

Former Adviser to State Department Says Practice in 1794 Was Better.

BRYAN TREATIES FAVORED

Man Who Stirred Capital by Resignation Makes No Criticism of Former Chief in Opening Lake Mohonk Meeting.

MOHONK LAKE, N. T., May 27,-John Bassett Moore, presiding at the opening session of the 20th annual Lake Mohonk Conference on Interna-tional Arbitration here today, declared that existing arbitration treaties were backward steps. As far back as 1794 he found the United States and Great Britain admitting to arbitration in a sweeping manner certain points which would be subject to exception or re-striction under the treaty with Great Britain today. MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., May 27 .-Britain today.

Britain today. "As we are somewhat prone to boast of leading the van in the cause of peace, it may be worth our while to consider," he said, "whether we should not occupy a position more advanced than that which we now hold if we were to go back to the practices we adopted 150 years ago."

Pending Treatles Show Advance.

Pending Treaties Show Advance. Mr. Moore, whose resignation last March from the high office of coun-sellor of the State Department stirred Washington, made no attack on the policies of his former chief. He spoke faborably of the pending "Bryan peace irreaties." treaties.

"In all," he said, "15 treaties based on the 'peace plan' have been signed. It is understood that none of the agreements understood that none of the agreements thus described has been submitted to the Senate, so that their fate cannot as yet be foretold; but it may be re-marked that, with the exception of a simil number of all-inclusive treaties of arbitration, they represent an ad-vance beyond previous arrangements in that they propose to submit to investi-gation all questions in dispute, of every may fail to adjust. They do not bind the parties to arbitration, but expressly reserve to them independence of action after the report of the commission shall have been submitted."

Offer of Mediation Momentous.

He referred to the "A B C mediation" now goin gon, saying: "Prior to The Hague convention the tender of good offices or mediation without solicitation or consultation was usually regarded as savoring of un-justifiable interference. By that con-vention it was declared that 'powers, strangers to the dispute have the right vention it was declared that 'powers, strangers to the dispute, have the right to offer sood offices or mediation, even during the course of hostilities,' and that the exercise of this right could never be regarded by the parties to the conflict as 'an unfriendly act.' This application paved the way for the ten-der of good offices or mediation made by the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil or Chile, at Washing-ton after hostilities were begun at ton after hostilities were begun at eVra Cruz. The offer was accepted. No matter what may be its present result, it is a remarkable event in the history of international relations in the West-ern Hemisphere." John A. Stewart, of New York, chair
