ATTRACTIVE FEATURES SEEN IN NEW PARIAN CREATION

A charming costume made by Joseph Paquin, of Paris, is of broadcloth. The full tunic is gathered on a wide girdle and slopes down below the knees at the back. The coat has a new feature in the "V" shaped back that falls down over the tunic on both sides.

A dashing cheapeau of black velvet and satin is worn with the suit.

Members (delegates) to all conventions. Mrs. S. O. Dunbar will speak on a theme to raise money for a "past presidents' fund" similar to a recent endowment fund just raised.

A report will be given by the women's committee. An important communication will be read and a resolution presented regarding President Wilson's peace policy. All club members are invited. Identification of intention to attend must be given Mrs. J. W. Tift, Marshall 4215, before noon today.

"Bluebeard" himself will put in an appearance tonight at the Art Museum at an entertainment in which a pageant will be presented by the art students. Miss Dorothy Gilbert is general manager of the entertainment and Miss Louise Cunningham has charge of the scenery. The costumes are planned under the direction of Miss Norma Bassett, and the properties and lighting are under the management of Miss Sarah Hart and Miss Pansy Sessions. The music has been furnished by the kind co-operation of students of the violin, cello and piano—Miss Dorothy Fraser, Jack Fraser and Miss Evelyn Paddock. The small admission fee is for the benefit of the school. The cast of characters is as follows:

Little Beauty Chats Blanche Deacon

If Your Sight is Poor. Once young woman of my acquaintance who used to have beautiful eyes now has a disfiguring squint, her brow is wrinkled and her eyes are narrowed to slits. She had to choose between wearing eyeglasses or ruining her sight and looks, and she chose the latter.

If your sight is poor, don't decide to disfigure your face with a continual puckering of the brows, to suffer with headaches and their destroying effect on your beauty in preference to merely wearing glasses and otherwise looking your best.

Be sensible enough to wear eyeglasses if you need them, and be satisfied that in doing so you are choosing the lesser of two evils. You can look well in glasses if you choose a mounting that suits your face, but you can't possibly look well without glasses if you need them.

If your sight is good, preserve it. As soon as you notice a redness about the lids or tiny veins appearing in the whites of your eyes, wash them with hot water in which a little borax has been shaken. Then retire to a dark room and rest your eyes for a few minutes.

Never sit facing the light. Never read with the light in your eyes, and never read or work by a flickering light. You may not notice the harm this does, but it is always harmful, and close your eyes for a few seconds sevbelow. She seized her coat and gloves and started for the "barber." "So good of you to come, Miss Winthrop," said Barker enthusiastically. "I'm glad you're not going to mind a little bad weather." Marian felt herself transformed by the happy excitement of this unlooked-for event. She seemed lost in a daze of satisfaction at the swift turn of luck. She could hardly realize how her hooks and clasps had found their places so swiftly. She felt that in little more than a minute she had recovered herself into a veritable Cinderella.

The three descended to the waiting vehicle. The throttle clicked, the engine started, and the automobile hummed steadily on into the night.

"Do you know, I sometimes find a racing machine hummed steadily on into the night." Marian murmured contentedly. (To Be Continued Monday.)

Economical Housekeeping

By Jane Eddington.

The Fritter. BY JANE EDDINGTON. If you can endure the odor of hot fat and know how to cook things in it a good fritter batter should be one of your accomplishments. In this you may stir up many sorts of cold vegetables, cooked fruits and make either a garnish or a dessert of a substantial dish for a meal.

Our kitchens were better ventilated than they are, or we did more out of doors cooking, we should probably do more of our cooking in deep fat. If the hot fat with a teaspoonful of most none of it penetrates the quickly-formed crust. A good substitute for the deep fat is a mixture of one cup of vegetable oil with a tablespoonful of flour and a little milk and fried in a tablespoon or two of fat.

One could write a whole book on the fritter, especially if one has observed what is done with the "fritter" in Italy. The mixture, "pastella," used there is often no more than flour and water with a little oil.

"One must remember to have the fat of moderate temperature, increasing the heat after the fritters have been in for a minute or two. I always dip my batter out of the bowl and into the hot fat with a teaspoon, which I have first dipped in the fat. This makes a smooth and even-sized fritter and one that is done all the way through by the time the crust is a rich brown."

"A fritter made of Graham flour is especially good, and may tempt some persons to eat them who do not eat those made of white flour. The same quantity of everything is used, but Graham flour is substituted for the white flour."

"I have also eaten another variety made by scalding a cupful of cornmeal and stirring into it one beaten egg, a teaspoonful of salt, one of sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. To enough white flour to make a batter of proper consistency add two and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder. With maple syrup these fritters make a most excellent breakfast dish.

"In preparing a rather thick fritter batter may be made by making a plain fritter batter and stirring into it one cupful of chopped nut meats. These may be pecans, English walnuts, almonds, butternuts or hickory nuts. I mention these different kinds of nuts, for at least one variety can be found in every section of the country."

"Apple fritters are always good. I have found it a good idea to roll both the fresh apples and the dried apples, if you have them, in powdered sugar and then in flour. Apple fritters are a suitable accompaniment for roast duck, and, together with a good fried potato, make a pleasing garnish for the platter on which the duck is served."

