At the residence of Frank T. Dallam, of Groville, Wash., on the Canadian boundary, a wedding of interest took place Wednesday, June 10, when Lair F. Gregory, of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Katharine Elizabeth Dellam. The wedding service was performed by the Rev. Mr. Severance, of the Episcopal Church. The wedding was a quiet one. Miss Dallam is the daughter of Frank H. Dallam, a well-known newspaperman of the old school, founder of the Spokane Spokesman-Review, and who at present is editor of the Oroville (Wash.) Gazette. Mr. Gregory is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Gregory and is a well-known newspaperman of this city on the staff of The Oregonian. He is a student of both the University of Oregon and of the University of Washington. He was editor of the "Midnight Doughnut" at Oregon, and of the "Washingtonian" at Washington. He is a Sigma Alpha Epsilon man. Miss Dallam is also of Washington, a graduate of last June, and is one of the Kappa Alpha Beta Sorority.

A musical programme will be given at the home of Mrs. Fletcher Linn on Saturday afternoon by the Harmonia Club of Pi Beta Phi, when they will entertain the local Pan Hellenic. Those who will give the programme are Mrs. Linn, Mrs. McCounin, Miss Mabel Riggs and John Claire Monteith. Following the musical Mrs. Linn will be assisted in service by the members of the sorority. All members of college sororities who are home for the summer are invited to attend and to affiliate with the Pan Hellenic.

Mrs. Joseph L. Stafford will entertain this afternoon with an informal bridge party with an informal dinner. Her guests are Mrs. Bruce Brier, of Seattle, who is passing Rose Festival week in the city.

The Gill cottage at Seaside is making merry with a Reed College house party. Miss Elsa Gill is entertaining a group of her Junior classmates for the fortnight, and all the gaieties of beach life are being indulged in. The guests are Misses Ada McCown, Gladys Lowden, Dorothy Walton, Helen Walton, Margaret Creech. Mrs. John Gill is chaperoning the party.

Among the Oregon Agricultural College students who have returned home for the summer vacation are John Bakstrom, Wallace Kaddery and Howard Woodburn.

Richard Carter Wariner will leave for San Francisco on the Steamer Rose City June 16.

Mr. Wariner will attend the California State Association of the Revolution, Sacramento June 19-20, and will take in the sights of the Bay City, returning to Portland about the last of June. As president of the Portland Latin-drymen's Club he also will deliver an address before the California association on the effect of the minimum wage legislation.

William A. Ristanpast and party of five motored from San Francisco to Portland to attend the Rose Festival. The party is stopping at the Stelway apartments.

Mrs. N. Loeb and daughters will be at home to friends next Sunday afternoon, at 702 Marshall street, to meet Mrs. B. Loeb, of San Francisco.

FLAG DAY will be observed in Portland this year with more than ordinary interest. Through the efforts of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Multnomah chapter, the attention of the public, the schools and the business houses has been called to the day.

At the Patton Home, today, Willamette Chapter will present the institution with a large American flag. Appropriate exercises will be held. Tomorrow, in the churches many of the pastors will pay tribute to the flag.

The general public will observe Flag day on Monday and Multnomah Chapter will hold a meeting with a special programme.

To instill into the minds and hearts of the children love and respect for the flag has been the especial desire of the Daughters of the American Revolution to stand when they play the Star-Spangled Banner. It is played and to refrain from desecrating the flag in any way. Mrs. Isaac LeP. Patterson is regent of Multnomah Chapter. Mrs. Mary Beckwith is chairman of the school committee. Mrs. J. H. Bagley is regent of Willamette Chapter.

The National organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution is planning to hold a big celebration in Baltimore on September 14, which will be the 100th anniversary of the writing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by Francis Scott Key.

The regular meeting of Ecclesia Circle, of the First Christian Church, was held at the home of Mrs. Wood and daughter, Mrs. Addams, 415 Eugene street, Thursday at 2:30 o'clock.

This circle has a membership of 43 of which 35 were present.

The meeting opened with devotional services, led by Mrs. J. C. Anderson, following which the business of the day was transacted. The programme consisted of a short parliamentary drill conducted by the president, Mrs. Frank Nase.

Mrs. James McMenamin played the following violin numbers, which were enthusiastically received: "Souvenir" (Dvorak), "Minuet" (Beethoven), "Traumerli" (Schuman).

Mrs. G. Everett Baker was the accompanist.

NEW YORK WOMAN WEARS MAGNIFICENT DRESS AT AMERICAN BALL IN PARIS.

Mrs. Marjory Schaeffel Wearing Charming Gown. Underwood Photo

Mrs. Marjory Schaeffel, of New York, wore a strikingly beautiful Parisian gown at the American ball in the Hotel Majestic, Paris, May 23, 1914. Mrs. Schaeffel was stopping at the Hotel Ritz until a few weeks ago, when she took up a private residence for which she is paying the rate of $20,000 a year. She will remain in Paris until the end of June, when she expects to return to New York.

