Evidence Already in Indicates Neglect of Duty on Part of Men Aboard W. S. Mason in Letting Two Men Drown.

Mayor Albee, Commissioner Daly, Chief Dowell, of the Fire Bureau, and the crew of the ferryboat W. S. Mason will be called today to testify in the Coroner's inquest on the deaths of Alexander Balogb and William Sterling, who were drowned in trying to escape from the fire at the Northwest Door Company's mill last Wednesday. It is expected that the officials will be examined chiefly as to the precau-tions taken by the city to avoid a repe-tition of the dock fire of last March while the crew of the ferryboat will be given an opportunity to tell their side of charges that they failed to Evidence given by various witnesses

Witnesses called to testify as to the danger of fire from the burning heaps of grain on the Montgomery and Columbia No. 1 docks have brought out the fact that frequently the fire has assumed dangerous proportions and threatened the door factory. Two witnesses testified as to the permission given employes of Allen & Lewis by Mayor Albee to burn the grain where it lay, and Michael Laudenklos, assistant chief of the Fire Department, told of official conferences on the fire danger.

Pickford in "Tess of the Storm Country," which returned to the People's Theater for a four days' run.

This film, which is one of the best that has yet been shown in a local theater, was most successful when here for one week at the People's a month ago. It was by the request of the hundreds of admirers of Mary Pickford that it is again being shown.

The plot is woven about a squatter's daughter, uncouth and uneducated, who did her best to save the daughter of her wealthy neighbor from disgrace. The whole play is full of pathes and smiles. Little Mary, the inimitable artist with her charming smile and wealth of curly hair, plays the part of Tess as perhaps no other could play it.

This will be shown until Thursday only, when a blended show will be offered.

HONOR is the keynote in a two-part Majestic drama of the Civil War entitled "The Soul of Honor," which headlines the bill opening yesterday at the Columbia. Mr. Reid also was interested in rall-road projects. He was agent here of the Portland & Oregon North Coast Railroad, a projected line.