"Fritters may be made by preparing a plain fritter batter. A cupful of canned corn added to the batter, together with an extra teaspoonful of salt, makes a good fritter. With fricasseed chicken they may be placed on the platter with the chicken and the gravy poured over them. English walnuts, almonds, also used as a garnish with something green."

How to Earn Money at Home

Tutoring. PORTLAND, Or., May 20.—While at college I was in the habit of helping out a slender allowance by tutoring, and since I have been out of college I have kept it up. In a city the size of Portland, one has little difficulty in finding a "pup" to coach. Pupils to coach, helping children make up work lost through sickness or other causes, or even aiding high school students who are preparing for college examinations. The customary charge for tutoring is 50 cents an hour.

Washing Woollens. Any woman, providing she has a good many dollars by washing woollen blankets and all-knit or woollen garments. The only rules necessary to get into the business are to have the water of the same temperature, warm but never hot; rinse thoroughly and dry in open.

Another well-paying means of earning money is furnished by making rifled bedroom sets, which are to be popular this summer. If you are artistic and your pattern is not you may design, furnish the goods, etc., thereby being able to charge a good price. It is understood you are to dress the bed, dresser, windows, etc., in a becoming, artistic manner. Many women will pay well for this kind of work. While I know what they want, cannot find them ready-made in the shops and have neither time nor inclination to sew. M. M.

Dressingmaking for Children. PORTLAND, May 18.—Any woman who is at all clever with her needle and who has a little spare time can earn her pin money by making simple little dresses for small children. From experience I know that the materials for the little dresses cut in one piece from children from 2 to 4 years when lam or percale is used, costs but 25 to 50 cents. Yet these same garments, made from inferior materials, cost several dollars when bought ready-made. Even if one does not sew rapidly it should not take longer than two or three hours to make an entire dress, including the geography. Afternoon: Grammar, geography, American literature, physics, methods in language, thesis for primary certificate, Friday, June 12—Morning: Theory and practice, orthography, English literature, chemistry, afternoon: School law, geology, algebra, civil government, Saturday, June 13—Morning: Geometry, bookkeeping.

Examinations are Dated. Teachers Will Try for State Certificates June 17 to 20.

State School Superintendent Churchill, of Salem, has announced that the examinations for state teachers' certificates will be held in Portland from June 17 to June 20, inclusive. The place of examination has not yet been announced.

All over the state the examinations on the respective subjects will be held as follows: Wednesday, June 17—Morning: Writing, United States history, physiology, afternoon: Physical geography, composition, methods in reading, methods in arithmetic, Thursday, June 18—Morning: Arithmetic, history of education, psychology, geography. Afternoon: Grammar, geography, American literature, physics, methods in language, thesis for primary certificate, Friday, June 19—Morning: Theory and practice, orthography, English literature, chemistry, afternoon: School law, geology, algebra, civil government, Saturday, June 20—Morning: Geometry, bookkeeping.

When a Grocer Returns a Dissatisfied Customer's Money, She Keeps What is Left of the Goods. You see why, don't you? We can't use a broken package of goods; that isn't it. We want her to have it. She'll find-out her mistake.

The Goods are Good; They are the Best Salesmen We've Got.

When taken systematically and for any period of time. It is not a "cure-all," but has given uniform satisfaction for over forty years, being designed for the single purpose of curing woman's peculiar ailments.

OREGON INDUSTRY SHOWN Display at Commercial Club but Beginning of State Exhibit.

What everybody conceded to be the beginning of an era of co-operation between the manufacturers and consumers of Oregon was inaugurated yesterday by the opening of the Oregon Industry Exhibit in the Commercial Club. The Ad Club Home Industry Department, with Frederick T. Hyskell as chairman, prepared the exhibit. The opening ceremonies yesterday Mr. Hyskell delivered the keynote of the exhibit to R. W. Raymond, of the Manufacturers' Association. The Manufacturers' Association will coordinate the upbuilding of the exhibit until it represents all the industries of Oregon.

"Yes," agreed grandmother. "But some women can't glimpse that. They see only themselves decked out in jewelry and a social leader, that is all in life that they want. And they greedily demand and take whatever will help them achieve this end. And their poor husbands, who have no real pleasure in them, and so I say, though he be weak and his act not to be condoned, the woman's life is the more unworthy of the two."

"And I think of the two I would rather be the man who would do such a thing than the woman who would ask it. But I think it is pity women will so misuse their power."

Mix the Breakfast Biscuits the Night Before

Set Them Away in a Cool Place and Bake them Fresh in the Morning

If the family do not all eat breakfast together, you can bake a few at a time. If you are having hot biscuits for supper, mix and cut out enough more for breakfast. They will be much nicer freshly baked than warmed over.

Of course you can't do this very successfully with sour milk and soda or with any of the old-fashioned, single acting baking powders, but this convenient way of making hot biscuits and muffins for breakfast is entirely satisfactory if you use which is really a blend of two baking powders, one of which begins to give off leavening gas as soon as moisture is added. The other is inactive until heat is applied. The dough will remain in a partly leavened condition for hours and when put in the oven will come up just as light and fluffy as if freshly mixed.

Get a can of K C today and try this easy way of baking biscuits at once. You'll never go back to the old way.
