IN THE LABEL INDICTMENT

George F. Heuser—My sole desire is to set myself right with the people of Portland and to punish malicious and obstructive acts of the kind complained of and to prevent the perpetration of such acts in the future.

Developments in the indictment of T. Scott Brooke, J. C. Beck, E. T. Ames, E. Henry Wempe, T. A. Lintulicium, H. W. Plerong, manager of Empress Theater Company, and John C. Johnson, manager of Pantages Theater Company, against George F. Heuser, growing out of the publication of a cartoon asking the public to oppose the Heuser franchise, included the issuance of statements from the opposing sides of the controversy.

Mr. Heuser announced that he would immediately follow up the criminal charge by filing a suit for damages against Dan J. Malarkey, who was named as counsel for the men under indictment, issued a statement reviewing the controversy over the Heuser franchise and declaring that his clients were innocent and had been indicted merely for participating in a political fight against the interurban railway which would have injured their property in Broadway.

Mr. Heuser said that he had never talked with him at any time about any matter, said Mr. Heuser.

"I never talked with Mr. Ketchum or anyone else about any phase of this matter and know absolutely nothing about it," said Mr. Day.

The following statement on behalf of the accused men was issued last night by Dan J. Malarkey, their counsel: "This indictment is a great injustice and does a grievous wrong to innocent men. To me it seems a case of one taking advantage of his position as a grand juror, with the temporary power and influence thereof, to punish those who have opposed and thwarted the schemes of his friends."

"During the winter of 1912 and Spring of 1913, George F. Heuser was seeking to get through the County franchise to operate interurban cars on West Broadway, then Seventh street. He and his representatives and boosters made it their business to get the franchise and plenty of money back of his project, but they always declined to disclose the identity of their backers. The application for the franchise was vigorously opposed by the property owners and business men on the street because they then were and ever since have been satisfied that the traffic of the kind that the Heuser franchise would bring would hurt the street and damage their properties, and that the best thing for their properties was to have the urban lines of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company operating on Broadway."

Hot Fight Develops. "A hot fight over the matter developed before the County council, and business men against the franchise opposing Heuser and his friends and boosters who were for it. One of those who shouted loudest and longest for Heuser and who publicly said they would shove the franchise down the protesting property owners' throats through the initiative in the Council refused it was T. A. Ketchum, who is now the foreman of a grand jury which at this late day indicts some of our best citizens because they dared to defend their properties against what they regarded as a franchise grab.

"After the Council refused Heuser's application, the initiative was referred to, as had been threatened, and Heuser and his mysterious backers sought from the people what the Council had refused them. The Broadway property owners were therefore compelled to continue before the people the fight they had made and won before the Council. There was no change of their attitude and no substance in what they did. Through the medium of the press and other advertising agencies they made known to the people at large the reasons why the Heuser franchise should not be granted as asked for. In all they did their arguments were fair and their methods were honorable. A referendum vote was counted it was found that the people had by an overwhelming majority refused to give Mr. Heuser and his associates what they sought.

THE PERSONAL FRIEND OF MR. HEUSER

and one of the chief boosters of the franchise he sought, chanced to be drawn on a grand jury and made foreman thereof, that it was discovered that Mr. Heuser had been libeled.

PERSONAL INTEREST INTIMATED

"It is an open secret about the Court-house and among those who are in a position to observe, that Mr. Ketchum is the dominant figure in this grand jury and that he has had that body devoting much of its time to so-called investigations closely related to business interests of Mr. Heuser and his associates, notably the movement to have the approach to the interstate bridge widened, and the temporary benefits that would redound to those owning property in and about Kenton, and the approach to the interstate bridge were so changed are manifest.

"I am reliably informed that while the grand jury of which he is foreman has been investigating these matters, Mr. Ketchum has been in frequent consultation with Mr. Heuser and has gone direct from his duties in the Court-house to Mr. Heuser's office in the Yeon building and the two have been much together. On the other hand, Mr. Heuser tells me that Mr. Ketchum assumed a threatening attitude toward him in the grand jury room and went so far as to shake his fist in the face of and threaten the witness with punishment for contempt because the witness had the temerity to intimate that Mr. Ketchum was prejudiced and biased.

