ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS 'EXPLAIN' FEMINISM

Dictionary Failing, Association Publishes Views of Extreme Opposition.

DOCTRINE IS CRITICISED

Opposition to Wedding Ring, "Voluntary" Motherhood and Preference for Girl Babies Quoted as Specimen Beliefs.

WASHINGTON, May 24 .- (Special.)-Following its presentation of the "Gallery of Feminists" a week ago, the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage today issued a statement in which an effort is made to explain which an effort is made to explain "what feminism is."

"We have received innumerable inquiries as to the real meaning of feminism." say the anti-suffragists. "and with the inquiries there has been coupled the complaint that no dictionary offers a satisfactory definition of this peculiar creed and its followers. The feminists have outstripped the dictionaries. The only way to define a feminist is to quote what might be called the leading authorities on the subject: Criticism of St. Paul Quoted.

"Edna Kenton, a famous suffragist has declared: Nothing invented of man has ever had a more stuitifying effect upon the character and morals of women and of men than the Christian ideal which St. Faul laid down for ression of their innate mother love.'

"Inex Milholland Boiszváin, who has adorned many suffrage parades with her inimitable horseback pose, said soon after her marriage, according to newspaper reports: 'Wedding rings are relics of barbarism, They are relics of the day when women were men's chattels, I should feel like a slave instead of a free woman if I were to wear a wedding ring.'

"Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, mother of the Congressional Union, has shed this light on feminism: Human beings believe their duty is far outside of merely being mothers; even a kitten could be a mother."

"Only Girl Bables" Thought Delights. Coffin Borne Through Tokio "In discussing the ideals and phases of feminism, some of its advocates supply a touch of humor. Dr. Annie Yates, in a suffrage meeting in Cincinnati, expressed her delight because of the alleged discovery of a scientist who claimed ability to determine the law of sex: When this becomes generally known, she asserted, women can bear only girl bables."

"It seems to this organization that ms to this organization that the above definitions, contributed by the stars of feminism, are sufficient to give to the public a clear idea of the outrageous doctrines and the hurtful views wrapped up in the term, Temin-ism, as it is used by those feminist-suffragists who are advocating their belief in various parts of the country."

Associate and Widow of Dead Ma Tell of His Cheerful Nature and Declare Self - Destruction Entirely Improbable.

That R. Lynn Townsend, whose body was found under the North Pacific umber Company's dock late Saturday, was murdered for less than $3, which he had in his pockets when last seen is the opinion of C. Hammond, his part ner in an extract business, who say him shortly before his death. Mrs. Lillie Townsend, who came to Portland yesterday and positively identified the body, is of the same opinion.
"When I left him at First and Madion streets Friday night a week ago he had less than $3 in his pockets no he had less than $3 in his pockets, no valuables to speak of, and no conspicuous jewelry. I think that someone, believing from his good clothes and prosperous appearance, that he had money, killed him and threw the body into the river," said Mr. Hammond last night, in his roms at the Noren Apartments, 305½ Grand avenue.

Murder Theory Accepted.

Mrs. Townsend, who is staying with Mr. Hammond and his wife until the arrival of J. E. Walling, Mrs. Townsends father, from Marshfield, concurred. "When he left me at Hillsboro ihe day before he disappeared he was happy and light-hearted, and his last word was a joke, as he swung his two suitcases and nurried away," she said. "There is no possible ground for any other supposition than that of murder. He had no troubles, and was always light-heated and cheerful."

"We had been down town together Friday night," said Mr. Hammond, "and at First and Madison streets, when we was."

United States.

Jack Carskadden, in whom the Eugene Country Club placed its hopes, out-putted the former champion, not sacrificing a stroke on the green. Egan lost three puts, although in the first nine holes a feature of his playing was his deliberate, unerring accuracy with his putting iron.

In the second round Egan apparently played a loss deliberate game. Once when he missed a close putt, he nicked within a few feet of the Winchester fishway and that thousands of salmon were trapped and taken from the stream.

It is understood that the case will be presented to the grand jury tomorrow.
