BY ROSCOE FAWCETT. Renewing that ancient bad blood feud that began back in 1909, Portland welcomed Sacramento inside the walls yesterday and then proceeded to heap all manner of indignities upon almost the entire Solon pitching corps.

The score was: Portland 17, Sacra-The Beavers hit Pitchers Gill, Arellanes, Kremer and Coiwell with reck-less abandon. Manager Wolverton finally became so disgusted that he greased up his own squeaky hinges and, despite the jovial joshing of 2500 opening-day fans, sailed out to the pitching hill and put a quietus to the Portland spilled enough ammunition before Harry's arrival, however, to win a series. Included in the symposium were home runs over the rightfield fence by Lober and Buddy Ryan.

Mazie King Equals Meck's Record. There were various ceremonies be-fore the battle. First, W. W. Metzger made a speech and then Mazle King was led into the arena. Miss King, who is built along Venus de Milo proportions, but who can feed herself, is a toe dancer with "The Passing Show of 1913," at the Heilig, Amidst the clicking of motion-picture machines, Maxie "toed" around the bases in the remarkable fast time of 28 4-5 seconds. Immediately after the King girl had finished advertising William Pangle's popular playhouse. Portland began hammering the ball. Apparently the boys had had their eyes opened. Bang. biff, bloop, gabumpf began the heavy artillery and before Southpaw Gill, a heavy-set busher, could adjust him-self, he was hoisted off the hill in the fourth inning.

Meanwhile the Solon infielders were doing their own toe dance at jewelry prices. Every time one of them looked away from the row of chorus girls in the front boxes, he saw a white streak shoot by his ear—and ducked. Either that, or he got one fin on the ball and threw the ball over somebody's head. It was baseball as she is played in

Two Pitchers Last Quick. Arellanes relieved Gill and he lasted until five runs had clicked upon him in the sixth inning. Lober put the Spaniard to rout with a homer, scoring two. Notes of the Game.

"Silde!" "Slide!" the bleacherites shrieked at Miss King as she lightly pranced around the hassocks on tiptoe. But Mazie kept right along, remembering the story of the hare and tortoise, and the moving picture men recied off 18,777 feet of film.

Hans Lobert holds the world's record for circling the bases. Lobert's time was 13 4-5 seconds, made in 1910 at Cincinnati. But Hans, doubtiess, was doing it on his heels and not on his toes.

Soethpaw Gill was picked up by Wolverton from Woodland, Cal. He walked three men in the third tuning, one of his walks forcing the first run of the game across the plate.

Kid Mohier executed one of the most brilliant plays of the season in the fifth inning. Yantz hit a grounder over second, and, while the "Kid" reached it, he knew there was little use in throwing to first. Quick as a fash the veteran turned and pegged to third base instead, catching Lober by surprise as he rounded the bag.