RIGHT OVERSTEPS, IS CHARGE

"I saw by The Oregonian that Mr. Ketchum admits he was in frequent consultation with Mr. Heuser and consulted with other lawyers than the District Attorney—naming two prominent railroad lawyers—about the grand jury the grand jury was investigating. The duly constituted legal advisor of the grand jury is the District Attorney, and it is not seem that District officer and six Judges of the Circuit Court, any of whom would be willing to advise him at any time. Mr. Ketchum should have been able to obtain all the legal advice he needed for a proper performance of his duties as foreman of the grand jury. Grand jurors are expressly sworn to keep secret what transpires before that body and to indict no person through envy or hatred or malice.

"I am pleased to note from the newspaper reports that this indictment did not have the approval of the District Attorney, and that the grand jurors outside of the District Attorney's office had something to do with the drafting of this indictment.

ACTION SHAME, SAYS MR. MALARKEY

"It is a disgraceful thing, when a man like Scott Brooke and Jacob Beck, who were born and reared and have lived most upright and honorable lives in this city, should be indicted for such a reason and under such circumstances as exist here. If this indictment is right, dozens of other Broadway property owners and business men should have been indicted under the same indictment; for those indicted were in the matter, and are indicted for, acting under the direction and the approval of practically all the property owners and many of the business men on that street.

"I do not believe there will be any trials under this indictment, for I do not believe the District Attorney and Circuit Court Judges will, after investigating the matter, permit the county to be subjected to the expense of such a trial, and I believe the District Attorney will dismiss the indictment and that the presiding Circuit Judge will in the near future discharge this grand jury, containing no unfair or prejudiced members has been empaneled, my clients will seek an investigation and expect acquittal at that street.

MR. HEUSER GIVES VERSION

George F. Heuser last night made the following statement: "The Oregonian states indictments have been returned against certain citizens in which I was the complaining witness before the Multnomah County Grand Jury. This, I believe, sets out the facts and the rest should be left by the courts, where it now rightfully belongs. I have nothing further to say other than that I shall at once file papers in a civil suit against the defendants for a large sum. I desire to state to the public in general, and more particularly to the thousands of people who are wholly unacquainted with me, that this indictment is not with the intent of enriching myself or even reimbursing myself for the heavy charges I have paid for the acts of the Peoples Rights League and those allied with it, but, on the contrary, I will distribute among the various charitable and educational institutions such amount as may be finally recovered. My sole desire in this whole affair is to set myself right with the people of our city, in which I have resided for 32 years, to punish malicious and obstructive acts of the kind complained of and as far as within me lies to prevent their perpetration in the future on others of our citizens who may attempt to do something for the uplift of the community."

W. D. Penton said: "I notice a statement in The Oregonian today to the effect that Mr. Ketchum, foreman of the grand jury which has just returned this indictment, said that prominent property holders on Broadway, in regard to the Heuser franchise, had consulted me and Mr. Dey of my office concerning the proposed indictments and that the grand jury had acted under advice given by us. The Telegram of Wednesday reiterates the story. It is a fact that I considered the matter, and I have many reasons why the story exploited in your paper and in the Telegram is not true. In the first place, I never considered the matter in any detail, in inference and in every particular, and some of them are these: (1) I never knew Mr. Ketchum until today and never met him until he was foreman of the grand jury. (2) He never called on me or Mr. Dey or anyone else in my office about the matter and never consulted me at any time about any matter of this kind. (3) I was at all times opposed to the Heuser franchise and so informed Mr. Heuser. I owned at the time and still own the Glass & Prudhomme building on Broadway and feel now that an interurban line on that street would not be as serviceable to the property as a city line. Mr. Heuser knew my position and so did the Seventh-street property owners. I was then and have since been in hearty sympathy with every proper effort to defeat the Heuser franchise. (4) The men indicted are, most of them, personal friends of mine, and so far as I know did nothing to justify the indictment."