Picture taken, wear one notable for its picturesqueness rather than its style. Don't dress in clothes recommended by their modishness or fussiness. You know, one you give out your photographs, they become the possession of those to whom you give them, and you go down in history in their collections, or on their walls in the costume worn when the photograph is taken.

If you doubt that today's styles will wear your hair simply, yesterday's will look ridiculous. Hunt up if you can some photograph taken in 1909. The fashions then were extremely sensible, to be sure, the gored skirts, the shirtwaists, the stiff collars and heavy leather belts, and the small hats, but they don't seem quite the thing now. Or, to go back, find a picture of the Gibson style, with bishop sleeves, pompadour hair arrangement and all that went with these styles, would not look as pretty as something along semi-classic lines.

So, when you have your pictures made, wear your hair simply, with simple ornaments, and see that the lines of your gown follow your figure rather than fashion.

Little Discussions OF Love and Marriage BY BARBARA BOYD.

The Sympathetic Stenographer.

"I SNT it strange how many men, widowers at that, too, marry the stenographers?" said the Frivolous Young Thing. "Just within the past few months, I know of at least half a dozen who have done it."

"It seems to me more a matter of propinquity, or not thinking very deeply about the matter at all. Several of these men have been rather distinguished in their special lines. One was an author of a note, another a scientist and a third a man at the head of a big corporation. Fancy men of that sort marrying their stenographers?"

"That just proves my point," replied the Common-sense Woman. "These men are thinkers. They see in a big way. And so they realize what it means to have in a wife a woman who understands their work who enters into it, who can help really help. And the fact that it is their second marriage that is of this kind is only another proof of the fact that the men in question, but perhaps their first wives, though very charming women, knew very little of the professional or business interests of their husbands, which, after all, are a tremendous part of a man's life. And when they found a woman who did, who was almost as absorbed in it as they were themselves, I tell you it went right to their hearts."

"But one doesn't usually think of stenographers as being the equal of men of that sort," objected the Frivolous Young Thing.

"The stenographer of men of that sort is usually an exceptional woman. She has to be to hold her job. I tell you it takes brains and patience and endurance and tact and a good many other fine qualities to be a good stenographer. And when a man finds a woman with these traits and then adds to them a keen interest in his business, it doesn't take him long to work up a warm admiration for her. I think the fact that men are more and more marrying their stenographers shows that they want this interest and co-operation in their affairs on the part of their wives, and also that they are glad to absorb in it as they were themselves, I tell you it went right to their hearts."

"We'll pray Pegasus that it won't have to be at Child's."

Meadows, the handsome youth at Marian's side, had grown moody with several glasses of wine, and save for scraps of conversation with Marian, was latterly taking little part in the general conversation, which was bounding like a cork along the surface of the evening. Despite his slightly pug nose, Marian thought Meadows handsome; his attractive distinction lay to a great extent in his pose, his graceful legs, his graceful build, his finely modeled hand, his grooming. Marian was drawn to him by far more than to the other men present the more she saw of him, the publisher, the less she was interested in him.

Marian had touched her glasses of wine but to a scant extent. "Drink up," Shurtleff frequently urged her. "Get into the game, why don't you?" he inquired.

The poet, overhearing one of these remarks, paused in his discussion of canned drama and said: "Let her alone, you tipsy publisher." He added that he himself proposed one of these days to eschew the goblet, and quoted a number of stanzas from Le Galliene's "Omar Repentant."

Practically the publisher got an idea for a story. Learning confidentially toward Marian, he began unfolding the plot. The alcoholic whiffs of the other's greater of the evening, he thought she listened with cool indifference to what he had to say. Finally, in an apparent effort to arouse her enthusiasm for the plot, he reached over and took her hand. She promptly withdrew hers, filled with an intense objection to having him touch her.

Grateful for the curt command, Marian turned to Shurtleff and said: "You're right, whereupon he turned to Mrs. Walther and began unfolding the plot to her. The other woman agreed to write the tale, to which the publisher responded: "You're on."

"Shurt has an idea that he's a regular whale at framing up plots for stories," Meadows volunteered in a low tone, and then, "if you value your time, don't act on any of his suggestions. Old Gilisly is the brains of his magazine. It's wise to humor this chap, and then you'll please. Gilisly knows good stuff."

Shop-talk flowed on, and Marian felt more and more like a full-fledged recruit in the army of New York's writers as the curious, unconventional evening wore on.

DANIEL S. KAIN IS DEAD

Promoter for Alaskan Mine and Trade Falls Victim at Long Beach.

Word was received in Portland some days ago of the death of Daniel S. Kain at his home in Long Beach, Cal. At the time of his death he was president of the Long Beach Tuna Club. He was 52 years old and is survived by four brothers, one of whom, J. H. Kain, lives in Medford, Or.

