Struggle Centers on Contest for Control of Barometer, Student Publication, and Close Ballot Is Expected.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COL-LEGE, Corvallis, Or., May 21.— (Special.)—A new turn was given today to the political struggle which has been on at the Oregon Agricultural College, when the election, snnounced for this afternoon, was called off by President C. A. Dickey on grounds of unconsti-

C. A. Dickey on grounds of unconstitutionality.

Investigation of the student body constitution established the fact that officers who have presided over the assembly this year were never legally elected. An amendment, presumably passed two years ago, providing that the student body meeting should be held inte in May, instead of the first of June, as had before been the rule, was never officially entered on the books, and never became a part of the constitution, although it was considered in the setting of the date for nomination and election of officers last year and this.

Mass Meeting Is Held.

Mass Meeting Is Held. A mass meeting, held on the lawn of the campus, tonight resulted in much heated discussion between the faction that desired an immediate election, re-gardless of the constitutionality of the proposition and the faction that wanted to achieve to the letter of the law. A special meeting of the student body will be held Saturday noon, at which arrangements probably will be made to hold the election next Monday

Never before at the college has there been such a political fight as this year. The big point around which the camrate big point around which the campaign raged has been the editorship of the Borometer. this Mr. Bianchard said:
"Suppose that A. B and C represent the three methods of payment and that each was based upon $100. On this basis A saves 3 per cent rebate, or $3. C. not being able to pay anything, loses 13 per cent interest on $100 for six months, or $6. Had B been paying the same interest as C he, too, would have paid out $3, but not being called to do so, B saved $3. It will thus be seen that A gives $3, B gains $3, and C tost $6. It is evident, then, that it requires C's loss to balance A's and B's gains. To him that hath shall be given, but to him that hath not shall be taken away that which he hath."

New Law is Defended. this Mr. Bianchard said:

New Law Is Defended. Mr. Bianchard insisted that the new tax law was based upon a "square and man," that too many of the laws were made in the interest of the man with the money, and that if it is not stopped "we will soon be paying out more money in charities than is now gained by robberies."

The Encyclopaedia Britannica,

Possibly it may interest you to know that in an upinion of this court which I wrote and filed last week in S. w. Ripper on the question of the right to flog convicts as a part of the prison discipline I made a long quotation from your excellent article on "Prisons" giving due credit for the same to the Britannica.

THE above testimony to the authority of the new Encyclopaedia Britannica is only one of the many that have come from subscribers who have used this book in a practical way in their every-day work.

"We make constant use of it and find it very helpful," says Chief Justice Clark. Our correspondence file shows thousands of letters of similar import from other delighted and satisfied purchasers.

In a Boston court a few weeks ago the Britannica article on HUDSON BAY COM-PANY was introduced as evidence to establish the identity of that name, and in a recent suit in an Alaskan mining town, where the rights of a Servian congregation were in question, the Britannica was successfully cited to prove that the Servian Church is not under the authority of the orthodox Russian Church. Senator O'Gorman cited the Britannica in his recent speech on Free Tolls. In Illinois Court cited the Britannica a few days ago in rendering an opinion on the reliability of blood-hounds in tracking criminals. We know this book as only those who have helped to make it can know it. We know how it is constructed. We know from actual experience how useful Out of this knowledge we give you the assurance that the new Encyclopaedia Britannica will prove helpful to you, no matter what your position in life, as it proved helpful in the instance above cited out of many that have been brought to our attention by gratified subscribers. The fullest, most comprehensive and most authoritative repository of facts ever issued, the primary aim of the editors has been, in this edition, as in all past editions, to make a book to which the owner could always go to settle a doubt, to confirm a fact, or to get a well written and intelligent view of any given subject at the hands of a man who knows. The extraordinary comprehensiveness of its contents, its fidelity to truth and the high tradition which has been maintained ever since it was first published in 1768-71, have given this work a character and a dignity all its own. The New