NO ARRESTS ARE MADE

None of the defendants in the action were arrested yesterday, although all of them were expecting it and were bound to give bond for their appearance at any consequent court hearing. They all declared yesterday that they were justified in their action in bringing the advertisement upon which the action of the grand jury is said to have been based, and reiterated their previous assertions that under similar circumstances they would conduct a similar campaign of opposition to the franchise.

T. A. Ketchum, foreman of the grand jury that returned the indictment, insists that the case was brought to the attention of the jury in the usual manner and that he was not, as has been suggested, unduly active in seeking to make a case against the opponents of the Heuser franchise.

Developments in the indictment of T. Scott Brooke, J. C. Beck, E. T. Ames, E. Henry Wempe, T. A. Lintulicium, H. W. Plerong, manager of Empress Theater Company, and John C. Johnson, manager of Pantages Theater Company, against George F. Heuser, growing out of the publication of a cartoon asking the public to oppose the Heuser franchise, included the issuance of statements from the opposing sides of the controversy.

Mr. Heuser announced that he would immediately follow up the criminal charge by filing a suit for damages against Dan J. Malarkey, who was named as counsel for the men under indictment, issued a statement reviewing the controversy over the Heuser franchise and declaring that his clients were innocent and had been indicted merely for participating in a political fight against the interurban railway which would have injured their property in Broadway.

Mr. Heuser said that he had never talked with him at any time about any matter, said Mr. Heuser.

"I never talked with Mr. Ketchum or anyone else about any phase of this matter and know absolutely nothing about it," said Mr. Day.

HARMONY KEVNOTE OF REPUBLICANS

Temporary Organization Is Formed; Neal Chairman, Mosessohn Secretary.

ENTHUSIASM RUNS HIGH

Selection of Permanent Officers Is Deferred Until Next Monday. Democratic and Progressive Parties Organize.

After electing a temporary chairman and a temporary secretary at a meeting in the assembly hall of the Central Library Wednesday night, the new Republican County Central Committee, composed of the precinct committeemen chosen at the primary election, deferred the selection of permanent officers until next Monday night.

By 110 votes to 45, O. A. Neal was elected temporary chairman over John L. Day. Some lively campaigning was made. David N. Mosessohn was elected temporary secretary.

Enthusiasm ran high when Mr. Neal, in his speech of acceptance as temporary chairman, made a stirring plea for harmony and united support of the Republican ticket.

"The time has arrived," said Mr. Neal, "for loyal Republicans of this state to stand together, shoulder to shoulder, and elect Republicans to office."

"We have nominated candidates at the primary whom I believe every Republican can get behind and support. There is a feeling of harmony, and a desire to work for the success of the entire ticket. The general committee, illustrated by the action of defeated candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor, who have come forward like loyal Republicans and promised to support the whole ticket.

"This is a Republican year. It doesn't require a prophet to predict the outcome of the next election."

After Mr. Neal had appointed Waldemar Seton, Lewis C. Garrigus, W. W. Cox, J. H. Hammerley and Richard Deitch as members of the executive committee, to settle the status of 57 vacancies in the central committee, including 27 committees for which candidates had to vote, W. A. Calk moved that permanent organization be proceeded with.

Permanent Organization Postponed. "I think it would be a great mistake to complete a permanent organization tonight," said David M. Dunne. "The candidates for United States Senator, Governor and Representatives in Congress ought to be consulted before a permanent chairman is selected. The permanent chairman should be a man satisfactory to them, who can work in harmony with them, and who is entitled to a voice in his selection."

Mr. Calk promptly agreed in this. "I am glad the point has been raised," he said, "and I heartily concur in it. The candidates we have nominated not only have a right to participate in the choice of a permanent chairman, but it is their duty to do so. I believe that with the candidates making a campaign not only in their own behalf, but for the party, it leads south out of the County and into the city and through the city and runs through New Era and is a part of the Pacific Highway.

Bids for the work, which will cost about $200, will be opened June 11 and the work will probably be completed by July 15. The improvement will consist of a nine-foot strip of heavily packed macadam up and a wheel passed on City and runs through New Era and is a part of the Pacific Highway.