Sixteen years ago he organized a company in Long Beach, and following the Yukon excitement, went into the Copper River section in Alaska, where they developed a mine, which they afterward sold for $1,100,000. During the several years in which it was in a promotion stage Mr. Kain and his associates made considerable work in endeavoring to interest the mercantile life of Portland in the Alaskan trade.

He was born in Iowa, but came as a boy to Marion County and lived there until the first Alaskan excitement in the 90s.

PIONEER OF 1853 PASSES

Mrs. Priscilla M. Daly, Aged 75, Dies in Forest Grove.

Mrs. Priscilla M. Daly, widow of W. A. Daly, an Oregon pioneer of 1853, died of valvular heart disease Thursday at Forest Grove. She was 75 years of age. Her husband died in 1911. Her funeral services will be held today at 2 P. M. from the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. S. Polhemus, 425 East Couch street. Interment will be in Riverview cemetery.

Mrs. Daly was born in Peoria, Ill., October 23, 1839. In 1853 she crossed the plains, coming directly to Portland. She made her home here until four years ago, when she moved to Forest Grove. On her 18th birthday she married W. A. Daly, who died 21 years ago. Mrs. Daly was a member of Trinity Episcopal church, and was a member of the Women's Club of Forest Grove. She is survived by a son, F. A. Daly, 429 East Twelfth street, North, and a daughter, Mrs. J. S. Polhemus.

WOMEN ACCUSED OF THEFT

Mother, Daughter and Man Arrested on Soldier's Complaint.

Marie Wilson, of 285 1/2 First street, her daughter, Mrs. Sallie Thompson, and William Massey, ex-soldier, were arrested by Detectives Coleman, Snow, Keoke and Royal yesterday, for the alleged theft of $120 from George M. Keoke, a soldier, yesterday afternoon. Dr. Russell says: "I don't know who stole the money, but I think it was the women, and after an evening spent in seeing the sights, he found himself minus his money. When Mrs. Wilson sent her daughter to the rooming-house to get her clothes, the detectives arrested the younger woman, and later the two other women."

DR. WHITE GOES TO MEET

State Health Officer Will Deliver Two Lectures While in East.

Dr. Calvin S. White, secretary of the State Board of Health, left last night for New York City, to attend the conference of the National and Provincial Boards of Health, which convene there next week. The health officers of all the states of the Union will hold another conference in Washington at the same time.

The health officers from the West will confer with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs concerning the regulations for the health of the Indians.

FESTIVAL FILMS SHOWN

Mayor Albee, Queen Thelma and Others Guests at Columbia Theater.

Mayor Albee, Mrs. Albee, Queen Thelma and all her maids, H. L. Pittock, W. L. Hofmann, Robert Kröhn and about 50 Royal Rosarians and others who made such a success of the Rose Festival, which ended last night, were the guests of the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon to witness the official moving pictures of the Rose Festival, which are being shown in this theater.

This is said to be one of the most wonderful films of moving pictures ever taken of a Rose Festival in this city. Practically every feature of the Festival is shown, from the time it started on Tuesday until it ended last night. It shows views of the landing of Queen Thelma in this city last Tuesday, the parade and coronation ceremonies which followed, the drill of the school children in Peninsula Park, the water carnival, the floral parade of Wednesday, the rosebud parade held Thursday on the East Side, in which 5000 public school children participated; the ball, the procession, the mammoth civic and military parade of yesterday, the crowds and many of the other features of the past week.

By special arrangement the pictures of the Festival will be shown in the Columbia until next Tuesday night.

ALLEGED YEGGS ARE HELD

Detectives Get Five They Think Are Members of Safe-Cracking Gang.

James Gill, Frank Warren, John Malone, Henry Apperman and Joe Hawley, said by the police to be members of a typical begging and bogus jewelry-selling gang, were arrested by Detectives Wednesday, the rosebud parade afternoon.

On the persons of Gill and Hawley, who are thought to be old-time yeggmen, were found books containing the best places in Portland and San Francisco to get tools for safe-cracking jobs.

They are believed to have arrived in Portland from San Francisco, stopping a while in Albany. From their papers and talk the detectives think they are a party of yeggs who came to rob Portland homes during the Festival, but arrived somewhat late.

COOS BRIDGE SOON TO RISE

Engineer Broughton Already on Ground for Preliminary Work.

NORTH BEND, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—The Willamette Pacific Railway bridge across Coos Bay is to be started not later than July 1, according to C. R. Broughton, the company's bridge engineer, who is here laying out his plans for preliminary arrangements.

Four bridge engineers will arrive tomorrow from San Francisco on the Redondo and a crew for pile-driving came today on the Nann Smith.

The bridge here is to be over a mile in length, including the approaches and grades. Mr. Broughton is opening offices in the First National Bank building in this city, and says things will be going fast within the coming month. The engineers, it is said, will work from these offices and oversee the bridge building on the Umpqua and Siuslaw rivers as well as the local bridge.

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Exponent of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill. Helpful Cake Making Hints. Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes. To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing. Always use K C Baking Powder. Biscuit Helps. Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir up with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board. With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C.
